IF LIFE'S A STAGE.

BY T. C. HARBAUGH.

If life's but a stage, where we're acting our parts,
May ever the curtain go up on gay hearts;
Let the scenes be as bright as the skies are at noon,
And the orchestra give us its merriest tune.
Why darken the play with a sorrow or care,
And add to the weight of the burdens we bear?
For life is a span and the curtain comes down
On the tear of the stage and the smirk of the clown.

We open the play when youth's pulses beat high,
And loud is our laughter and bright is the eye;
Then Romeo's step is as light as the fawn's,
And Juliet's smile is as sweet as the dawn's.
Too soon flit the parts which in childhood we play,
But Mem'ry enshrines them fore'er and a day;
Aye, back from the past comes the sunshine of bliss,
And youth is renewed in the dream of a kiss.

That swift to the ocean the tide ever flows
The noonday of life in its sterner parts knows;
And the roles that we play, be they mighty or less,
Are brightened, I wot, by a heartfelt caress.
Add pleasure and zest to the drama of life;
The prompter stands ready to give us the cue,
And the world will applaud if we're earnest and true.

If life's but a stage let us brighten each part
With a glow and a fervor that gladden the heart;
If shadows will come and the dull, plashing rain,
Make haste to bring forward the sunshine again.
The curtain will fall when the drama is o'er,
The actor who pleases will please nevermore;
But the rays that we shed from the heart love will crown
Long after the curtain grim death has run down.

HIS DOUBLE VENGEANCE.

BY MARK MEREDITH.

IT WAS in the good old days when combinations were unknown, and every large city in the United States boasted a company fit to support any star before any audience anywhere, that I first met Leslie Melvin. He was the jeune premier of the Halcyon Theatre Company, in Chicago, of which I was treasurer.

He might have been about twenty-five years of age at the time—it was in the early seventies—and as handsome as God makes young fellows who are tall, well proportioned, carry their heads gracefully poised on the neck of an Apollo, and who look at you through those large hazel eyes, full of that languid light which we are wont to associate with the children of sunny climes.

Old Granby, our stage manager, was smitten on Melvin's style. He often declared that he was willing to match Leslie Melvin against any man on the boards as a "trousers actor." Of course you don't understand what that means. It means a man who can both look and dress the society gent on the stage, and the fit and wearing of their trousers give society actors, especially juvenile leads, more trouble than all the rest of their wardrobe. Hence the expression.

Melvin was a strange character. He had plenty of associates but few intimates. He had a good salary as salaries went, but he lived high and was always pulling my leg in the box office after the Wednesday matinee. That was how we came to be somewhat more than usually good friends, but the man who was closest to him was Harry Morton. Morton was the dramatic and musical critic of one of the big Chicago dailies. The tie between them was that they were both English, and you know how chummy the English become when they find themselves in another country.

Morton was a fine, handsome, soldierly looking fellow, and carried himself as upright as though he had been fed on ramrods. Indeed, it was known that he had been a British cavalry officer and had served in India, but why he had left the service he never said, nor did anyone care to inquire. He was an accomplished linguist, speaking French, Italian and German fluently, a good musician, a delightful conversationalist, and by big odds the best critic on the city press.

Morton did not make the mistake, so common with the callow youngsters who go by the name these days, of believing that he knew it all. He followed a method, which I heard him describe to Melvin one afternoon as we were having a few quiet "quenchers" in the old Tunnel on La Salle Street, opposite the Court House.

"When I want to write a critique of a play," he said, "I always see that play out, except it be utter rot. During the entr'acts I mix with the people in the foyer, and thus I find out how it strikes the average theatregoer and first nighter. Then my friend Melvin, here, or some equally good judge, tells me how it appeals to the artists who have to make or mar it. From all this material and from my own inner consciousness I grind out the stuff. So many people, comprising, most important of all, the editor who pays for it, are pleased to call it clever."

Melvin was married, but his wife was not in the "profesh." He never told us why; but it was understood that he had married her when she was an attractive barmaid at the Chester Railway refreshment station in England, and that she had no talent for the stage, even if she had any aspirations that way. She was a pretty little blonde and used to come to the Halcyon Theatre at nights to see her husband act. On those occasions her escort was always Harry Morton. There were some among us who hardly liked this—seemed to much like playing with fire. Had too much of the Frou Frou air about it to come to good. It was none of our business anyway, so we kept what we thought to ourselves.

After the show Mrs. Melvin, with her escort, would come 'round to the stage door to meet her husband, and the trio would go off to a restaurant in the neighborhood for supper. She was a petite blonde with very light hair—not bleached, but natural. She was as merry as a cricket, and all the stage hands liked her, for she had ever a good word and a merry smile for us all.

The Summer came on and the theatre was dark. The stock company had to take a vacation, much to the disgust of the members, who found themselves in debt at the close of the season and with but a few dollars of ready money in their pockets. Why are actors who know that they have but a small salary to live on so extravagant? We people in front of the house always look out for the rainy day. Why, I could tell you stories of the imprudence of professionals in general which would make the hair stand on your head; but, as Rudyard Kipling says, "that's another story."

Well, Melvin took his doll like wife down to Milwaukee for the Summer, and when the theatre reopened in the Fall he came back the handsomest looking and most happy man alive. His wife had presented him in the interval with a baby boy, and the coming of the youngster seemed to have almost transfigured him. Where he used to stand aloof, he became familiar. An allusion to the baby made him feel prouder than a canary bird with an extra allowance of sugar—altogether a changed man. Harry Morton and he were still inseparable, and so it came to pass that when the baby came to be christened the boy was called Harry, and Morton stood for godfather.

About the close of the season Melvin severed his connection with the Halcyon and went to San Francisco, to join one of the stock companies there. He told me, laughingly, that now that he had a family to provide for he had to work harder, and that in San Francisco there was no "resting," the theatres keeping open the whole year 'round.

A few months after Melvin and his wife, with the baby, had left for the city by the Golden Gate I was surprised to learn that Harry Morton was to follow them, he having secured a position on one of the principal papers there.

For over a year I heard nothing more, and in theatrical circles no one is surprised if men drop out of sight for a year or so. One morning, however, the whole country was shocked reading of the mysterious murder of Harry Morton at Napa Springs, a fashionable resort for the "four hundred" of San Francisco.

The details of the tragedy were meagre enough. Harry had been staying at a friend's house in the suburbs of the town, and about 11 o'clock on the night of his murder he was engaged playing cards with his host and some friends in the parlor. This parlor opened on a wide hallway. There was no light in the hallway save what was afforded by the door of the parlor being open. This threw whoever came out of the parlor into the full view of anyone standing near the hall door, which opened, after the California fashion, on a broad veranda, leaving the latter completely hidden in the shadow.

As well as the facts of the killing could be gathered from the incoherent account of a Chinese servant they were simple enough, but threw no light on the identity of the murderer.

Ah Fong testified, in substance, before the coroner's jury, that about 11 o'clock he heard the door bell ring, and on opening the door he encountered a tall man, wearing a slouched hat, pulled over his face, and covered by a long linen duster, standing on the stoop.

He asked to see Mr. Morton for a minute. The Chinaman delivered the message. Morton wanted to know who it was, but all he could get out of the Celestial was, "No sabe." In anger Morton threw down his cards and stepped into the hall to find out for himself who had come to visit him.

As he stepped out fully revealed in the light there came some hissing words, the meaning of which Ah Fong did not understand, followed almost immediately by a pistol shot, and one only. But it had done its work. Morton turned, staggered toward the parlor door, wildly clutched at the air and fell headlong into the room, shot dead through the heart!

The first shock over, a thorough search was made of the grounds, word was sent to the sheriff, and the people of the country scoured to find the assassin, but without avail. A few tramps were arrested on suspicion, and I think there was one horse thief lynched on general principles. Then things quieted down, for in California, as the Spanish say, one nail always knocks out another, and the dead man killed yesterday is forgotten in the excitement over the man killed today.

Well, they brought Morton's body down to the Bay and he was buried in Lone Mountain, with newspapermen and actors for his pall bearers. The chief pall bearer was Leslie Melvin, as was natural enough. His wife was so prostrated that she had not the courage to attend the funeral services, which were held at that little church on Mission Street, opposite New Montgomery. Indeed, so nervous was she that a doctor had to be called in, but Leslie made light enough of it.

"Poor little woman," he exclaimed, "they were such dear friends, and great as has been the shock to me, what must it have been to that little child wife of mine?"

There were some who thought that they detected a suspicion of a sneer in all this, but then you know we are all more prone to think evil than to imagine good.

Those who were members of poor John McCullough's California Theatre Stock Company at the time told me that nothing could equal, in outer appearance, Leslie Melvin's affectionate attentions to his wife after Morton's death. She never, however, went again to the theatre to come home with him when the show was over. She was ever at home, except on the odd occasions when he took her for a trip to the Cliff House.

He never, in any man's hearing, spoke a cruel word to her, yet in her eyes grew that hunted look, that unspeakable fear of some unknown horror.

She seemed to give herself up altogether to her boy, while he, the loving father, seemed to avoid the very sight of the little fellow, or, at least, to be careless of his very existence. For the matter of that, he became careless of himself. He, the ideal jeune premier, no longer dressed with his old time care, and would frequently miss his lines so badly that one artiste whom he was supporting complained that she had to give him his "cues" where she was almost audible to the audience.

Then came the climax. The boy called after the unfortunate Harry died of diphtheria, and the night the little light of life faded the father disappeared and left the mother alone with her dead.

Well, the local lodge of Elks buried the boy and made up a subscription for the mother sufficient to enable her to return to England and her friends, should she so desire.

But it seemed that she could not tear herself away from the grave of her little one in Lone Mountain. She would deck it with flowers, and then wander to the grave of her husband's friend, so cruelly murdered, and leave a few upon it also.

The unmistaken stamp of one not long for life was gradually set upon her, and day by day she slowly withered. In the Sisters' Hospital, to which she was removed toward the end, the physicians failed to arrive at a diagnosis of a satisfactory nature. The poor creature always seemed to be craving something, but what it was she was unable to define. Despite the best of care, she passed quietly away and was laid by her child. She never once asked for news of her husband; she even shuddered when his name was mentioned.

PART II.

About fifteen years had passed since Leslie Melvin had disappeared, and his doll like wife had been laid away to rest with her child. The whole thing was a faded memory to me when I found myself in London, with an American play of the Civil War time. The American war drama was making quite a hit in London a few years ago, and we played to very good business.

I was just counting the house one night, when a dirty little urchin handed in a note for me at the box office and disappeared. It contained but a few words traced in a trembling hand on half a sheet of notepaper. It read as follows, as well as I remember:

"I want to see you as soon as you get this. Come at once, or it may be too late. LESLIE MELVIN."

The letter was addressed from one of those third rate French hotels in Soho, near Leicester Square, frequented by foreigners very much, and by Englishmen very little.

I need hardly tell you I lost no time, and a short drive in a hansom brought me to the hotel. On inquiring for Melvin a chambermaid took me up to a small bedroom on the third floor. On the way up she volunteered the information that the poor gentleman was dying of a decline, and couldn't last long. She was glad he had some friend to come and see him before it was all over. I was too excited to pay attention to her gossip. When she pointed out the door I slipped a shilling into her hand, and she tripped down stairs. I knocked gently at the door, and a voice different from that of Melvin, told me to "come in." I pushed the door open and entered. A young man was mixing something in a glass at a small table near the window. He turned to me as I closed the door, and said in an explanatory tone: "I'm the doctor. Your friend is there on the bed, but too exhausted to speak much, and I'm mixing this draught to give him strength to tell you whatever he may have to say."

"Is there no hope?" I asked.

For a reply the young physician pointed to the table, on which were several bottles of malt extract and other liquid foods. "When it comes to that the jig is up. He knows it himself, and is not sorry to go."

I approached the bed. Upon it lay the form of a man in the last stage of consumption. His eyes were closed, and he was dozing from exhaustion. The skin was drawn so tightly over the features as to give the visage the appearance of a death's head. There was but little left to remind one of the dashing Leslie Melvin, of the Halcyon Theatre Company. As I gazed sorrowfully at the wreck of a once bright manhood he opened his eyes, which brightened with the look of recognition.

"Don't speak," cried the doctor, coming to his side. "Just drink this and rest a minute until you get your strength." The doctor held the glass to the dying man's lips, and returned it empty to the table. "He'll be strong enough to talk to you in a minute or two," he added, as he left the room, closing the door softly behind him.

"Take that chair and draw close to the bedside," said Melvin. "No matter what I say, do not ask me any questions, for I hardly know if my strength will hold out long enough for me to tell you all." He hesitated for a little while, as though to collect his thoughts, and continued:

"Of course you heard of the murder of Harry Morton; it was the talk of the country. Well, you needn't start; I killed him. It was no murder—it was but the wild justice of revenge. He had ruined my home and taken from me all that was worth living for. Had he had a thousand lives they would not have been enough to satiate my hate, nor his blood, though it flowed in rivers, to wash out my disgrace.

"Had I not been the fondest kind of fool I would have suspected that there was something wrong between my wife and Morton, even in the Chicago days, but I was blind as a bat and saw nothing.

"The fearful truth that I was a dishonored man came to me, as I believe it never came in such horror to man before. My wife had been on a visit to some friends over in Oakland and, as I was not on after the second act, instead of going down to Harry Grimms', as usual, not feeling well, I went straight to my rooms on Eddy Street and sat down to read. After reading for a little while I got tired and thought I would look over the pictures in the album. As I opened it a letter addressed to my wife dropped out. It was in Morton's writing and contained a photograph. The envelope had been opened, and I thought at the time that it was some portrait which Morton had sent my wife and which she had intended to put in the envelope but had forgotten. and opened the letter to save her the trouble.

"As I opened the letter the photograph dropped to the ground. I picked it up. God in Heaven, shall I ever forget that moment! It was the picture of the child, and on the back was written in Morton's bold hand: 'Our little Harry.'

"Madly I rushed from the house, determined that the man should die. I saw that a night train would start in a quarter of an hour. I remember getting on it, arriving at Napa, but it all seemed a dream. You read all the rest in the papers. The words that I uttered, and which the Chinaman could not understand, were simply these: 'I've brought you a message from our Harry.' I escaped in the darkness and confusion. Why? you will ask. Simply because she still lived. You know what Dumas says, 'Kill the adulteress.' I resolved that she should die, too."

"But you did not kill her? She died in an hospital."

"Yes I did." I shuddered as I listened, and commenced to think that his brain was wandering. After a pause he continued more feebly: "I laid my plan with consummate skill. I took up my home life, and, with the exception that I never mentioned Morton's name, and that I could not help avoiding any display of affection for the child of her shame, there was nothing to show my wife that I knew anything. But she suspected all. I had burned the picture and the letter, and what had become of it haunted her. I caught in her eyes at times a look of absolute terror, as though she thought she was married to a madman.

"But I must hurry, as I am gradually growing weaker. You know that there are several poisons that people can take until there is set up in the system such a condition that the sudden withdrawal of the poison means death. Clever physicians can, if they know the poison, cure the patient by gradually reducing the dose of the poison in about the same proportion that it was increased. Well, I poisoned my wife in this way. When I disappeared after the death of the boy I knew that she would die for the want of the poison in a short time and no one be the wiser. She did and my revenge was complete." He sank back on the pillows seemingly overcome with his emotion, while I shrunk from him with terror.

"Who she was does not matter," he added, in very weak tones. "She belonged to the lower order, and my marriage with her estranged me from my family in the beginning and blasted my life in the end. For myself, my real name and title is Sir Edwin —."

A violent fit of coughing cut short the sentence, the blood gushed from his half closed lips, the death rattle sounded in his throat, a convulsive tremor shook his frame and all was over.

I covered the corpse with the sheet and went down stairs.

TIPS IN AUSTRIAN CAFES.

The head waiter institution is among the odd customs of Austria. In every hotel, restaurant, cafe or other resort where food or drinks are sold there is a functionary who goes about among the guests, as they summon him with the word "bezahlen," and collects the pay for what they have drunk or eaten. Each man tips him to the extent of 5 or 10 per cent. of the bill. No other waiter can receive any money except as a personal tip.

The head waiter gets no salary for his services. On the contrary, he often pays the proprietor a good sum for the place. He is held responsible for everything—eatables, drinkables, crockery, glassware, silverware; in hotels, even for room rent, carriage hire and broken windows. His compensation comes from the tips, which sometimes amounts to many thousands of guldens a year (a gulden or florin is equivalent to 40 cents.

The proprietor of the leading hotel in Reichenberg came up from its head waiter, while one of the largest banking houses in Bohemia was founded by a former head waiter from his accumulated tips.

The possibility of gaining wealth in this profession rests on the public honesty. Guests in a restaurant or cafe pay when they have eaten or drunk to satiety. Often this is hours after they began. Summoned by "bezahlen," the head waiter produces a slip of paper, if the guest has consumed several different articles, and writes thereon what the latter says he has eaten and drunk, handing the slip to the guest as his bill.

The head waiter cannot possibly know in every case, or even in most cases, that the guest's statement is true. He has behind the scenes methods of checking up what has been served, but these cannot be used in every individual case of payment in a crowd.

A great music hall in Vienna illustrates the easy possibility of heavy loss under this system, through dishonest patrons. The place is furnished with many small tables. Some people take supper there. Everybody else at these tables drinks several glasses of beer, or a bottle of wine or mineral water. Near the close of the performance, the tables meantime having been generally cleared of dishes and bottles, the head waiter passes around on his collecting tour. Each of the hundred or more people tells what he has eaten or drunk. In accordance therewith, the collector fills out the customary slip.

No doubt there is in the kitchen a list of articles recorded against each table, but the head waiter does not carry this with him for reference, and it is not conceivable that he could commit it to memory before starting on his tour. There is, besides, nothing to prevent a dishonest person from leaving the hall before the head waiter appears. Between the numbers of the programme people are moving all about the place in and out of the lobby in crowds. Any person could walk away without paying his bill.

NOTHING THE MATTER.

A quietly dressed man, whose smooth shaven, bluish jaw gave him the aspect of an actor, walked into an uptown restaurant a few evenings ago and ordered quite a substantial meal. He ate leisurely, and at the end of the repast lit a cigarette. The waiter presented a check for $1.40.

"I have no money," said the stranger, pushing aside the slip.

"Sir!" said the astonished garcon.

The other repeated his statement and went on smoking.

The waiter hesitated a moment, then scurried across to the manager and whispered in his ear. The latter strode over to the table.

"The waiter's wrong; I said I had no money."

The manager began to lose his patience.

"So you came in here," said the manager finally, "and ordered a big meal, knowing you were broke and couldn't settle?"

"Well, what made you do it?" exclaimed the manager in a burst of asperation.

"Because I wanted the meal."

There was another pause.

"I'll have you arrested," said the manager.

"For what?"

"For obtaining goods under false pretenses."

"What pretense did I make?" asked the stranger, calmly.

"Oh, well, you can't come in and take our food that way!"

"Yes, I can—I've just done it," said the other, removing the ash from his cigarette.

"I'd rather lose the amount than have a disturbance," said the manager, "but I must say he's the coolest hand I ever struck."

In the excitement nobody noticed that the stranger had carried off his check. Half an hour later it came back in an envelope with $1.40 in silver. "It was a bet," was scrawled in pencil on the back.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

MAZIE KING,

The clever toe dancer, who has been doing a series of novel tricks with Gilmore & Leonard's Company the past few seasons, will be a feature of John F. Leonard's "Two Jolly Rovers" Co. next season. Among her other accomplishments she succeeds in jumping from a table to the floor on the tip of her toes, retaining her balance.

OUR LONDON LETTER.

So far as theatrical novelties are concerned this has been a quiet week in London, the trial matinee of a new comedy, and a fresh curtain raiser in front of "Why Smith Left Home," being all there is to chronicle here. As usual, the theatrical and variety professions were very well represented on Epsom Downs on the Derby Day, and, in fact, the vaudeville matinee at the Shaftesbury Avenue Theatre was canceled, so that "The Belle of New York" might go a holiday making with the beaux of London, and either take a foxey flyer on the favorite, or, if they had money to burn, burn it in the downfall of the French Holocauste. Four in hands were good enough for most of the well known people in both branches of the profession, but a good many went back to town by train, in order not to run the risk of being late, and I hear that very few disappointed their managers, or gave their understudies a show. J. W. Rowley, well known in the halls, has, by the way, been singing "Going to the Derby" for over thirty years, and he has given up keeping track of the number of times he has done so. At the end of twenty five years he says that he had sung it thirty-two thousand times, and needless to say he is letter perfect.

Considerable interest has been taken by the public in the controversy between the theatrical managers and those who direct the music halls over the question of the former taking steps to prevent the latter from producing dramatic "sketches," a form of entertainment that has enormously increased of late. The Theatrical Managers' Association has held several meetings to discuss the subject, and at the last, held June 1, with Edward Terry in the chair, they came to the conclusion that they would not oppose the halls so far as the sketches are concerned, although there is not the slightest doubt that the latter are breaking the law in presenting anything resembling a stage play. The theatrical men seem, however, to be disposed to appeal to the Lord Chamberlain for the right to allow smoking in the theatres, in order to equalize their rivalry with the halls, where, in a great many cases, the "sketches" are merely condensed editions of well known plays. This has, of course, given rise to an outburst of pro and con on the subject in the shape of interviews with managers of both the theatres and the halls, to say nothing of the public's rush to air its opinions on the topic in the newspapers. There are all shades of opinion, from the violently antagonistic to the hearty appeal for the right to smoke, and were the right granted by the authorities it would be a mere matter of policy with this manager or that as to whether he would introduce the privilege. In some theatres it would be madness to do so, while in others it might greatly assist the box office and go far towards materializing the weekly appearance of the ghost. I may quote as the popular view of the majority of the managers of both classes the opinion of Mr. Morton, of the Palace, and the dozen of the music hall managers, who said to a reporter in speaking of the theatre men's threat to introduce smoking in order to balance the scale against the sketches:

"It will make an interesting struggle, but if their complaint is that music halls produce stage plays, why don't they put the law into operation against us? During my career I have several times been fined for producing sketches played by two or more people. The law is quite plain in saying that anything on the lines of a representation of a stage play is illegal in a music hall. Why don't they prosecute us if they think we are acting improperly? We give sketches in spite of the law, but the theatrical managers have the law in their own hands, and yet take no action. They complain that we are poaching on their preserves, and instead of trying to stop us they say: 'Very well, if you copy us, we will copy you; if you have stage plays in your music halls, we will have smoking in our theares.' That is children's behavior. As far as I can see the threat of having smoking in theatres will do no harm to the music halls. People will always go where they like. I do not think that it is the prohibition of smoking that keeps people away from theatres, but bad plays and bad acting. Take, for instance, 'The Gay Lord Quex.' Do people stay away from the Globe because smoking is not allowed there? No, they go and see a good thing, as they always will, whether there is smoking or not. If you give them something to see the public will go anywhere." Mr. Morton concluded with the somewhat surprising statement: "The smoking and the drinking in a variety theatre now are not worth talking about. We are forbidden to supply drinks in the first place, but now we have almost no call for them. My view is, if the theatres want smoking let them have it, but if they do it out of revenge it is child's play."

Perhaps at the Palace the bars are not a very important factor in booming the receipts, but in many other halls they undoubtedly are. It must be remembered, too, that all the theatres have bars, and in most of them remarkably bad liquor at very high rates is the policy pursued by the persons who control them.

TERRY'S THEATRE.—"The Upper Hand," a new and original comedy, in three acts, by Charles Winthrop and Walter Leslie, produced at a trial matinee May 29. This play was originally announced as "The Whip Hand," but as another piece of that name is copyrighted the title was changed. It is rather smartly written and is well woven, but is not apt to make a decided success if exploited as a regular attraction in town. The story hinges on the villain, Philip Barwell, doing his misdeeds while posing as the hero, Charles Cheyne, among his rascalities being the seduction and desertion of a trusting maiden. As this same maiden tells the lady who is going to marry Cheyne of the seduction there is naturally trouble, but it all comes right when the wronged one meets Barwell and calls him Cheyne. A good company, including Fanny Brough and Sarah Brooke, did the play pretty full justice, and a large and friendly audience gave it a pleasant welceme.

STRAND THEATRE.—"Bob Bradshaw's Dream," a play, in one act, by B. W. Thomas, produced May 29, in front of "Why Smith Left Home." This is a new version of the old, old story of an elderly man thinking a young girl loves him, when in fact she loves a younger man, and the old fun discovering the truth, does the sacrifice act and blesses the lovers. It was played by James Nelson as the elderly lover, Herbert Terry as the young one, Margaret Calvert as the heroine, and Dorcas Crosbie as her mother. The main item in the bill at the Strand is going strong. The entire company was taken to Portsmouth one day, and appeared at a matinee, returning to town in time for the evening performance.

NOTES.—It is again rumored that Mr. Tree is at a loss for an actress to fill the part of Constance in his contemplated production of "King John," and that he may produce "Anthony and Clepatra" instead. Julia Neilson or Mrs. Patrick Campbell are suggested for Cleopatra, the one for her voluptuous beauty, the other because of "intellectual command."..... A private individual who considers—in spite of Mr. Bourchier's protest that he never saw or heard of him—that the character sketch in "Wheels Within Wheels," of the rakish and vulgar millionaire man about town, is designed as a portrait of himself has endeavored to have the Lord Chamberlain interdict Mr. Bourchier's performance. In this instance nothing will be done, but there have been cases where actors have been forced to discontinue the holding of other people up to ridicule by such means, two notable cases being Fred Leslie's imitation of Sir Henry Irving dressed as a ballet girl, and a caricature of Mr. Gladstone at the Court Theatre, where, by the way, Mr. Bourchier is acting..... Edward Jakobowski, the musical composer, has been sued by his wife—a widow who he married in New York in January, '95—on the grounds of cruelty and misconduct. The testimony was very strong against him, and the judge let it be understood that when certain technical testimony as to Jakobowski's identity had been established as the husband the divorce would be granted. .....Patti has stated in an Italian newspaper that her favorite opera is "Lucia di Lammermoor," but that she considers that "La Traviata" suits her best as a vocalist and an actress.....Jane Hading will probably support Coquelin in "Plus que Reine" when he gives that play during his London season. .....The announcement of Queen Victoria having decorated Jean de Reszke with the Cross of the Royal Victorian Order of the Fourth Class appeared today in the list of "birthday honors." Sir Arthur Sullivan and Signor Tosti are musicians who have previously been so decorated.....The fireworks season at the Crystal Palace has begun, Thursday nights being, as usual, selected for the displays. A leading novelty this year is a pyrotechnic ballet dancer called "La Danseuse," and the movements are very cleverly carried out. It is the Brocks' thirtieth season at the C. P., I believe.....The suit for damages brought by Clement Scott against The Era has been dropped or settled, much to the disappointment of the profession and the public at large as well.....The "musical prodigy" market is very flat, and it is said that "the rage for immature genius has ceased to exist."..... The theatre hat question has dropped up in Greece, and a rule prohibiting their being worn in the royal theatres having been broken by a lady who declined to obey, she was sent to jail for two weeks.....A man was fined 8s. 6d. here recently for smashing an electric light globe in front of a shop, and gave as his excuse that he was only showing a friend how the bells sounded in Sir Henry Irving's play, "The Bells."..... Eugene Stratton, one of the most popular of the 'darkey" performers on the variety stage here, is, as many know, an American. He hails from Buffalo, N. Y., but has been in England since 1881. Mrs. Stratton is a daughter of G. W. "Pony" Moore, the veteran minstrel..... The father of Mascagni, the now wealthy composer of "Cavalleria Rusticana," recently died at Leghorn, Italy. He was a baker in very humble circumstances until his son's success, after which the latter made his parents comfortable for life.....The benefit matinee given for Frank Glenister, manager of the London Pavilion, 29, was a great success from all points of view, "Pony" Moore's Do Da Day Minstrels being the leading item. The working staff of the "Pav" gave Mr. G. a silver tea and coffee set, and he, in turn, gave Mr. Cobbett a gold watch, Adolph Tressidder a gold match box, and Geo. Richter a set of gold links.....The Fellows of the Royal Botanic Society have arranged with Ben Greet for the production by his company, in the open air, in the society's gardens in Regent's Park, of "As You Like It," "A Midsummer Night's Dream," and perhaps other pastoral plays.....The free open air Sunday concerts have now begun in London, and there are from fifteen to twenty fine bands playing tomorrow through the length and breadth of the metropolis .....The farewell performances at the Criterion are now fixed for 21, when "The Case of Rebellious Susan" will be given in the afternoon and "Rosemary" in the evening, Mr. Wyndham having secured the services of nearly all the actors and actresses who took part in the original productions. The Prince of Wales has sent word that he will be present in the evening, and the day's receipts are certain to add a large sum to his Hospital Fund.....The projected benefit for Joseph Hurst, the veteran box office keeper at the Lyceum, has been fixed for 23, and the arrangements are in the very capable hands of John Hollingshead.....Johnny Danvers is working with the Mohawk Minstrels, again on tour. He will travel with Dan Leno for a while in the Autumn, and again be in the pantomime at Drury Lane....George Capel, stage manager of the Empire, has been presented with a silver tea service by the working staff of the hall, together with a few friends on the outside..... A new opening for variety folks will soon be ready at South End, the seashore resort nearest to London, where, on July 3, the South End Kursaal is to be opened. The enterprise is on the large and splendid lines of the famous Blackpool in Lancashire, and will be the first big effort to furnish the pleasure seekers at a South of England resort with amusements on a large scale at popular prices. .. ...The programme for the music hall sports July 4 will embrace twenty-five events, including a 100yds. handicap dash for ladies—dashing ladies, of course—and another for children. The present holders of the championship cups are: 440yds., Charles Cowen; one mile, Chris Horn; one mile bicycle, A. Lotto, and half mile obstacle bicycle, Toby Lotto. There will also be a comic football match, Dan Leno's team vs. the rest of England. .....It is said that an offer has been made to Charles Lauri to again manage the Alcazar at Brussels, backed by a syndicate.....The Rats will visit Burford Bridge 25, in ten or more coaches, and the Pimlico Lodge of Freemasons, No. 1772, will take a steamboat excursion on the Thames, from Oxford to Reading, Sunday, July 9.....The reported death of Fritz Braatz at Moscow, Russia, is fortunately not true, but he was badly injured by his fall, and is in a hospital. Regarding the serious accident to Hardy, the American Blondin, at the Alexandra Palace, he has written to The Era to say that the report that he rebounded after striking the net, and then went through it on his second fall is an error. "I went through it with terrific force," he writes, "as if it had been tissue paper. Seeing that my net was tested to stand a strain equal to that of an elephant falling into it, I am altogether at a loss to understand its giving way in the manner it did."..... The Jackley Wonders, fresh from their American tour, have opened at the Bedford.....Kate Harvey is slowly recovering at Brighton from a very severe attack of typhoid fever....."Savage South Africa," at Earl's Court, has had a splendid advertisement in a strong letter of endorsement from Henry M. Stanley, the famous explorer, who says among other things: "Your 'savages' are real African natives; their dresses, dances, equipments and actions are also very real, and when I heard their songs I almost fancied myself among the Mazamboni, near Lake Albert, once again. You have an exceedingly good show, well worth seeing."..... The French Government's official figures, showing various financial results of the year in the Paris places of amusement, show that the single performance that drew the most money was "Le Prophete," at the Grand Opera, the receipts being 22,738 francs, or $4,547.60. Next in order came a performance of "La Poudre Perlinpinpin," at the Chatelet, which drew $2,778.20, and "Cyrano de Bergerac" was third with $2,094.40. The largest house at the Theatre Francais was to see "Le Bourgeois Gentilhomme," and it drew $1,791.20.....Julie Ring, the American actress, says she is much pleased with her experience since going to "the halls." She says she threw up a thirty-six weeks' engagement in the States when she got a chance to come here and play the title part in a Birmingham pantomime, called "The Sleeping Beauty."..... Grace Wixon has been elected a member of the Actors' Association.....Tenley's new success, "A Little Ray of Sunshine," reached its one hundred and fiftieth performance at the Royalty May 30..... Hayden Coffin, of "The Greek Slave" Co., at Daly's, has been seriously ill for some weeks, and is recuperating at the seashore. He will not be able, however, to appear at the beginning of the revival of "A Gaiety Girl," 5.....John E. Kellard and Mrs. Kellard, John B. Doris, Samuel Kingston, Al. Hayman and Clyde Fitch are among the American theatrical people now in London. E. D. Price is expected about July 1.....The benefit for Pattie Browne at Melbourne, before she started for England, netted £250. Harry Rickards and his wife took part, playing a little sketch called "Pink Notes." Lieut. Frank Travis is also now on his way from Melbourne to London..... Madge Ellis, according to provincial reports, is becoming a popular orator as well as a popular singer. At Middlesbrough, last week, she made two speeches on her opening night at the New Empire, in response to the demands of the audience.....Kitty Wagner and Fred Poplar are en route from Australia on a French steamer.....Mrs. Madeleine Lucette Ryley has been flurried by the English newspapers saying that she called her play, "The Mysterious Mr. Bugle," a comedy, and has hastened to take her pen in hand, and write to illume the darkness by explaining that she has always described it as a farce. A farce, indeed..... It is said that Paderewski is to receive a fee of 1,000 guineas for playing at a forthcoming musicale at W. W. Astor's London residence.....Commenting upon the growing influence of Charles Frohman's unquestionable managerial cleverness in connection with his London ventures, one of the cleverest of the critics says: "My congratulations to Mr. Frohman. With very slight dramatic material, but an enormous amount of moral force, he has subjugated theatrical London, and the theatrical paragraphists are now his creatures, his slaves, his things, and do his bidding, not only blindly but cheerfully. It has been gravely announced that he alone could save the doomed season—by the bye, in common with many others, I did not know the season was doomed, until I read it had been saved—I have already nailed my colors to my mast in regard to Mr. Frohman, for his advent and triumph mean the death of the actor-management system: that is to say, the consideration of plays before parts. Therefore I cry 'Floreat Frohman!'"..... The obituary notices of the late Joseph Levy, the veteran circus advance agent, made the error of connecting his career with the "Lord" George Sanger show. Mr. Levy was employed to exploit John Sanger's Circus..... Bolossy Kiralfy is at the head of a big Parisian enterprise mainly for the Exhibition of 1900, to be known as the Theatre Columbia, and it will be opened some time this Summer with a grand spectacular ballet called "The Orient."..... Charles Frohman's latest reported purchase is the American version of "The Only Way," Freeman Wills' dramatization of Dickens' novel, "A Tale of Two Cities," and he will send an American company on tour in the States with it next season.....J. H. Didcott, who has been seriously ill for some time, is now out and about again..... Letty Lind will move to the Alhambra from Daly's June 12 for a short engagement, but does not sever her connection with Geo. Edwardes' forces..... Rumor has it that the Czar's Peace Rescript was the foundation for the end of the warfare between Clement Scott and The Era.....A hitch has occurred in the production of "Three Men in a Flat" at the Opera Comique, and it may not materialize. .....The advance booking for Sarah Bernhardt's "Hamlet" at the Adelphi has been so heavy that the announced programme for the engagement has been revised, and several additional performances of that play substituted for other pieces.....If Beerbohm Tree needs anything other than his present bill, "Captain Swift" and "The First Night," to carry him through the season a few performances of "The Musketeers" will be given.....Alvante, the wire walker, whose act is a very sensational one, is scoring heavily at the Aquarium.....M. Cormon, who collaborated with the late M. D'Ennery in many plays, is probably the oldest living dramatist. He is over seventy-five, and is hale and hearty. He was present in Paris the other day at the fiftieth performance of the revival of "The Two Orphans," which he helped to write, and the management gave away nine hundred seats in honor of the old man's visit..... "The Adventure of Lady Ursula" closes at the Duke of York's tonight with the two hundred and sixty-second performance, and will be followed 5 with "The Cowboy and the Lady."..... Maud Jeffries sailed today for New York to spend her vacation at her home in Memphis, Tenn..... The Paris benefit for Lydia Thompson brought about 18,000 francs ($3,600) additional to the £3,000 netted by the recent Lyceum benefit here. Bernhardt as Hamlet, Mounet Sully as Othello, Coquelin as Cyrano were the star impersonations of a big bill, which included recitations by Rejane and Coquelin-cadet. Rejane, by the way, has commissioned Arthur Lewis, Lydia Thmpson's son in law, to find her a theatre here for a short London season. Here in London the benefit season is still in full blast, and that given at the Prince of Wales' on the afternoon of May 30 for Jennie Lee, who is famous for her acting as Jo, in the dramatic version of Dickens' "Bleak House," netted £500. The cheaper parts of the theatre, much to the general surprise, were poorly patronized, and the amount secured was in good part made up by outside checks and contributions. She created the part of Jo while traveling in California. Afterwards, beginning in February, 1876, she played it for eight consecutive years in and about London, and she has also played it in Australia, India and South Africa. Miss Lee is still on the sunny side of forty, and has no idea of retiring. A curious relic of Jo was shown in the lobby of the theatre, being the gate of the old churchyard where Jo used to sit, as described by Dickens in the novel.....A three legged filly, described as "nature's latest and choicest gift to the world of science," is on its way here from South Africa. It is said to be a very pretty horse, and its single fore leg is so neatly placed as to let it balance perfectly, and it walks with ease..... The great success of "The Tyranny of Tears," at the Criterion, has induced Mr. Wyndham to go for a short provincial—a thing he has not done for years—and he will start directly after his town season closes, and be gone about a month.....Leslie Stuart, "the Sir Arthur Sullivan of the music halls," and "Owen Hall" are writing the music and libretto, respectively, of a new musical play for the Lyric. The scene is to be laid in India.....Florence Warden, the novelist, who wrote "The House on the Marsh" and other detective stories, has written a four act comedy of modern life that will soon be given at a trial matinee.....Marba, of Heeley and Marba, has been successfully operated on for an injury to his left leg, and will be at work again in about a month. Haidee Lee, of Lee and Kingston, is about to undergo an operation on her throat, but it is said that it is not a serious matter.....Don Lorenzo Perosi, the young Italian composer, has apparently had a bad attack of swollen head. His success was so great that the Pope paid him the extraordinary compliment for so young a man of appointing him director of the sixtone choir. The ceremonial of his installation as such requires that he first be invested with the title of a simple chorister, and when the formula had reached that point he indignantly interrupted the proceedings, declined to listen to the explanation, and haughtily withdrew, to the unspeakable wrath of the old canons of St. Peter's and—when he heard of it—the great indignation of the Pontiff, who has since canceled the very much envied appointment.....Beerbohm Tree's speech at the banquet of the Musical Directors' Association was a capital one.....Geo. E. Belmont, widely known as "Barnum's Beauty," whose adroit ability and absolutely abnormal abundancy and affluence of achievement in the accomplishment of alliterative advertising has made him as the ace is to the deuce in the game of promoting publicity, has been interviewed by The Encore. It appears that it was he who "discovered" Marie Lloyd, and that he has offered—without success—John Burns, the "working man member of Parliament," £60 a week for an engagement at Sadler's Wells, his turn being to give two short addresses each evening, for at Sunny Old Sad's, as at the Belmont, the prices of admission are very low, and the two houses a night plan prevails.

DOOLEY AND TEN BROOKE.

Larry Dooley and James Ten Brooke, black face singing comedians, have been working together one year. They doubled up upon Mr. Dooley's return from London, Eng., where he had been principal end man and comedian with Moore & Burgess' Minstrels for two years. They have been very successful the past year, playing all the principal vaudeville theatres in the East, and are engaged for the coming season as special features with the Primrose & Dockstader Minstrels.

Vaudeville & Minstrel

NOTICE TO CORRESPONDENTS.

Our theatrical correspondents are hereby notified that the credentials now held by them expired on June 1. They are requested to return them to this office at once, for renewal for 1899-1900.

JACK GARDNER, of the Three Gardners, Jack, Andy and Ada, won free wheelbarrow rides from John T. Baker, of Baker and Lynn, as a result of the Jeffries Fitzsimmons boxing contest. They were playing the Theatre Royal, Montreal, Can., with the Sporty Widows Co., and the day following the contest Baker made good his wager by wheeling Gardner from the hotel to the theatre before the matinee and night performances. The ladies of the company headed the parade in an omnibus, and were in turn followed by a noisy band, consisting of a trombone, snare drum and a bass drum, Baker ending the procession wheeling his successful opponent in the wager.

CHAS. E. KILLINGBECK has been engaged for the Summer as stage manager of the Iron Pier, Syracuse, N. Y.

EXCELIA AND HEATH open at Broad Street Park, Trenton, N. J., June 19, with one of F. Pincus' companies, for a season of ten weeks of parks.

MATT NASHER, representing Tommy Donnelly's Minstrels, writes: "Tommy Donnelly's Big Minstrels closed a Summer tour of six weeks at Freeport, Maine, June 10. It was more of a Summer outing than anything else. Mr. Donnelly and Joe R. Rieder, the manager, came through by train to Springfield, Mass., and Geo. Hassell and I took the train through to New York. The rest came by boat, as they have plenty of time. I have signed for next season to pilot Sweeney & Alvidos' Minstrels, which goes out under the management of Chas. H. Sweeney and Mr. Wallace, proprietor of Wallace's Circus."

MR. AND MRS. WM. ROBYNS were at Minerva Park, Columbus, O., last week, and play Idlewild Park, Newark, O., June 19-24.

JAS. LYNE and Harry Applegarth, having closed the season with Kalbfield's Minstrels, are now playing Summer parks.

CLIVETTE, the juggler, arrived in this country June 10. He was a passenger on the ill fated steamship Paris when she met with the accident which disabled her. He reports that his loss was trifling and that the steamship company treated all the passengers in a first class manner. He is booked to play a number of Western parks this Summer, after which he will return to Europe, where he has dates four years ahead

RAWSON AND JUNE returned to this country June 12. They will remain in America until December, when they return to London to fill a three months' engagement at the Alhambra, after which they go to the Paris Exposition.

MARIE STUART opened at Athletic Park, New Orleans, La., June 11, her first vaudeville engagement in two years. She scored a big hit and was re-engaged for a second week.

ALLEN AND WEST are in their third week on the Burt circuit. They contemplate a trip to the Pacific coast shortly.

DEL PUEBO has closed with the Barnum & Bailey Show, and arrived in New York June 13.

WM. JOSH DALY'S MINSTRELS NOTES.—We opened up Monday, June 12, at Spring Lake Park, Trenton, N. J., to a good sized audience. Each night brings a larger audience, and our first part, with its stage settings and elegant costumes, is a hit from start to finish. The chorus is well drilled, and the harmony produced by our double quartet is greatly appreciated. In the olio the Nugent Bros. buck and wing dancers, never fail to win rounds of applause. The K. L. C. R. Quartet also win great favor. Charlie Prince and Josh Daly get their audience in great shape, while Craig and McDonald, musical comedians, are a genuine hit both with their comedy and music, and the audience go away well satisfied after seeing our funny afterpiece, "Aunt Matilda's Birthday."

THE DE FORRESTS, whirlwind dancers, sail June 20 for England, to fill European engagements, lasting eighteen months. They open July 3 at the Palace Theatre, London, Eng.

HERBERT SWIFT, of the Milbank Bros.' Minstrels, has been very sick for a week with malarial fever in Maine. He was compelled to leave the company and return to Boston, Mass.

CHARLES T. ALDRICH will return to this country in time to celebrate the Fourth of July at home.

MRS. ROBINSON, of the Robinson-Baker Trio, arrived in this city June 12. She is here to settle up her late husband's estate, and will return to England in time to open the first week in August at the Empire, London. The trio is booked abroad for two years.

COOPER AND REYNOLDS report the success of their new act, in which they have introduced a laughable finish.

ROCHEFORT AND MAY have closed a successful season of forty-three weeks with the John L. Sullivan Co. and are resting at their country home in Fanwood, N. J.

NOTES FROM CHARLES AND MADGE SULLIVAN (the Sullivans of Dublin).—We closed our season at Washburn, Wis., to a crowded house. We have completed all arrangements with I. W. Whitbread to open with our own company at the Queen's Royal Theatre, Dublin, Ireland, during the horse show fair (the best date after Boxing Night), in August, 1900, and as this is our old "stamping ground," and first visit after nine years' absence, a right royal welcome is assured us.

THE BRETON RUNKEL TRIO have completed their engagements on the Burt circuit and are this week at the Chicago, Ill., Opera House.

TOM NOLEN AND CORA WHITE write: "We closed a successful season of forty weeks with A. H. Woodhull's High Rollers May 27, and are now in our fourth week at the Palace Theatre, Boston, Mass. We have signed with Frank B. Carr for next season, with his Indian Maidens Burlesquers. Our comedy sketch, 'A Tramp's History,' has been a hit everywhere."

BAKER AND FONDA do not go to Duluth, Minn., but have been re-engaged at Harmonia Theatre, Minneapolis, for the Summer season, to produce comedies. They join Rohde's Merrymakers Aug. 28, in Philadelphia, Pa.

ANDY MORRIS, the old time clown, writes that he is still sick at his home in East Chicago, Ind., but expects to be able to open his fourth regular season at the Chicago Water Chutes on July 1.

THE STAR THEATRE, Brooklyn, N. Y., closed a season of forty-four weeks on Saturday night, June 17, which was its fourth under the direction of Manager W. L. Bissell. The season just closed was the most prosperous one in the history of this popular play house. Only the best class of burlesque companies have been played, while the smoking concerts which were inaugurated by this management proved an immediate success, and helped in a great measure to make this house a popular resort. Manager Bissell has been retained by the Hyde & Behman Amusement Co. to manage the house next season, and the same policy will be adhered to as in the past. The list of attractions booked for the coming season excels any of the past bookings, including all the standard burlesque companies and several new attractions which are expected to be novelties. The season will open about the middle of August, and numerous improvements for the comfort of the patrons will be made while the house is closed.

KILROY AND BRITTON write from Columbus, Ga., as follows: "We are playing a fourteen weeks' engagement on the Southern Syndicate, and meeting with the greatest success of any one of the other shows on the circuit. In this town we have been held over the second week, packing the Casino every night with the best people in the town, and we have been requested to play a return date here before the season closes. We will return to New York after the season closes here and will then produce our new act."

ALLEN AND WEST are at Earnest's Pavilion, St. Louis, Mo., this week. They are now on Ben Harris' circuit for a few weeks.

WROTHE AND WAKEFIELD were at Highland Park, Jackson, Tenn., May 29; North Highland Park, Columbus, Ga., June 5-12, and open at East Lake Park, Birmingham, Ala., 19.

THE BURDOCK SISTERS have returned from Mexico, after a six months' engagement.

SALIM HABEEB, a member of the Syrian Amusement Colony on Coney Island, was married to Jamelie Salomie, better known as Fatima, the Oriental dancer, in Brooklyn, N. Y., June 15.

BARLOW MINSTREL NOTES.—On account of the closing of Koerner's Park Theatre, at St. Louis, Mo., the Barlow Minstrels will play the Midway Park, at Piqua, O., week of June 19, with Mansfield to follow. At Dayton the minstrels did the biggest week's business in the history of the house, and are booked to return. Our band of fifteen pieces, under the direction of Joe Norton, makes a good impression. The Elliott Bros. are producing a neat dancing act. John Queen and Harry Ward occupy the last edition, and are ably seconded by Lew Baldwin, Jim Stuart, Hugh Cannon and John Elliott. Cam Matthews visited us for three days last week. Our regular season will open Sept. 3. John Vogel and Edward De Coursey paid the car a short visit during the week.

OZAV AND DELMO have finished an engagement at Sohmer Park, Montreal, Can., and booked for a return date.

SAM S. SANFORD'S mother, Mrs. Mary Coats, died in Philadelphia, Pa., recently, at the age of one hundred and two years.

NELLIE CUNNINGHAM, of the Sisters Cunningham, announces that she will retire from the stage.

MASTER JAMES DUFFY held a reception after the regular performance Saturday afternoon, June 17, on the stage at Celoron Park Theatre, Jamestown, N. Y., the little fellow shaking hands with over four hundred of his admirers, all of them ladies and children.

MR. AND MRS. NEIL LITCHFIELD were at Robison Park, Fort Wayne, Ind., last week, and this week are at Lakeside Casino, Akron, O., with Hiawatha Park, Mt. Vernon, O., and Coney Island, Cincinnati, to follow.

BEAHAN AND MASCOTTE, after playing engagements around New York, open in Oswego June 19, with the circuit to follow.

MAX A. ARNOLD has secured the management of the free open air Summer theatre at beautiful Versailles Park, McKeesport, Pa. The park is operated by the Versailles Traction Co., and will open its theatrical season on June 26.

O. K. SATO and Mlle. Marguerite arrived in the country on June 14. They will play dates, commencing about Sept. 1. They have already been booked for the Orpheum circuit and are filling their time rapidly. During the heated term they will rest at Wm. Cameron's cottage, Mt. Clemens, Mich.

GREGORY & DELMANNING'S VAUDEVILLE STARS opened its Summer season at the Roton Point Theatre, South Norwalk, Ct., and this week play one night stands through Long Island resorts. June 26 and week they play the Columbia Garden Theatre, Atlantic City, N. J.

BEN DUNHAM, of the Dunham Family, aerial bar performers, writes from Moscow, Russia, under date of June 1, as follows: "We are now in our third week at the Theatre Erimitage, in this ancient city, and I wish to state that this is the first city of Europe we've played where we haven't met a number of American performers. There are, however, a number of English performers playing in this city, but at the above house the August Family of Jugglers are the only English speaking people besides ourselves. At the Garden Ormond there are several English speaking acts, among whom are the Three Eugenes, aerialists; the Bratz Brothers, the Five Lorison Sisters, and Leo, the ventriloquist. I would mail you a programme, but you couldn't read a word of it without a translator. We cannot read our own names when printed in Russian. Moscow is a very ancient city, and reminds me a great deal of the City of Mexico. The streets are all paved with cobblestones, with the exception of a few blocks of the main streets. I must relate our experience on our arrival here. On our way to Moscow we met two English gentlemen who had been in this city before and who spoke the Russian language. They were kind enough to interpret for us at the eating stations and at the place where our baggage was examined. When we arrived at Moscow our English acquaintances took us to a cab and instructed the driver where to take us. The driver immediately knew we were ignorant of his language and drove us about three miles from the city to a park, which I have since learned was Protosky Park, and claimed that was where he was instructed to take us, (explaining by shrugs and jestures). We were in a nice predicament—three miles from Moscow and not one of us able to speak a word of Russian. After jesticulating and pantomiming for nearly half an hour, I succeeded in making the driver turn his horses toward the city as I was well aware that the Erimitage, where we were to go, and where the driver had been instructed to take us, was in or near the centre of the city. I then repeated the same Erimitage over to him about fifty times, but he would only shrug his shoulders and pretend not to understand. Finally he stopped and asked a policeman something and then took us direct to where we wanted to go. There, too, every one spoke the same language, except the stage manager, who spoke German and we managed to straighten matters out by paying a few extra rubles for our experience, which I guess was 'cabby's' game, as we were completely at his mercy. We go to Tower Circus, Blackpool, Eng., from here for six weeks, after which we sail for dear old America to fill a few fair dates. We return to Europe in November to fill our Winter's engagements, opening in Paris. Our European tour has been very prosperous and our success everywhere has been marked. Kind regards to all of our American friends."

BROOKS AND BROOKS were CLIPPER callers June 16. They closed their season with Fred Rider's Night Owls Burlesquers 10, and Max Brooks, of this team, was surprised on reaching this city to learn that he had been reported as having died in the South. They report a successful season with the show, the burlesque part of which they produced, and they also did their specialty in the olio. They further state that Fred Rider's Imperial Theatre, at Atlanta, Ga., has been a success since the opening, May 29. The team is resting for a few weeks at their home in Brooklyn, N. Y.

NOTES OF L. LAWRENCE WEBER'S ATTRACTIONS.—After several weeks' sojourn among the pines Manager L. Lawrence Weber returned, looking hale and hearty, to his work for the ensuing year for his Parisian Widows and Dainty Duchess Companies. These organizations will be free from all suggestive features and objectionable comedy. The burlesques are of a comic opera order and will be presented in a comic opera fashion, even the chorus ladies employed having all served apprenticeships with some of the large opera companies. The engagements thus far comprise Anna Suits and company, in their "The Dream of the Cake Walk;" the Manhattan Comedy Four, in a new sketch; Burke Bros. and Wise Mike, in a new specialty; Howard and Emerson, who will sing and illustrate songs with moving pictures; Gilbert and Goldie, the talkative Irish comedians; Ruby Marion, cornetist; Letta Meredith, leading boy; Wm. Thayers and Junie McCree. The latter gentleman is a well known burlesque comedian on the Pacific coast. The business staff is composed of L. Lawrence Weber, proprietor and manager; Chas. Wiegand, Sam Dessauer, MAX LAZARUS and Louis Lesser.

THE GLOBE THEATRE, Elmira, N. Y., will undergo alterations this Summer. The stage will be enlarged, the seating capacity increased, more dressing rooms constructed, and various other changes wrought throughout the house. Manager Johnson reports a successful season, and the prospects for the coming season exceptionally bright, inasmuch as the varied industries of the city are running full time, many of the mills having orders for a year ahead. About Aug. 1 the big rolling mills, to employ upwards of five hundred hands, will start up for the first time in some years. The Globe will play only burlesque and vaudeville attractions, three night stands. The opening is scheduled for about the middle of September. The house is booking in conjunction with the Gaiety at Scranton, Bijou at Wilkesbarre, and Bijou at Binghamton, these four cities being played three days each.

THE HARVEY SISTERS will open on the Burt circuit, in Columbus, O., June 25, for ten weeks.

MR. AND MRS. JAMES MCINTYRE entertained a large number of friends at their handsame villa at Bergen Beach, L. I., N. Y., Sunday afternoon and evening, June 18. After a bountiful repast Mr. McIntyre entertained by giving the original "Josephus Orange Blossom," and nearly all the guests contributed to the general enjoyment. Noble McDonald presided at the piano. Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. Harry Richards, Montie O'Neill, Nellie Seymour, Jules Hurtig, Max Hurtig, Harry Semon, Sadie Fox, James Ryan, Ida Burt, John Laughlin, Ned Cahill, George Watson, Mr. and Mrs. Miller, and Marguerite Newton. "The Colonel," from the old De Haven Show, and "Jack," of the Herrmann Co., were also in attendance.

MAX HURTIG will be the manager of Hurtig & Semon's new production, "A Social Maid," next season.

MCINTYRE AND HEATH, after a short rest, will open in Pittsburg, Pa., next week. Their next season is booked solid and paper is nearly ready. Mr. McIntyre has written an entirely new comedy, and promises something exceptionally funny. Maude McIntyre will have a new joke in the play.

JAS. C. FLYNN is at Bergen Beach, L. I., rehearsing with the "A Spring Chicken," which will shortly open at the Casino.

ANNA SUITS and company have been engaged by L. Lawrence Weber for his Parisian Widows company and will be one of the features. Louis Lesser will be the manager.

MANAGER W. B. WATSON writes from Lynn, Mass., that things are progressing finely with his music hall. The house will practically be a new one, as nothing is being spared to put it to the front. Time is filling with dramatic, farce comedy and minstrel attractions. Mr. Watson will manage the American Burlesquers the coming season. Harry C. Bryant will act in the same capacity with the Australian Beauties, and Chas. C. Stumm will manage Watson's Music Hall at Lynn.

PROF. LEVINA, assisted by Kitty Gray, played Sea Beach Palace, Coney Island, L. I., N. Y., week of June 5, and is playing a return date week of June 19. They play the Auditorium Theatre, Newport News, Va., July 3 and 10, with Norfolk, Va., to follow.

RESIDENT MANAGER LOVENBERG, of Keith's, Providence, R. I., at the conclusion of the season there will come to New York, where he will take the place of General Booking Agent Hodgdon during the latter's leave of absence.

THE BUFFALOES, at their national meeting at Indianapolis, Ind., June 14-17, elected the following officers: Chas. C. Stapp, supreme prelate; Jas. N. Shelton, supreme secretary; A. A. Greathouse, supreme treasurer—all of Indiana; Dr. Allen Haynes, grand medical director, of Toledo, O.

ANNA YALE, who played principal boy parts with the American Burlesquers last season, is under contract with Bryant & Watson for the coming season, to play boy parts. She is recovering rapidly from her recent illness, and will rest in the country until time for rehearsal.

WILLIAMS AND MELBURN played a week's engagement at the Capitol Theatre, Glens Falls, N. Y., last week, and opened at Lakeview Park, Middletown, Ct., June 19.

MURPHY & PALMER are at Erb's Casino, North Beach, L. I., June 19-24.

HELLER'S ELITE VAUDEVILLE AND COMEDY CO. drew big crowds to Highland Park, York, Pa., week of June 12. Chas. H. Leyburne and Emma Bunting joined the company at York and will continue over the circuit. On Thursday evening there was a boat race between Paddy Murphy and Eddie Downey, of the Elite Co. The race was very exciting, and Murphy pulled out a winner by about two lengths, winning the diamond pin offered by Proprietor Ocker, of the City Hotel. Downey fell overboard just before the finish. The officials were: Joe A. Ocker, starter; Blanche Drew, timer; M. Rudy Heller, referee, and Tony Murphy, judge.

JOSEPH ADELMANN, late of Adelmann and Lowe, is engaged at Forest Park Highlands, St. Louis, Mo., for two weeks, commencing 19, and has the Orpheum circuit to follow.

MACK AND ARMOUR last week completed four months on the Western vaudeville circuits, and opened in Buffalo, N. Y., June 19. They have a new act in preparation for next season, entitled "A Cheap Skate."

OHIO.

Cincinnati.—After a fortnight of sweltering weather, stifling temperature, for the month of brides and roses, came a breath as from the Arctic; a change quite as unseasonable as the torrid spell had proved. This was the sort of handicap that came to interrupt the harvest of the Summer amusement caterers. The Baker Opera Co. will commence its engagement at Chester Park, July 2, when "The Queen's Lace Handkerchief" will be put on. Among the singers recruited for the season are: Adelaide Norwood, Blanche Chapman, Beatrice McKenzie, James Aldrich Libbey, George Lyding, Robert Lett and Edward Temple.

LUDLOW LAGOON.—Possession being deemed nine points of the law, Manager John J. Noonan decided to open this Kentucky resort June 18, although the legal status remains the same. William Reidler and other members of the park company are trying through the courts to oust Noonan, and there may be a judicial echo to the opening.

CHESTER PARK.—Conan, the Booming Trio, George S. Knight, Georgia Mann, Foster and Williams, Robert Lett and Birtie Dole will be seen in vaudeville at the Opera House 18.

GOSSIP.—Frankie Bernard, who appeared at Chester Park last week, is going East with Eddie Moran. They expect to join a combination..... Montgomery Phister paid a touching tribute to the memory of Augustin Daly.....Webb Welbourne is doing good work for the Zoo.....Charles W. King, late of the Neill Stock Company, spent a day in Cincinnati, en route to Milwaukee, where he joined the Frawley Co..... Sængerfest Hall will be dedicated 18, and it is expected that fully 35,000 people will attend the service.....Manager Will S. Heck, of Heck's Wonder World, is rounding up attractions for the street fair of the Elks at Hamilton, O., July 31-Aug. 5.....Manager M. C. Anderson says that the remodeling of the Fountain Square Theatre will be pushed through before the opening of the Fall season.....Managers Harry Rainforth and John H. Havlin, of the Grand Opera House, still remain in the city. Havlin is going to Michigan for his Summer outing and Rainforth will join the pilgrims at the seashore..... There was an unconfirmed story in circulation last week that a new Summer resort would be built at Dayton, Ky., on the banks of the Ohio River, near the sand bar.....Lee M. Hart, of Chicago, came down in advance of the delegates to prepare for the annual convention of the National Association of Stage Employes of America next week.

Cleveland.—In one particular it is well that the regular season has closed, as there is a strike of street railway employes, and travel on the cars is curtailed to such an extent that it would cut deep into the box receipts. Euclid Beach Park, which runs its own boat line (two steamers), is well situated as is also the Garden Theatre, which is on one of the lines which is still running.

GARDEN THEATRE.—This resort, in its present form, is a decided innovation and one that was really needed. The entrance has been greatly improved. There is a long covered foyer brilliantly lighted that makes protection from wind and rain certain. Then there is a theatre with 1,400 seats and so arranged that all the comforts of a garden and the protection of a theatre are afforded. The stage has been materially improved and so have the gardens. In a word, the Garden Theatre is an ideal Summer resort. The same high class of fashionable vaudeville that has been in vogue at the Lyceum will prevail at the Garden. As the Garden is under the same management this fact is assured. The opening bill had as the main feature Lillian Burkhart and company. The others were Six Sennettes, Newsboys' Quintet, Ray L. Royce, Felix and Barry, Blanche Ring, King and Gray, Boyle and Graham. The management is running a line of busses on Wilson Avenue, between Euclid and Woodland, and in that manner the absence of the street cars is overcome to a considerable degree.

EUCLID BEACH PARK.—The popularity of this resort still continues in spite of the street car tie up, for during the past week hundreds have availed themselves of a cool lake ride to the park on the park steamers. The bathing season has now fully opened up and many avail themseives of the advantages offered for this delightful pleasure. The theatre programme last week was the strongest so far this season. The midair performances of the Rickett Family were worthy of note. For week of June 18 the following vaudeville bill has been engaged: Prince Satsuma, in feats of juggling; the Three Constantine Sisters, in acrobatic dances; Berry and Hughes, in a musical sketch, and Harry and Eva La Reanes, in "The Irish Countess."

Akron.—At Lakeside Park Casino the S. R. O. sign appeared several times during the week of June 12. Hal Stephens' mimicry was a pleasing feature. The Litchfields will head the bill for week of 19, which includes Kittie Wolfe, Forester and Floyd, Sophie Burnham and Klust Brothers.

SUMMIT LAKE PARK.—Warm weather has caused a large increase in the business done at this resort. Bill for week of 19: Smith and Venetta, Nichols and Teed, and Malaney and Thurley.

RANDOLPH PARK PAVILION.—Carner's Stock and the Duquesne Orchestra did well week of 12. The above attractions and Prof. H. N. Holway's Water Spectacular Show are on the bill for week of 19.

W. C. ST. CLAIR, W. O. Tarkington and J. D. Newman, in advance of Gentry's Dog and Pony Show, were here 14. The show is billed to appear here 23-24.

Toledo.—At the Casino business averaged good during last week. Diana, dancer; Horace Golden, the Walton Bros., Onri Sisters, the McAvoys, Whiting Sisters, and Deveaux and Deveaux open 18, for week. Bookings for 25 and week: Tom Brown and Edith Hoyt, Patterson Bros., Bicknell, Gruett, Beers and Gruett, A. C. Lawrence, Grejsson Sisters, and Prof. Collins and his boxing kangaroo.

NOTES.—Messrs. Stair & Burt have obtained a lease of the People's Theatre, and the house will be known as the Lyceum, in the Stair & Burt circuit. .....Burt's Theatre will be devoted to vaudeville and burlesque next season, under the Stair & Burt management.

Columbus.—Oldentangy Park Theatre did an immense business week ending June 17. Opening 18: The Bickett Family, Morrell and Evans, Welby, Pearl, Keys and Nellis, Belknap, Edwin and Kittie Deagon, the Nondescript Trio, Tommy Carroll and Bessie Davis.

MINERVA PARK CASINO had a good week ending 17. Opening 18: Prince K. O'Kabe's Imperial Japanese Troupe, Harry Edson and Dog "Doc," Louis Granat, Hal Stephens, Hadley and Hart, and Irwin and Hawley.

Dayton.—At Fairview Park the Barlow Minstrels drew good houses for the week of June 11. The bill for the week of 18 will include: Ifer, Burk and McDonald, Ollie Young, Wilson and Lorain, Joe Hardman and the Goldsmith Sisters.

LEONDA, on the spiral incline, is the attraction at Lakeside Park for week of 18.

Zanesville.—The Street Fair and Carnival, to be held the week of June 19, is now an assured success. The merchants' booths are all finished, and only await the decorations. The Midway will be the strong attraction. Prof. Gaskill's Carnival and Menagerie has been engaged. Then there will be an American theatre, a Moorish theatre, a Turkish theatre, a Japanese theatre, a German village, a street of India, a congress of national dancing girls, and other forms of entertainment to delight the visitors. The great Pilion will give free exhibitions at 3 and 10 P. M. each day.....The First Regiment Band will give an open air concert at Grant Park Sunday, 18.

Sandusky.—At Cedar Point Pleasure Resort, week of June 11, the bill included O'Kabe's Japs, Emery and Russell, musical team, and Louis Grant, whistler. The attendance so far this season has exceeded expectations, and indications point to a successful season's business. Week of 18, the olio will be Tietina, toe dancer; Duffy, Sawtelle and Duffy, comedy trio; Maye Wentworth, singer; Leo and Chapman, comedy acrobatic team.

Mansfield.—At Lake Park Casino, week of 12 the attendance was fair. The bill of entertainers consisted of: Thurston and Texola, Charles Raymond, Dick and Alice McAvoy, Ollie Young, the La Renas, and the Whiting Sisters. Bookings for 19 and week: Peter Baker, Magee and Crimmins, Lottie West Symonds, Hale and Elliott, Mack and Fenton, and Saville Sisters.

MAINE.

Portland.—McCullum's Theatre (Cape Cottage Park) opened Saturday night, June 10, and was a grand success. The theatre was crowded to its full capacity and both play and company gave the best of satisfaction. "The Charity Ball" was the opening bill, which was continued for week of 12, the business holding good throughout the week. "Alabama" week of 19.

GEM THEATRE (Peak's Island.)—This handsome Summer theatre opened Monday evening, 12, with Mr. Barrows and stock in the comedy, "Brother John." The large audiences present at the opening night and throughout the week were liberal with applause and showed their appreciation of good work. Week of 19, "The Wife."

RIVERTON PARK.—This popular resort had its full share of patronage at its opening, 12 and week. The Fadettes Ladies' Orchestra, in their three daily concerts, was a strong feature. The stage show was given by the Martines, acrobats; Stella Lee, E. M. Hall, Noogah, aerialist, and John F. Hanson and Mabel Drew, sketch team. The Boston Novelty Co. 19 and week.

MANY FLORAL TRIBUTES were handed over the footlights last week, welcoming back, after a season's absence, many old favorites. The season has fairly opened with a rush at our three suburban resorts, the business starting in better and a little earlier than last year.

CALIFORNIA.

Los Angeles.—Fair sized audiences greeted L. R. Stockwell and company, in "A Midnight Bell," at the Los Angeles Theatre, June 8-10..... Good business rules at the Orpheum, where the following people make up the offering for 12 and week: Moung Toon and Moung Thit, Clifford and Huth, Montgomery and Stone, Caswell and Arnold, Troupe Montrose, Billy Van, and the Donovans. .....President Meyerfeld, of the Orpheum company, tarried in Los Angeles several days week 5-10, on his return to San Francisco, from an Eastern trip.....Manager Harry C. Wyatt, of the Los Angeles Theatre, is in San Francisco looking after Lambardi's Grand Italian Opera Co., which he and his business associates have under engagement for a period of months.....Los Angeles Lodge, No. 99, B. P. O. Elks, held the first meeting in its new quarters 7, and initiated twenty-eight candidates.

UTAH.

Salt Lake City.—At the Salt Lake Theatre Henry Miller, in "The Liars," played to good houses June 6, 7. "On and Off" comes 13, 14.

SALTAIR BEACH.—Utah's great salt lake bathing resort opened May 30, to good business. The buildings have been repainted, and many other improvements made by the management. The British Guards Band will furnish music 17, 18.

"As I opened the letter the photograph dropped to the ground. I picked it up. God in Heaven, shall I ever forget that moment! It was the picture of the child, and on the back was written in Morton's bold hand: 'Our little Harry.'

"Madly I rushed from the house, determined that the man should die. I saw that a night train would start in a quarter of an hour. I remember getting on it, arriving at Napa, but it all seemed a dream. You read all the rest in the papers. The words that I uttered, and which the Chinaman could not understand, were simply these: 'I've brought you a message from our Harry.' I escaped in the darkness and confusion. Why? you will ask. Simply because she still lived. You know what Dumas says, 'Kill the adulteress.' I resolved that she should die, too."

"But you did not kill her? She died in an hospital."

"Yes I did." I shuddered as I listened, and commenced to think that his brain was wandering. After a pause he continued more feebly: "I laid my plan with consummate skill. I took up my home life, and, with the exception that I never mentioned Morton's name, and that I could not help avoiding any display of affection for the child of her shame, there was nothing to show my wife that I knew anything. But she suspected all. I had burned the picture and the letter, and what had become of it haunted her. I caught in her eyes at times a look of absolute terror, as though she thought she was married to a madman.

"But I must hurry, as I am gradually growing weaker. You know that there are several poisons that people can take until there is set up in the system such a condition that the sudden withdrawal of the poison means death. Clever physicians can, if they know the poison, cure the patient by gradually reducing the dose of the poison in about the same proportion that it was increased. Well, I poisoned my wife in this way. When I disappeared after the death of the boy I knew that she would die for the want of the poison in a short time and no one be the wiser. She did and my revenge was complete." He sank back on the pillows seemingly overcome with his emotion, while I shrank from him with terror.

"Who she was does not matter," he added, in very weak tones. "She belonged to the lower order, and my marriage with her estranged me from my family in the beginning and blasted my life in the end. For myself, my real name and title is Sir Edwin —."

A violent fit of coughing cut short the sentence, the blood gushed from his half closed lips, the death rattle sounded in his throat, a convulsive tremor shook his frame and all was over.

TIPS IN AUSTRIAN CAFES.

The head waiter institution is among the odd customs of Austria. In every hotel, restaurant, cafe or other resort where food or drinks are sold there is a functionary who goes about among the guests, as they summon him with the word "bezahlen," and collects the pay for what they have drunk or eaten. Each man tips him to the extent of 5 or 10 per cent. of the bill. No other waiter can receive any money except as a personal tip.

The head waiter gets no salary for his services. On the contrary, he often pays the proprietor a good sum for the place. He is held responsible for everything—eatables, drinkables, crockery, glassware, silverware; in hotels, even for room rent, carriage hire and broken windows. His compensation comes from the tips, which sometimes amounts to many thousands of guldens a year (a gulden or florin is equivalent to 40 cents.

The proprietor of the leading hotel in Reichenberg came up from its head waiter, while one of the largest banking houses in Bohemia was founded by a former head waiter from his accumulated tips.

The possibility of gaining wealth in this profession rests on the public honesty. Guests in a restaurant or cafe pay when they have eaten or drunk to satiety. Often this is hours after they began. Summoned by "bezahlen," the head waiter produces a slip of paper, if the guest has consumed several different articles, and writes thereon what the latter says he has eaten and drunk, handing the slip to the guest as his bill.

The head waiter cannot possibly know in every case, or even in most cases, that the guest's statement is true. He has behind the scenes methods of checking up what has been served, but these cannot be used in every individual case of payment in a crowd.

A great music hall in Vienna illustrates the easy possibility of heavy loss under this system, through dishonest patrons. The place is furnished with many small tables. Some people take supper there. Everybody else at these tables drinks several glasses of beer, or a bottle of wine or mineral water. Near the close of the performance, the tables meantime having been generally cleared of dishes and bottles, the head waiter passes around on his collecting tour. Each of the hundred or more people tells what he has eaten or drunk. In accordance therewith, the collector fills out the customary slip.

No doubt there is in the kitchen a list of articles recorded against each table, but the head waiter does not carry this with him for reference, and it is not conceivable that he could commit it to memory before starting on his tour. There is, besides, nothing to prevent a dishonest person from leaving the hall before the head waiter appears. Between the numbers of the programme people are moving all about the place in and out of the lobby in crowds. Any person could walk away without paying his bill.

NOTHING THE MATTER.

A quietly dressed man, whose smooth shaven, bluish jaw gave him the aspect of an actor, walked into an uptown restaurant a few evenings ago and ordered quite a substantial meal. He ate leisurely, and at the end of the repast lit a cigarette. The waiter presented a check for $1.40.

"I have no money," said the stranger, pushing aside the slip.

"Sir!" said the astonished garcon.

The other repeated his statement and went on smoking.

The waiter hesitated a moment, then scurried across to the manager and whispered in his ear. The latter strode over to the table.

"The waiter's wrong; I said I had no money."

The manager began to lose his patience.

"I can't."

There was a pause and the two men studied each other.

"So you came in here," said the manager finally, "and ordered a big meal, knowing you were broke and couldn't settle?"

"I did," replied the other, still perfectly cool.

"Well, what made you do it?" exclaimed the manager in a burst of asperation.

There was another pause.

"I'll have you arrested," said the manager.

"For what?"

"What pretense did I make?" asked the stranger, calmly.

"Oh, well, you can't come in and take our food that way!"

"Yes, I can—I've just done it," said the other, removing the ash from his cigarette.

"I'd rather lose the amount than have a disturbance," said the manager, "but I must say he's the coolest hand I ever struck."

In the excitement nobody noticed that the stranger had carried off his check. Half an hour later it came back in an envelope with $1.40 in silver. "It was a bet," was scrawled in pencil on the back.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Theatrical.

MAZIE KING,

The clever toe dancer, who has been doing a series of novel tricks with Gilmore & Leonard's Company the past few seasons, will be a feature of John F. Leonard's "Two Jolly Rovers" Co. next season. Among her other accomplishments she succeeds in jumping from a table to the floor on the tip of her toes, retaining her balance.

OUR LONDON LETTER.

So far as theatrical novelties are concerned this has been a quiet week in London, the trial matinee of a new comedy, and a fresh curtain raiser in front of "Why Smith Left Home," being all there is to chronicle here. As usual, the theatrical and variety professions were very well represented on Epsom Downs on the Derby Day, and, in fact, the vaudeville matinee at the Shaftesbury Avenue Theatre was canceled, so that "The Belle of New York" might go a holiday making with the beaux of London, and either take a foxey flyer on the favorite, or, if they had money to burn, burn it in the downfall of the French Holocauste. Four in hands were good enough for most of the well known people in both branches of the profession, but a good many went back to town by train, in order not to run the risk of being late, and I hear that very few disappointed their managers, or gave their understudies a show. J. W. Rowley, well known in the halls, has, by the way, been singing "Going to the Derby" for over thirty years, and he has given up keeping track of the number of times he has done so. At the end of twenty five years he says that he had sung it thirty-two thousand times, and needless to say he is letter perfect.

Considerable interest has been taken by the public in the controversy between the theatrical managers and those who direct the music halls over the question of the former taking steps to prevent the latter from producing dramatic "sketches," a form of entertainment that has enormously increased of late. The Theatrical Managers' Association has held several meetings to discuss the subject, and at the last, held June 1, with Edward Terry in the chair, they came to the conclusion that they would not oppose the halls so far as the sketches are concerned, although there is not the slightest doubt that the latter are breaking the law in presenting anything resembling a stage play. The theatrical men seem, however, to be disposed to appeal to the Lord Chamberlain for the right to allow smoking in the theatres, in order to equalize their rivalry with the halls, where, in a great many cases, the "sketches" are merely condensed editions of well known plays. This has, of course, given rise to an outburst of pro and con on the subject in the shape of interviews with managers of both the theatres and the halls, to say nothing of the public's rush to air its opinions on the topic in the newspapers. There are all shades of opinion, from the violently antagonistic to the hearty appeal for the right to smoke, and were the right granted by the authorities it would be a mere matter of policy with this manager or that as to whether he would introduce the privilege. In some theatres it would be madness to do so, while in others it might greatly assist the box office and go far towards materializing the weekly appearance of the ghost. I may quote as the popular view of the majority of the managers of both classes the opinion of Mr. Morton, of the Palace, and the dozen of the music hall managers, who said to a reporter in speaking of the theatre men's threat to introduce smoking in order to balance the scale against the sketches:

"It will make an interesting struggle, but if their complaint is that music halls produce stage plays, why don't they put the law into operation against us? During my career I have several times been fined for producing sketches played by two or more people. The law is quite plain in saying that anything on the lines of a representation of a stage play is illegal in a music hall. Why don't they prosecute us if they think we are acting improperly? We give sketches in spite of the law, but the theatrical managers have the law in their own hands, and yet take no action. They complain that we are poaching on their preserves, and instead of trying to stop us they say: 'Very well, if you copy us, we will copy you; if you have stage plays in your music halls, we will have smoking in our theares.' That is children's behavior. As far as I can see the threat of having smoking in theatres will do no harm to the music halls. People will always go where they like. I do not think that it is the prohibition of smoking that keeps people away from theatres, but bad plays and bad acting. Take, for instance, 'The Gay Lord Quex.' Do people stay away from the Globe because smoking is not allowed there? No, they go and see a good thing, as they always will, whether there is smoking or not. If you give them something to see the public will go anywhere." Mr. Morton concluded with the somewhat surprising statement: "The smoking and the drinking in a variety theatre now are not worth talking about. We are forbidden to supply drinks in the first place, but now we have almost no call for them. My view is, if the theatres want smoking let them have it, but if they do it out of revenge it is child's play."

Perhaps at the Palace the bars are not a very important factor in booming the receipts, but in many other halls they undoubtedly are. It must be remembered, too, that all the theatres have bars, and in most of them remarkably bad liquor at very high rates is the policy pursued by the persons who control them.

TERRY'S THEATRE.—"The Upper Hand," a new and original comedy, in three acts, by Charles Winthrop and Walter Leslie, produced at a trial matinee May 29. This play was originally announced as "The Whip Hand," but as another piece of that name is copyrighted the title was changed. It is rather smartly written and is well woven, but is not apt to make a decided success if exploited as a regular attraction in town. The story hinges on the villain, Philip Barwell, doing his misdeeds while posing as the hero, Charles Cheyne, among his rascalities being the seduction and desertion of a trusting maiden. As this same maiden tells the lady who is going to marry Cheyne of the seduction there is naturally trouble, but it all comes right when the wronged one meets Barwell and calls him Cheyne. A good company, including Fanny Brough and Sarah Brooke, did the play pretty full justice, and a large and friendly audience gave it a pleasant welcome.

STRAND THEATRE.—"Bob Bradshaw's Dream," a play, in one act, by B. W. Thomas, produced May 29, in front of "Why Smith Left Home." This is a new version of the old, old story of an elderly man thinking a young girl loves him, when in fact she loves a younger man, and the old 'un discovering the truth, does the sacrifice act and blesses the lovers. It was played by James Nelson as the elderly lover, Herbert Terry as the young one, Margaret Calvert as the heroine, and Dorcas Crosbie as her mother. The main item in the bill at the Strand is going strong. The entire company was taken to Portsmouth one day, and appeared at a matinee, returning to town in time for the evening performance.

NOTES.—It is again rumored that Mr. Tree is at a loss for an actress to fill the part of Constance in his contemplated production of "King John," and that he may produce "Anthony and Clepatra" instead. Julia Neilson or Mrs. Patrick Campbell are suggested for Cleopatra, the one for her voluptuous beauty, the other because of "intellectual command."..... A private individual who considers—in spite of Mr. Bourchier's protest that he never saw or heard of him—that the character sketch in "Wheels Within Wheels," of the rakish and vulgar millionaire man about town, is designed as a portrait of himself has endeavored to have the Lord Chamberlain interdict Mr. Bourchier's performance. In this instance nothing will be done, but there have been cases where actors have been forced to discontinue the holding of other people up to ridicule by such means, two notable cases being Fred Leslie's imitation of Sir Henry Irving dressed as a ballet girl, and a caricature of Mr. Gladstone at the Court Theatre, where, by the way, Mr. Bourchier is acting..... Edward Jakobowski, the musical composer, has been sued by his wife—a widow who he married in New York in January, '95—on the grounds of cruelty and misconduct. The testimony was very strong against him, and the judge let it be understood that when certain technical testimony as to Jakobowski's identity had been established as the husband the divorce would be granted. .....Patti has stated in an Italian newspaper that her favorite opera is "Lucia di Lammermoor," but that she considers that "La Traviata" suits her best as a vocalist and an actress.....Jane Hading will probably support Coquelin in "Plus que Reine" when he gives that play during his London season. .....The announcement of Queen Victoria having decorated Jean de Reszke with the Cross of the Royal Victorian Order of the Fourth Class appeared today in the list of "birthday honors." Sir Arthur Sullivan and Signor Tosti are musicians who have previously been so decorated.....The fireworks season at the Crystal Palace has begun, Thursday nights being, as usual, selected for the displays. A leading novelty this year is a pyrotechnic ballet dancer called "La Danseuse," and the movements are very cleverly carried out. It is the Brocks' thirtieth season at the C. P., I believe.....The suit for damages brought by Clement Scott against The Era has been dropped or settled, much to the disappointment of the profession and the public at large as well.....The "musical prodigy" market is very flat, and it is said that "the rage for immature genius has ceased to exist."..... The theatre hat question has cropped up in Greece, and a rule prohibiting their being worn in the royal theatres having been broken by a lady who declined to obey, she was sent to jail for two weeks.....A man was fined 8s. 6d. here recently for smashing an electric light globe in front of a shop, and gave as his excuse that he was only showing a friend how the bells sounded in Sir Henry Irving's play, "The Bells."..... Eugene Stratton, one of the most popular of the 'darkey" performers on the variety stage here, is, as many know, an American. He hails from Buffalo, N. Y., but has been in England since 1881. Mrs. Stratton is a daughter of G. W. "Pony" Moore, the veteran minstrel..... The father of Mascagni, the now wealthy composer of "Cavalleria Rusticana," recently died at Leghorn, Italy. He was a baker in very humble circumstances until his son's success, after which the latter made his parents comfortable for life..... The benefit matinee given for Frank Glenister, manager of the London Pavilion, 29, was a great success from all points of view, "Pony" Moore's Do Da Day Minstrels being the leading item. The working staff of the "Pav" gave Mr. G. a silver tea and coffee set, and he, in turn, gave Mr. Cobbett a gold watch, Adolph Tressidder a gold match box, and Geo. Richter a set of gold links..... The Fellows of the Royal Botanic Society have arranged with Ben Greet for the production by his company, in the open air, in the society's gardens in Regent's Park, of "As You Like It," "A Midsummer Night's Dream," and perhaps other pastoral plays.....The free open air Sunday concerts have now begun in London, and there are from fifteen to twenty fine bands playing tomorrow through the length and breadth of the metropolis .....The farewell performances at the Criterion are now fixed for 21, when "The Case of Rebellious Susan" will be given in the afternoon and "Rosemary" in the evening, Mr. Wyndham having secured the services of nearly all the actors and actresses who took part in the original productions. The Prince of Wales has sent word that he will be present in the evening, and the day's receipts are certain to add a large sum to his Hospital Fund.....The projected benefit for Joseph Hurst, the veteran box office keeper at the Lyceum, has been fixed for 23, and the arrangements are in the very capable hands of John Hollingshead.....Johnny Danvers is working with the Mohawk Minstrels, again on tour. He will travel with Dan Leno for a while in the Autumn, and again be in the pantomime at Drury Lane....George Capel, stage manager of the Empire, has been presented with a silver tea service by the working staff of the hall, together with a few friends on the outside..... A new opening for variety folks will soon be ready at South End, the seashore resort nearest to London, where, on July 3, the South End Kursaal is to be opened. The enterprise is on the large and splendid lines of the famous Blackpool in Lancashire, and will be the first big effort to furnish the pleasure seekers at a South of England resort with amusements on a large scale at popular prices. .. ...The programme for the music hall sports July 4 will embrace twenty-five events, including a 100yds. handicap dash for ladies—dashing ladies, of course—and another for children. The present holders of the championship cups are: 440yds., Charles Cowen; one mile, Chris Horn; one mile bicycle, A. Lotto, and half mile obstacle bicycle, Toby Lotto. There will also be a comic football match, Dan Leno's team vs. the rest of England. .....It is said that an offer has been made to Charles Lauri to again manage the Alcazar at Brussels, backed by a syndicate.....The Rats will visit Burford Bridge 25, in ten or more coaches, and the Pimlico Lodge of Freemasons, No. 1772, will take a steamboat excursion on the Thames, from Oxford to Reading, Sunday, July 9.....The reported death of Fritz Braatz at Moscow, Russia, is fortunately not true, but he was badly injured by his fall, and is in a hospital. Regarding the serious accident to Hardy, the American Blondin, at the Alexandra Palace, he has written to The Era to say that the report that he rebounded after striking the net, and then went through it on his second fall is an error. "I went through it with terrific force," he writes, "as if it had been tissue paper. Seeing that my net was tested to stand a strain equal to that of an elephant falling into it, I am altogether at a loss to understand its giving way in the manner it did."..... The Jackley Wonders, fresh from their American tour, have opened at the Bedford.....Kate Harvey is slowly recovering at Brighton from a very severe attack of typhoid fever....."Savage South Africa," at Earl's Court, has had a splendid advertisement in a strong letter of endorsement from Henry M. Stanley, the famous explorer, who says among other things: "Your 'savages' are real African natives; their dresses, dances, equipments and actions are also very real, and when I heard their songs I almost fancied myself among the Mazamboni, near Lake Albert, once again. You have an exceedingly good show, well worth seeing."..... The French Government's official figures, showing various financial results of the year in the Paris places of amusement, show that the single performance that drew the most money was "Le Prophete," at the Grand Opera, the receipts being 22,738 francs, or $4,547.60. Next in order came a performance of "La Poudre Perlinpinpin," at the Chatelet, which drew $2,778.20, and "Cyrano de Bergerac" was third with $2,094.40. The largest house at the Theatre Francais was to see "Le Bourgeois Gentilhomme," and it drew $1,791.20.....Julie Ring, the American actress, says she is much pleased with her experience since going to "the halls." She says she threw up a thirty-six weeks' engagement in the States when she got a chance to come here and play the title part in a Birmingham pantomime, called "The Sleeping Beauty."..... Grace Wixon has been elected a member of the Actors' Association.....Tenley's new success, "A Little Ray of Sunshine," reached its one hundred and fiftieth performance at the Royalty May 30..... Hayden Coffin, of "The Greek Slave" Co., at Daly's, has been seriously ill for some weeks, and is recuperating at the seashore. He will not be able, however, to appear at the beginning of the revival of "A Gaiety Girl," 5.....John E. Kellard and Mrs. Kellard, John B. Doris, Samuel Kingston, Al. Hayman and Clyde Fitch are among the American theatrical people now in London. E. D. Price is expected about July 1.....The benefit for Pattie Browne at Melbourne, before she started for England, netted £250. Harry Rickards and his wife took part, playing a little sketch called "Pink Notes." Lieut. Frank Travis is also now on his way from Melbourne to London..... Madge Ellis, according to provincial reports, is becoming a popular orator as well as a popular singer. At Middlesbrough, last week, she made two speeches on her opening night at the New Empire, in response to the demands of the audience.....Kitty Wagner and Fred Poplar are en route from Australia on a French steamer.....Mrs. Madeleine Lucette Ryley has been flurried by the English newspapers saying that she called her play, "The Mysterious Mr. Bugle," a comedy, and has hastened to take her pen in hand, and write to illume the darkness by explaining that she has always described it as a farce. A farce, indeed..... It is said that Paderewski is to receive a fee of 1,000 guineas for playing at a forthcoming musicale at W. W. Astor's London residence.....Commenting upon the growing influence of Charles Frohman's unquestionable managerial cleverness in connection with his London ventures, one of the cleverest of the critics says: "My congratulations to Mr. Frohman. With very slight dramatic material, but an enormous amount of moral force, he has subjugated theatrical London, and the theatrical paragraphists are now his creatures, his slaves, his things, and do his bidding, not only blindly but cheerfully. It has been gravely announced that he alone could save the doomed season—by the bye, in common with many others, I did not know the season was doomed, until I read it had been saved—I have already nailed my colors to my mast in regard to Mr. Frohman, for his advent and triumph mean the death of the actor-management system: that is to say, the consideration of plays before parts. Therefore I cry 'Floreat Frohman!'".....The obituary nouces of the late Joseph Levy, the veteran circus advance agent, made the error of connecting his career with the "Lord" George Sanger show. Mr. Levy was employed to exploit John Sanger's Circus..... Bolossy Kiralfy is at the head of a big Parisian enterprise mainly for the Exhibition of 1900, to be known as the Theatre Columbia, and it will be opened some time this Summer with a grand spectacular ballet called "The Orient."..... Charles Frohman's latest reported purchase is the American version of "The Only Way," Freeman Wills' dramatization of Dickens' novel, "A Tale of Two Cities," and he will send an American company on tour in the States with it next season.....J. H. Didcott, who has been seriously ill for some time, is now out and about again..... Letty Lind will move to the Alhambra from Daly's June 12 for a short engagement, but does not sever her connection with Geo. Edwardes' forces..... Rumor has it that the Czar's Peace Rescript was the foundation for the end of the warfare between Clement Scott and The Era.....A hitch has occurred in the production of "Three Men in a Flat" at the Opera Comique, and it may not materialize. .....The advance booking for Sarah Bernhardt's "Hamlet" at the Adelphi has been so heavy that the announced programme for the engagement has been revised, and several additional performances of that play substituted for other pieces.....If Beerbohm Tree needs anything other than his present bill, "Captain Swift" and "The First Night," to carry him through the season a few performances of "The Musketeers" will be given.....Alvante, the wire walker, whose act is a very sensational one, is scoring heavily at the Aquarium.....M. Cormon, who collaborated with the late M. D'Ennery in many plays, is probably the oldest living dramatist. He is over seventy-five, and is hale and hearty. He was present in Paris the other day at the fiftieth performance of the revival of "The Two Orphans," which he helped to write, and the management gave away nine hundred seats in honor of the old man's visit..... "The Adventure of Lady Ursula" closes at the Duke of York's tonight with the two hundred and sixty-second performance, and will be followed 5 with "The Cowboy and the Lady."..... Maud Jeffries sailed today for New York to spend her vacation at her home in Memphis, Tenn..... The Paris benefit for Lydia Thompson brought about 18,000 francs ($3,600) additional to the £3,000 netted by the recent Lyceum benefit here. Bernhardt as Hamlet, Mounet Sully as Othello, Coquelin as Cyrano were the star impersonations of a big bill, which included recitations by Rejane and Coquelin-cadet. Rejane, by the way, has commissioned Arthur Lewis, Lydia Thmpson's son in law, to find her a theatre here for a short London season. Here in London the benefit season is still in full blast, and that given at the Prince of Wales' on the afternoon of May 30 for Jennie Lee, who is famous for her acting as Jo, in the dramatic version of Dickens' "Bleak House," netted £500. The cheaper parts of the theatre, much to the general surprise, were poorly patronized, and the amount secured was in good part made up by outside checks and contributions. She created the part of Jo while traveling in California. Afterwards, beginning in February, 1876, she played it for eight consecutive years in and about London, and she has also played it in Australia, India and South Africa. Miss Lee is still on the sunny side of forty, and has no idea of retiring. A curious relic of Jo was shown in the lobby of the theatre, being the gate of the old churchyard where Jo used to sit, as described by Dickens in the novel..... A three legged filly, described as "nature's latest and choicest gift to the world of science," is on its way here from South Africa. It is said to be a very pretty horse, and its single fore leg is so neatly placed as to let it balance perfectly, and it walks with ease..... The great success of "The Tyranny of Tears," at the Criterion, has induced Mr. Wyndham to go for a short provincial—a thing he has not done for years—and he will start directly after his town season closes, and be gone about a month.....Leslie Stuart, "the Sir Arthur Sullivan of the music halls," and "Owen Hall" are writing the music and libretto, respectively, of a new musical play for the Lyric. The scene is to be laid in India.....Florence Warden, the novelist, who wrote "The House on the Marsh" and other detective stories, has written a four act comedy of modern life that will soon be given at a trial matinee.....Marba, of Heeley and Marba, has been successfully operated on for an injury to his left leg, and will be at work again in about a month. Haidee Lee, of Lee and Kingston, is about to undergo an operation on her throat, but it is said that it is not a serious matter.....Don Lorenzo Perosi, the young Italian composer, has apparently had a bad attack of swollen head. His success was so great that the Pope paid him the extraordinary compliment for so young a man of appointing him director of the sixtone choir. The ceremonial of his installation as such requires that he first be invested with the title of a simple chorister, and when the formula had reached that point he indignantly interrupted the proceedings, declined to listen to the explanation, and haughtily withdrew, to the unspeakable wrath of the old canons of St. Peter's and—when he heard of it—the great indignation of the Pontiff, who has since canceled the very much envied appointment.....Beerbohm Tree's speech at the banquet of the Musical Directors' Association was a capital one.....Geo. E. Belmont, widely known as "Barnum's Beauty," whose adroit ability and absolutely abnormal abundancy and affluence of achievement in the accomplishment of alliterative advertising has made him as the ace is to the deuce in the game of promoting publicity, has been interviewed by The Encore. It appears that it was he who "discovered" Marie Lloyd, and that he has offered—without success—John Burns, the "working man member of Parliament," £60 a week for an engagement at Sadler's Wells, his turn being to give two short addresses each evening, for at Sunny Old Sad's, as at the Belmont, the prices of admission are very low, and the two houses a night plan prevails.

DOOLEY AND TEN BROOKE.

Larry Dooley and James Ten Brooke, black face singing comedians, have been working together one year. They doubled up upon Mr. Dooley's return from London, Eng., where he had been principal end man and comedian with Moore & Burgess' Minstrels for two years. They have been very successful the past year, playing all the principal vaudeville theatres in the East, and are engaged for the coming season as special features with the Primrose & Dockstader Minstrels.

NOTICE TO CORRESPONDENTS.

Our theatrical correspondents are hereby notified that the credentials now held by them expired on June 1. They are requested to return them to this office at once, for renewal for 1899-1900.

JACK GARDNER, of the Three Gardners, Jack, Andy and Ada, won free wheelbarrow rides from John T. Baker, of Baker and Lynn, as a result of the Jeffries Fitzsimmons boxing contest. They were playing the Theatre Royal, Montreal, Can., with the Sporty Widows Co., and the day following the contest Baker made good his wager by wheeling Gardner from the hotel to the theatre before the matinee and night performances. The ladies of the company headed the parade in an omnibus, and were in turn followed by a noisy band, consisting of a trombone, snare drum and a bass drum, Baker ending the procession wheeling his successful opponent in the wager.

CHAS. E. KILLINGBECK has been engaged for the Summer as stage manager of the Iron Pier, Syracuse, N. Y.

THE PALMER SISTERS opened a two weeks' engagement at Atlantic City, N. J., June 19. They have signed with Manager Abe Leavitt for the Rentz-Santley Burlesque Co.

HARRY ST. CLAIR, press agent of the Bijou Theatre, Washington, D. C., was married to Elsie Earle, a professional, on June 10, at Washington.

RUTH EVERETTE, who has been seriously ill in Philadelphia, Pa., for a fortnight, is recovering, and expects to resume work in a few weeks.

BIJOU L. PRICE has been suffering with nervous prostration for the past two weeks, caused by a severe bite from a St. Bernard dog.

MR. AND MRS. GENE HUGHES are spending their Summer in San Francisco, Cal., at the home of Mrs. Hughes' mother, Mrs. Crews. They will return to New York Aug. 1, to join Ed. F. Rush's Sensation for the season.

THE RYDONS, Charles and Emma, were the special feature of the Red Men's celebration at Chilhowie Pond, Knoxville, Tenn., June 8.

MAUDE AMBER has just finished playing the Keith circuit, and intends playing the Eastern houses this Summer.

THE RYEFORD SISTERS have closed with the John L. Sullivan Co., and will spend the Summer at their home in Cleveland, O.

ROSA CROUCH has dissolved partnership with Mlle. Bertina.

THE TROUBADOUR FOUR have disbanded, and James Johnson and Louis N. Powers have, in conjunction with Mabel Waite Johnson, late of E. E. Rice's forces, organized the Broadway Trio.

O. G. SEYMOUR, of Seymour and Dupree, writes: "We have six weeks of parks East, two weeks on the Burke circuit, with the Keith circuit to follow. Then we join the Henry E. Lee World's Entertainers for the remainder of the season, with the Orpheum circuit to follow. Have only had three open weeks since our ad. in THE CLIPPER, and we refused the work. Have been laying off at home, Norwich, Ct., resting."

O'LEARY'S CASINO PAVILION, Guttenburg, N. J., opened for the season June 12. On the programme were: Dick Gorman and wife (Nellie Leonard). Dan C. and Ida Manning, Tom Flynn and Allie Sharpley, Ahern and Patrick, Wilson and Leslie, John Dillon and Lilly Weldon.

DEL FUEGO has closed with the Barnum & Bailey Show, and arrived in New York June 13.

WM. JOSH DALY'S MINSTRELS NOTES.—We opened up Monday, June 12, at Spring Lake Park, Trenton, N. J., to a good sized audience. Each night brings a larger audience, and our first part, with its stage settings and elegant costumes, is a hit from start to finish. The chorus is well drilled, and the harmony produced by our double quartet is greatly appreciated. In the olio the Nugent Bros. buck and wing dancers, never fail to win rounds of applause. The K. L. C. R. Quartet also win great favor. Charlie Prince and Josh Daly get their audience in great shape, while Craig and McDonald, musical comedians, are a genuine hit both with their comedy and music, and the audience go away well satisfied after seeing our funny afterpiece, "Aunt Matilda's Birthday."

THE DE FORRESTS, whirlwind dancers, sail June 20 for England, to fill European engagements, lasting eighteen months. They open July 3 at the Palace Theatre, London, Eng.

HERBERT SWIFT, of the Milbank Bros.' Minstrels, has been very sick for a week with malarial fever in Maine. He was compelled to leave the company and return to Boston, Mass.

COOPER AND REYNOLDS report the success of their new act, in which they have introduced a laughable finish.

ROCHEFORT AND MAY have closed a successful season of forty-three weeks with the John L. Sullivan Co. and are resting at their country home in Fanwood, N. J.

NOTES FROM CHARLES AND MADGE SULLIVAN (the Sullivans of Dublin).—We closed our season at Washburn, Wis., to a crowded house. We have completed all arrangements with I. W. Whitbread to open with our own company at the Queen's Royal Theatre, Dublin, Ireland, during the horse show fair (the best date after Boxing Night), in August, 1900, and as this is our old "stamping ground," and first visit after nine years' absence, a right royal welcome is assured us.

THE BRETON RUNKEL TRIO have completed their engagements on the Burt circuit and are this week at the Chicago, Ill, Opera House.

TOM NOLEN AND CORA WHITE write: "We closed a successful season of forty weeks with A. H. Woodhull's High Rollers May 27, and are now in our fourth week at the Palace Theatre, Boston, Mass. We have signed with Frank B. Carr for next season, with his Indian Maidens Burlesquers. Our comedy sketch, 'A Tramp's History,' has been a hit everywhere."

THE STAR THEATRE, Brooklyn, N. Y., closed a season of forty-four weeks on Saturday night, June 17, which was its fourth under the direction of Manager W. L. Bissell. The season just closed was the most prosperous one in the history of this popular play house. Only the best class of burlesque companies have been played, while the smoking concerts which were inaugurated by this management proved an immediate success, and helped in a great measure to make this house a popular resort. Manager Bissell has been retained by the Hyde & Behman Amusement Co. to manage the house next season, and the same policy will be adhered to as in the past. The list of attractions booked for the coming season excels any of the past bookings, including all the standard burlesque companies and several new attractions which are expected to be novelties. The season will open about the middle of August, and numerous improvements for the comfort of the patrons will be made while the house is closed.

KILROY AND BRITTON write from Columbus, Ga., as follows: "We are playing a fourteen weeks' engagement on the Southern Syndicate, and meeting with the greatest success of any one of the other shows on the circuit. In this town we have been held over the second week, packing the Casino every night with the best people in the town, and we have been requested to play a return date here before the season closes. We will return to New York after the season closes here and will then produce our new act."

ALLEN AND WEST are at Earnest's Pavilion, St. Louis, Mo., this week. They are now on Ben Harris' circuit for a few weeks.

WROTHE AND WAKEFIELD were at Highland Park, Jackson, Tenn., May 29; North Highland Park, Columbus, Ga., June 5–12, and open at East Lake Park, Birmingham, Ala., 19.

SALIM HABEEB, a member of the Syrian Amusement Colony on Coney Island, was married to Jamelie Salomie, better known as Fatima, the Oriental dancer, in Brooklyn, N. Y., June 15.

BARLOW MINSTREL NOTES.—On account of the closing of Koerner's Park Theatre, at St. Louis, Mo., the Barlow Minstrels will play the Midway Park, at Piqua, O., week of June 19, with Mansfield to follow. At Dayton the minstrels did the biggest week's business in the history of the house, and are booked to return. Our band of fifteen pieces, under the direction of Joe Norton, makes a good impression. The Elliott Bros. are producing a neat dancing act. John Queen and Harry Ward occupy the last edition, and are ably seconded by Lew Baldwin, Jim Stuart, Hugh Cannon and John Elliott. Cam Matthews visited us for three days last week. Our regular season will open Sept. 3. John Vogel and Edward De Coursey paid the car a short visit during the week.

BEN DUNHAM, of the Dunham Family, aerial bar performers, writes from Moscow, Russia, under date of June 1, as follows: "We are now in our third week at the Theatre Erimitage, in this ancient city, and I wish to state that this is the first city of Europe we've played where we haven't met a number of American performers. There are, however, a number of English performers playing in this city, but at the above house the August Family of Jugglers are the only English speaking people besides ourselves. At the Garden Ormond there are several English speaking acts, among whom are the Three Eugenes, aerialists; the Bratz Brothers, the Five Lorison Sisters, and Leo, the ventriloquist. I would mail you a programme, but you couldn't read a word of it without a translator. We cannot read our own names when printed in Russian. Moscow is a very ancient city, and reminds me a great deal of the City of Mexico. The streets are all paved with cobblestones, with the exception of a few blocks of the main streets. I must relate our experience on our arrival here. On our way to Moscow we met two English gentlemen who had been in this city before and who spoke the Russian language. They were kind enough to interpret for us at the eating stations and at the place where our baggage was examined. When we arrived at Moscow our English acquaintances took us to a cab and instructed the driver where to take us. The driver immediately knew we were ignorant of his language and drove us about three miles from the city to a park, which I have since learned was Protosky Park, and claimed that was where he was instructed to take us, (explaining by shrugs and jestures). We were in a nice predicament—three miles from Moscow and not one of us able to speak a word of Russian. After jesticulating and pantomiming for nearly half an hour, I succeeded in making the driver turn his horses toward the city as I was well aware that the Erimitage, where we were to go, and where the driver had been instructed to take us, was in or near the centre of the city. I then repeated the name Erimitage over to him about fifty times, but he would only shrug his shoulders and pretend not to understand. Finally he stopped and asked a policeman something and then took us direct to where we wanted to go. There, too, every one spoke the same language, except the stage manager, who spoke German and we managed to straighten matters out by paying a few extra rupies for our experience, which I guess was 'cabby's' game, as we were completely at his mercy. We go to Tower Circus, Blackpool, Eng., from here for six weeks, after which we sail for dear old America to fill a few fair dates. We return to Europe in November to fill our Winter's engagements, opening in Paris. Our European tour has been very prosperous and our success everywhere has been marked. Kind regards to all of our American friends."

BROOKS AND BROOKS were CLIPPER callers June 16. They closed their season with Fred Rider's Night Owls Burlesquers 10, and Max Brooks, of this team, was surprised on reaching this city to learn that he had been reported as having died in the South. They report a successful season with the show, the burlesque part of which they produced, and they also did their specialty in the olio. They further state that Fred Rider's Imperial Theatre, at Atlanta, Ga., has been a success since the opening, May 29. The team is resting for a few weeks at their home in Brooklyn, N. Y.

THE HEWLETTES (Robert and Josephine), after a few weeks' vacation on their farm at Southville, Mass., inaugurate their Summer season June 26, at Lake Nippenicket, near Taunton, Mass. They play South Framingham July 3, after which they are under contract with Manager R. A. Harrington for his Rocky Point resort, near Providence, R. I.

LEW BENEDICT is with Grant & Flynn's Minstrels, playing their circuit of Summer parks through New England.

NOTES OF L. LAWRENCE WEBER'S ATTRACTIONS.—After several weeks' sojourn among the pines Manager L. Lawrence Weber returned, looking hale and hearty, to his work for the ensuing year for his Parisian Widows and Dainty Duchess Companies. These organizations will be free from all suggestive features and objectionable comedy. The burlesques are of a comic opera order and will be presented in a comic opera fashion, even the chorus ladies employed having all served apprenticeships with some of the large opera companies. The engagements thus far comprise Anna Suits and company, in their "The Dream of the Cake Walk;" the Manhattan Comedy Four, in a new sketch; Burke Bros. and Wise Mike, in a new specialty; Howard and Emerson, who will sing and illustrate songs with moving pictures; Gilbert and Goldie, the talkative Irish comedians; Ruby Marion, cornetist; Letta Meredith, leading boy; Wm. Thayers and Junie McCree. The latter gentleman is a well known burlesque comedian on the Pacific coast. The business staff is composed of L. Lawrence Weber, proprietor and manager; Chas. Wiegand, Sam Dessauer, MAX LAZARUS and Louis Lesser.

THE GLOBE THEATRE, Elmira, N. Y., will undergo alterations this Summer. The stage will be enlarged, the seating capacity increased, more dressing rooms constructed, and various other changes wrought throughout the house. Manager Johnson reports a successful season, and the prospects for the coming season exceptionally bright, inasmuch as the varied industries of the city are running full time, many of the mills having orders for a year ahead. About Aug. 1 the big rolling mills, to employ upwards of five hundred hands, will start up for the first time in some years. The Globe will play only burlesque and vaudeville attractions, three night stands. The opening is scheduled for about the middle of September. The house is booking in conjunction with the Gaiety at Scranton, Bijou at Wilkesbarre, and Bijou at Binghamton, these four cities being played three days each.

OHIO.

Cincinnati.—After a fortnight of sweltering weather, stifling temperature, for the month of brides and roses, came a breath as from the Arctic; a change quite as unseasonable as the torrid spell had proved. This was the sort of handicap that came to interrupt the harvest of the Summer amusement caterers. The Baker Opera Co. will commence its engagement at Chester Park, July 2, when "The Queen's Lace Handkerchief" will be put on. Among the singers recruited for the season are: Adelaide Norwood, Blanche Chapman, Beatrice McKenzie, James Aldrich Libbey, George Lyding, Robert Lett and Edward Temple.

LUDLOW LAGOON.—Possession being deemed nine points of the law, Manager John J. Noonan decided to open this Kentucky resort June 18, although the legal status remains the same. William Reidler and other members of the park company are trying through the courts to oust Noonan, and there may be a judicial echo to the opening.

CHESTER PARK.—Conan, the Booming Trio, George S. Knight, Georgia Mann, Foster and Williams, Robert Lett and Birtie Dole will be seen in vaudeville at the Opera House 18.

Montgomery Phister paid a touching tribute to the memory of Augustin Daly.....Webb Welbourne is doing good work for the Zoo.....Charles W. King, late of the Neill Stock Company, spent a day in Cincinnati, en route to Milwaukee, where he joined the Frawley Co..... Sængerfest Hall will be dedicated 18, and it is expected that fully 35,000 people will attend the service.....Manager Will S. Heck, of Heck's Wonder World, is rounding up attractions for the street fair of the Elks at Hamilton, O., July 31–Aug. 5.....Manager M. C. Anderson says that the remodeling of the Fountain Square Theatre will be pushed through before the opening of the Fall season.....Managers Harry Rainforth and John H. Havlin, of the Grand Opera House, still remain in the city. Havlin is going to Michigan for his Summer outing and Rainforth will join the pilgrims at the seashore..... There was an unconfirmed story in circulation last week that a new Summer resort would be built at Dayton, Ky., on the banks of the Ohio River, near the sand bar.....Lee M. Hart, of Chicago, came down in advance of the delegates to prepare for the annual convention of the National Association of Stage Employes of America next week.

Cleveland.—In one particular it is well that the regular season has closed, as there is a strike of street railway employes, and travel on the cars is curtailed to such an extent that it would cut deep into the box receipts. Euclid Beach Park, which runs its own boat line (two steamers), is well situated as is also the Garden Theatre, which is on one of the lines which is still running.

GARDEN THEATRE.—This resort, in its present form, is a decided innovation and one that was really needed. The entrance has been greatly improved. There is a long covered foyer brilliantly lighted that makes protection from wind and rain certain. Then there is a theatre with 1,400 seats and so arranged that all the comforts of a garden and the protection of a theatre are afforded. The stage has been materially improved and so have the gardens. In a word, the Garden Theatre is an ideal Summer resort. The same high class of fashionable vaudeville that has been in vogue at the Lyceum will prevail at the Garden. As the Garden is under the same management this fact is assured. The opening bill had as the main feature Lillian Burkhart and company. The others were Six Sennettes, Newsboys' Quintet, Ray L. Royce, Felix and Barry, Blanche Ring, King and Gray, Boyle and Graham. The management is running a line of busses on Wilson Avenue, between Euclid and Woodland, and in that manner the absence of the street cars is overcome to a considerable degree.

EUCLID BEACH PARK.—The popularity of this resort still continues in spite of the street car tie up, for during the past week hundreds have availed themselves of a cool lake ride to the park on the park steamers. The bathing season has now fully opened up and many avail themselves of the advantages offered for this delightful pleasure. The theatre programme last week was the strongest so far this season. The midair performances of the Bickett Family were worthy of note. For week of June 18 the following vaudeville bill has been engaged: Prince Satsuma, in feats of juggling; the Three Constantine Sisters, in acrobatic dances; Berry and Hughes, in a musical sketch, and Harry and Eva La Reanes, in "The Irish Countess."

Akron.—At Lakeside Park Casino the S. R. O. sign appeared several times during the week of June 12. Hal Stephens' mimicry was a pleasing feature. The Litchfields will head the bill for week of 19, which includes Kittie Wolfe, Forester and Floyd, Sophie Burnham and Klust Brothers.

SUMMIT LAKE PARK.—Warm weather has caused a large increase in the business done at this resort. Bill for week of 19: Smith and Venetta, Nichols and Teed, and Maloney and Thurley.

RANDOLPH PARK PAVILION.—Carner's Stock and the Duquesne Orchestra did well week of 12. The above attractions and Prof. H. N. Holway's Water Spectacular Show are on the bill for week of 19.

W. C. ST. CLAIR, W. O. Tarkington and J. D. Newman, in advance of Gentry's Dog and Pony Show, were here 14. The show is billed to appear here 23–24.

Toledo.—At the Casino business averaged good during last week. Diana, dancer; Horace Golden, the Walton Bros., Onri Sisters, the McAvoys, Whiting Sisters, and Deveaux and Deveaux open 18, for week. Bookings for 25 and week: Tom Brown and Edith Hoyt, Patterson Bros., Bicknell, Gruett, Beers and Gruett, A. C. Lawrence, Greisson Sisters, and Prof. Collins and his boxing kangaroo.

NOTES.—Messrs. Stair & Burt have obtained a lease of the People's Theatre, and the house will be known as the Lyceum, in the Stair & Burt circuit. .....Burt's Theatre will be devoted to vaudeville and burlesque next season, under the Stair & Burt management.

Columbus.—Oldentangy Park Theatre did an immense business week ending June 17. Opening 18: The Bickett Family, Morrell and Evans, Welby, Pearl, Keys and Nellis, Belknap, Edwin and Kittie Deagon, the Nondescript Trio, Tommy Carroll and Bessie Davis.

MINERVA PARK CASINO had a good week ending 17. Opening 18: Prince K. O'Kabe's Imperial Japanese Troupe, Harry Edson and Dog "Doc," Louis Granat, Hal Stephens, Hadley and Hart, and Irwin and Hawley.

Dayton.—At Fairview Park the Barlow Minstrels drew good houses for the week of June 11. The bill for the week of 18 will include: Iler, Burk and McDonald, Ollie Young, Wilson and Lorain, Joe Hardman and the Goldsmith Sisters.

LEONDA, on the spiral incline, is the attraction at Lakeside Park for week of 18.

Zanesville.—The Street Fair and Carnival, to be held the week of June 19, is now an assured success. The merchants' booths are all finished, and only await the decorations. The Midway will be the strong attraction. Prof. Gaskill's Carnival and Menagerie has been engaged. Then there will be an American theatre, a Moorish theatre, a Turkish theatre, a Japanese theatre, a German village, a street of India, a congress of national dancing girls, and other forms of entertainment to delight the visitors. The great Pilion will give free exhibitions at 3 and 10 P. M. each day.....The First Regiment Band will give an open air concert at Grant Park Sunday, 18.

Sandusky.—At Cedar Point Pleasure Resort, week of June 11, the bill included O'Kabe's Japs, Emery and Russell, musical team, and Louis Grant, whistler. The attendance so far this season has exceeded expectations, and indications point to a successful season's business. Week of 18, the olio will be Tietina, toe dancer; Duffy, Sawtelle and Duffy, comedy trio; Maye Wentworth, singer; Leo and Chapman, comedy acrobatic team.

Mansfield.—At Lake Park Casino, week of 12 the attendance was fair. The bill of entertainers consisted of: Thurston and Texola, Charles Raymond, Dick and Alice McAvoy, Ollie Young, the La Renas, and the Whiting Sisters. Bookings for 19 and week: Peter Baker, Magee and Crimmins, Lottie West Symonds, Hale and Elliott, Mack and Fenton, and Saville Sisters.

MAINE.

Portland.—McCullum's Theatre (Cape Cottage Park) opened Saturday night, June 10, and was a grand success. The theatre was crowded to its full capacity and both play and company gave the best of satisfaction. "The Charity Ball" was the opening bill, which was continued for week of 12, the business holding good throughout the week. "Alabama" week of 19.

GEM THEATRE (Peak's Island.)—This handsome Summer theatre opened Monday evening, 12, with Mr. Barrows and stock in the comedy, "Brother John." The large audiences present at the opening night and throughout the week were liberal with applause and showed their appreciation of good work. Week of 19, "The Wife."

RIVERTON PARK.—This popular resort had its full share of patronage at its opening, 12 and week. The Fadettes Ladies' Orchestra, in their three daily concerts, was a strong feature. The stage show was given by the Martines, acrobats; Stella Lee, E. M. Hall, Noogah, aerialist, and John F. Hanson and Mabel Drew, sketch team. The Boston Novelty Co. 19 and week.

MANY FLORAL TRIBUTES were handed over the footlights last week, welcoming back, after a season's absence, many old favorites. The season has fairly opened with a rush at our three suburban resorts, the business starting in better and a little earlier than last year.

CALIFORNIA.

Los Angeles.—Fair sized audiences greeted L. R. Stockwell and company, in "A Midnight Bell," at the Los Angeles Theatre, June 8–10..... Good business rules at the Orpheum, where the following people make up the offering for 12 and week: Moung Toon and Moung Thit, Clifford and Huth, Montgomery and Stone, Caswell and Arnold, Troupe Montrose, Billy Van, and the Donovans. .....President Meyerfeld, of the Orpheum company, tarried in Los Angeles several days week 5–10, on his return to San Francisco, from an Eastern trip.....Manager Harry C. Wyatt, of the Los Angeles Theatre, is in San Francisco looking after Lambardi's Grand Italian Opera Co., which he and his business associates have under engagement for a period of months.....Los Angeles Lodge, No. 99, B. P. O. Elks, held the first meeting in its new quarters 7, and initiated twenty-eight candidates.

UTAH.

Salt Lake City.—At the Salt Lake Theatre Henry Miller, in "The Liars," played to good houses June 6, 7. "On and Off" comes 13, 14.

SALTAIR BEACH.—Utah's great salt lake bathing resort opened May 30, to good business. The buildings have been repainted, and many other improvements made by the management. The British Guards Band will furnish music 17, 18.

GOLDEN GATE GLEANINGS.

Japanese Dramatic Troupe the Novelty of the Week—"Richelieu," "Lucia di Lammermoor," "The Chimes of Normandy" and "The Brigands" Constitute the New Bills for the Week.

[Special Dispatch to THE NEW YORK CLIPPER.]

SAN FRANCISCO, June 20.—Henry Miller, in "The Liars," holds over this week at the Columbia Theatre, where good business ruled last week.

CALIFORNIA THEATRE.—The Japanese Dramatic Troupe appeared here for the first time last night. The engagement is for one week only. The "Brownies" will reappear for week of 25.

ALCAZAR THEATRE.—Lewis Morrison, who is now in the full swing of success, appeared last night as Richelieu. White Whittlesey made his first appearance here with the stock company of which later he will be the leading man.

ALHAMBRA THEATRE.—"Lucia di Lammermoor" was presented here last night by the Lambardi Opera Co. Owing to a disagreement with the management Signors Avedano and Salassa closed abruptly 15.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.—"The Chimes of Normandy" was produced here last night by the Southwell Opera Co. The opera was splendidly sung.

TIVOLI OPERA HOUSE.—"The Brigands" was presented here in an excellent manner. Dennis O'Sullivan is underlined here to appear as "Shamus O'Brien," in the near future.

ORPHEUM THEATRE.—Cressy and Dayner, Melville and Stetson, Francesca Redding and company appeared here for the first time last night.

OLYMPIA.—The bill for week of 19 includes: Waldo and Elliot, trapezists; Querita Vincent, buck and wing dancing; Westen and Herbet, musical team; Carleton and Royce, novelty dancers, and Dora Mervin, soprano singer.

NOTES.—Signors Avedano and Salassa, who closed last week with Lambardi's Opera Co., have been engaged to appear next month at the Tivoli. .....The Three Flying Banvards, Archie W. Stanloe and Mamie E. Scanlon, Mr. and Mrs. Keesing, Gene Hughes and Lina Crews Hughes, Way and Maitland, La Jesse, and Markeberg were at the Chutes last week.....Clay Clement and company will appear at the Columbia Theatre Aug. 21, in "A Southern Gentleman" and "The New Dominion." .....Querita Vincent has been a great drawing card at the Olympia. She will go East shortly, under engagement to the Rays' "A Hot Old Time" Co.

FROM OTHER POINTS.

"Just a Day Dream" Originally Acted at the Castle Square Theatre, Boston—Summer Stock Companies and Summer Park Vaudeville Prevails.

[Special Dispatches to THE NEW YORK CLIPPER.]

BOSTON, June 20.—With only two of our regular dramatic houses open there was last night a woeful want of attractions in the theatrical line. Weather during the day was torrid, but towards evening a cooler temperature prevailed, and served to induce a fair attendance at the several shows. The menu for the current week follows: Castle Square Theatre, Paul Armstrong's new four act play, "Just a Day Dream," had its first production on any stage, and drew audiences afternoon and evening that filled the house. The play is really an admirable one, and was cast, acted and staged in a manner commensurate with its intrinsic merit..... The reopening of the Columbia Theatre for a temporary season was marked by the presentation of "East Lynne," which was put on in charge of a very good cast, and with scenic adjuncts fully equal to the requirements of the drama.....At Keith's Theatre the star programme presented this week is headed by Ching Ling Foo, the Chinese magician, and he fairly astonished the hundreds who saw him in his marvelous feats, afternoon and evening. An excellent vaudeville and specialty bill is also provided.....At the popular price houses, the Palace, Austin & Stone's, the Knickerbocker, and at the outdoor 'chutes, business was good; in fact, at the latter it was especially so..... At the Tremont Theatre last evening "The Rivals" was presented by the dramatic contingent of the Young Men's Catholic Association, of Boston College, and, for amateurs, a truly worthy performance it was, the principals in the cast, Dr. T. J. Giblin as Capt. Jack Absolute, R. W. Hurley as Sir Anthony, Lillian Boles as Mrs. Malaprop, and Nora McCarthy as Lydia Languish, winning deserved applause in their interpretations of the roles assigned them. The house was filled to the doors.

ST. LOUIS, June 20.—The theatrical business opens with big preparations for the week of the Elks' convention. A couple of the downtown houses are reopened for the week, and all the Summer gardens are making special preparations.....At the Cave Alex. Spencer's Opera Co. opened Sunday, to most gratifying business. Several of the old favorites are with it, none of whom found more friends awaiting them than Gertrude Lodge. Wm. Stephens the tenor, was also here last season and "made good" Sunday. Maud Lillian Berri is the prima donna and scored a distinct success. The offering is "The Daughter of the Regiment."..... At the Suburban the minstrels are strengthened by the addition of Watson and Hutchings in the olio. Barria's diving elks are featured. Sunday's opening was jammed, with every indication of a big week.....At Ernest's Pavilion, Mannion Park, the minstrels are withdrawn to play at the Columbia, and the offering is vaudeville. The Midgleys are featured.....The Columbia opened Sunday for a week's run with Charles Ernest's Minstrels, from Mannion Park. Billy Rice, Frank Cushman, Arthur Demming and Tom Mack are end men and as popular as ever.....Forest Park Highlands opened the week with immease Sunday crowds. The features are all good, and Col. Hopkins will have big receipts for Elks' week.....At Koerner's Garden Managers Bromaly and Allen offer a good vaudeville bill. Their intention was to play minstrels during "purple week," but they have continued vaudeville and will get their share of the business.....The Standard opened Sunday with the Sporty Widows Burlesquers. They feature Karina and "The Rose of Lucrece." The show is warm enough even for the class of visitors who are in town this week.....At Olympia Park Lawrence Hanley and his stock company are playing "As You Like It." The business is improving, and Sunday's attendance gave earnest of a big week.

CHICAGO, June 20.—The week opened quietly, with the weather torrid and the business consequently driven from the regular houses to the roof gardens and the parks. The principal event was the revival of "Erminie" at the Studebaker by the Castle Square Opera Company. This was well sung, as was expected. Laura Millard, in the title role; John McWade, Mary Carrington, Gertrude Quinlan and the rest of the company did pleasing work. .....The Dearborn stock offered "Lend Me Your Wife," to a good house. Charles B. Hawkins successfully took the role of Capt. Tarbox. Frederick Montague made his first appearance with the company in the role of Dick, making an excellent impression. Julia Stuart, as the young wife; Mamie Ryan, in an ingenue part, and the rest of the company did their usual good work.....Ward and Vokes, in burlesque, at the Great Northern, and "The Club's Baby," at McVicker's, entered upon their final week, to fair houses.....Because She Loved Him So," at Powers', and "Arizona," at the Grand, enjoyed moderate business at the opening of their second week.....Camille D'Arville entered upon her second and last week as a Masonic Temple Roof Garden feature, to crowds.....Robert Downing and company made a good drawing top liner for the Chicago Opera House.....Among the outdoor resorts the Sans Souci, Ferris Wheel and Chutes Parks were thronged Sunday.....'Skylarking" drew well at Sam T. Jack's.

PHILADELPHIA, June 20.—The opening of the Grand Opera House last night was accomplished without any hitch and in a manner which should have been encouraging to Manager Charles W. Strine. An audience of large size was attracted, and they were unstinting with applause. "Il Trovatore" was given in a highly satisfactory manner, none of the singers being great, but the ensemble very good indeed. Mme. Ciaparelli, Mlle. Fields, Sig. Alberti and Sig. Veron, in the principal characters, were warmly welcomed, while Albert Guillea, an old favorite at this house, was given an ovation when he appeared as Manrico.....An audience of large dimensions assembled at Keith's yesterday afternoon and evening, and the patrons were well entertained by Robert Mantell and company, Hayes and Lytton, Willis P. Sweatnam, the Nichols Sisters and the other acts on an excellent bill.....At the Lyceum a burlesque and vaudeville entertainment was given by a company styled the Vaudeville Club, and the patrons, who attended in fair numbers, found amusement in the various features.....The Nickelodeon had good sized crowds throughout the afternoon and evening.

MILWAUKEE, June 20.—Things theatrically have about settled down to the Summer basis. This week's openings were well attended. The Frawley Co., at the Davidson, repeated last week's success in a very fine production of "Sweet Lavender," with Georgia Welles in the title role and Blanche Bates as Minnie Gilfillian.....At the Academy the Thanhouser-Hatch Co., in "Held by the Enemy," scored another hit. Donald Bowles, as the correspondent, and Gertrude Hoaman, as Susan, were excellent. Eugene Moore was at his best as Col. Prescott.....At the Trocadero the matinee was light, but evening house was large. Reese's "Faro Bill," an up to date afterpiece, was a winner.

KANSAS CITY, June 20.—The third week of the vaudeville season opened at Fairmont to big Sunday attendance. Cora Beckwith, in her swimming exhibition, was a big hit, and in the theatre the Faust Family and Altmont and Dumont were the features.

LOUISVILLE, June 20.—"Olivette" was the opera presented by the Fay Opera Company last night at the Auditorium, before a house packed to the doors.

M CHIGAN.

Detroit.—Theatrical news in this immediate vicinity is very scarce. No out of door resorts give vaudeville entertainments. The best that is offered is concerts, which are well patronized, such as Stock's Riverside Park and Pfeiffer's Garden. The only live amusements running are at the Lyceum and Wonderland.

LYCEUM THEATRE. The popular Cummings Stock offer this week "Pink Dominoes." Last week "Woman Against Woman" was presented in such a pleasing way as to draw out very large "turnouts." This company is certainly having a nice run of business, and Manager Stair is evidently adding considerable to his income.

WONDERLAND THEATRE AND MUSEE.—This week the following bill will be offered: Wm. H. Windom and his Black Slave Quartet, Allen Schrock, fancy bicyclist; Nellie V. Nichols, comedienne; Bentham and Byrne, musical comedians, Lewis and Elliott in a comedy sketch, and the Williams Musical Duo.

Kalamazoo.—Our theatres have been dark the past week with the exception of some entertainments by local talent.....The Casino at Lakeview Park is all ready for opening June 18, by a big vaudeville company which plays for one week, to be followed by Keystone Comedy Co. week 25. This new theatre is complete in all its appointments, a roomy stage, full sets scenery, dressing rooms, etc., the building and auditorium well supplied with electric lights, with ample seating capacity all under roof, and the management looks for a successful business season. Jas. C. Walter, who has had charge of the programme for this resort heretofore, as well as for the Grand Opera House, will again be the programmer.

Jackson.—At the Athenæum the Melville-Baldwin Co. came three nights and a matinee, to good business, June 5-7. Richard Mansfield, in "Cyrano de Bergerac," delighted a big house 9, the largest of the season in point of receipts.

GEORGIA.

Atlanta.—At the Grand the Thanhouser Hatch Stock Co. continues its successful run. "The Banker's Daughter" was given in a satisfactory manner June 12-14, while "Brother John" was the bill 15-17, and proved to be the hit of the engagement so far. Frank Hatch received an ovation for his clever work in this play, responding to numerous curtain calls. "Saints and Sinners" 22-24, "Innocent as a Lamb" 26-27.

IMPERIAL THEATRE.—Manager Rider presents 19 and week: Madame Rosa's Mastodons and Morgan's Living Statues, in addition to the olio and burlesque. Week of 12 was a success in every respect. The show was of the gilt edge order. The olio was good, Wild and Adams, Billy Scott and Helen Sloan being especially clever. The hit of the week was the concluding farce, produced by Guy Rawson, entitled "A Night in a Female Seminary."

EXPOSITION PARK THEATRE is still open, producing comedies and vaudeville, to limited returns. Peters and Walters closed at this house 10.

Miscellaneous.

NOTES FROM MCPHEE'S BIG CO.—After a trip to the coast and back, playing all principal cities en route, we closed our opera house season and opened under canvas at Brandon, Manitoba, on May 23. We carry an soft. round top with three 30ft. middle pieces, canvas, seats, poles and everything being entirely new this season. Although it has rained almost every day since our Summer opening, we have not missed a stand and have done a very good business. In fact, a small house would be quite a novelty to us. We give a continuous show, dramatic and vaudeville, carrying a band of ten pieces and an orchestra of seven under the leadership of Prof. A. E. Currier. Our vaudeville department includes the Downies, aerialists, rolling globe, spade and ladder dancing; Chas. Chester, equilibrist and hand balancer; McPhee and Writ, aerialists; the Mandeville Children, singing and dancing; Lamar, Cook and Lamar, in a sketch. We have several fair and exposition dates, among them the great Winnipeg Exposition, also one at Brandon. Will stay in Manitoba all Summer. Our complete roster is: Andrew McPhee, proprietor and manager; Ferdinand Grahame, John N. McLeod, Fred Lamar, Louie Ramsdell, Gibb Writt, Oscar Cook, Andrew Downie, Lanson McPhee, Chas. Chester, J. R. Haynes, Carl Hoem, Geo. D. Louden, advance representative; Willis McKenney, assistant representative; Chas. Meyer, Chas. Luckey, Arthur Fordham, Prof. A. E. Currier, John Caldwell, Rufus Boylan, Jno. Bowers, John Coleman, Will Franklin, Walter Fitzgerald, Ben Harcourt, Mrs. Andrew McPhee, Hattie Lamar, Millie La Tena, Etha Rossland, Mrs. L. C. Mandeville, Daisy Mandeville, Baby Mandeville and not forgetting our Chinese cooks, Li Hung Chang and Ah Sin. Some of the boys have organized a baseball club, and between rains have won one game from the Elkhorn Club and lost one to the Virden Club. We always manage to get THE OLD RELIABLE CLIPPER every week, and although it is generally five or six days old when it reaches us, still it receives a hearty welcome from all.

NOTES FROM THE J. W. SHIPMAN "U. T. C." CO.—There is no let up in the steady stream of people that flock into our big pavilion theatre nightly, and Proprietor Shipman has long since ceased to look upon his venture as an experiment. Changes, however, have been the order of the day. J. C. Connors Jr., who has been filling the position of advance agent, has been succeeded by H. A. Tousey, who is now general agent. He is six hours ahead of the first brigade with a new and handsome rig. Fletcher S. Smith succeeds Mr. Tousey in charge of the first brigade, with two assistants, and a programme wagon is now being constructed. Six more colored musicians have been added to the No. 2 band and the white band now numbers fourteen musicians. The show, as now made up, furnishes employment for sixty people, and to move it thirty-six horses, eleven ponies, six mules and eighteen wagons are required. Salaries come as regular as Sunday, and although we have been up among the Northern New York hills THE CLIPPER has been a welcome guest every week.

NOTES OF OGDEN'S "UNCLE TOM'S CABIN" CO.:—We continue to have good business in spite of extremely bad weather. The route laid out by Taylor Parvin, our advance man, is to the west of Wisconsin, over the Mississippi River and through Minnesota. Walter Secor has charge of the billposters, and while out on the country routes meets numbers of rustics who say they know that it is a good show because they saw it fifteen years ago in Chicago.

NOTES FROM P. R. MILLER'S ORIGINAL TENNESSEAN JUBILEE SINGERS.—We closed the season May 31, at Chicago, Ill. We enjoyed a fairly prosperous season of thirty-nine weeks, opening at Lincoln, Neb., in August, and closing as above mentioned, having touched the States of Nebraska, Iowa, Missouri, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota and South Dakota. Sickness in the company interferred in a measure with our work. Thos. J. Morgan is now recovering from a severe attack of sciatic rheumatism, which has clung to him for some six months. We open the coming season about the middle of September in Northern Indiana, thence through Michigan into Canada and into the New England States.

ROSTER OF COOPER & CO., ANNEX AND MUSEUM.—B. L. Bowman, manager; Millie Taylore, long haired lady; Nena del Mato, snake enchantress; Agnes, mind reader; Mons. Del Kano, fire king; Harry Thing, Hindoo box mystery; Clark Boynton, one man band; Chas. Canim, Punch and Judy, magic and inside lecturer; H. M. Kelly, and den of four performing lions; Repaleer, midget horse; Dr. Skeansphontz, lightning calculator; W. H. Brooks, boss canvas man, with five assistants.

NOTES FROM THE CAPT. STEWART PAVILION SHOW.—We opened June 3, at Ft. Wayne, Ind., for three days, and played to S. R. O. We carry twelve head of horses, eight wagons, and a 6ft. top, with 40ft. middle piece. Everything about the show is new, and our parade is a feature. We are touring Indiana, Ohio and Kentucky. Our roster: The Short Family of comedians, Walter Lyons and six cake walkers, Ed. and Irene Browning, Charles Rice, Henry Lon, and Baby Goldie; Prof. Houlton, with a band of eight pieces; Ed. Magner, boss canvas man, with five assistants; Tom Brunce, boss hostler, with two assistants.

DANIEL MALONEY, an aeronaut, met with a serious accident at Glen Park, San Francisco, Cal., June 11. Maloney was seated in the parachute at the time the balloon had been inflated, and just as the men having charge of the guy ropes were about to cut it loose a sudden gust of wind struck the balloon and brought it up taut against the stay ropes. The sudden jerk on the line which held the parachute dislodged Maloney from his seat on the trapeze bar, and sent him to earth, a distance of about thirty feet. On his arrival at the hospital doctors made an examination of his injuries, and found that he received a lacerated wound of the chin, which required ten stitches to close; besides this there was a rib broken, his chest was crushed and severely injured, and a contused wound of the right thigh was also inflicted.

THE JAMES FAMILY, Swiss Bell Ringers, is now under canvas and meeting with success. We have been under the white tops now seven weeks, and, although we have had an abundance of rain, we have had good business all season. Roster: James & Loss, managers; Harlie James, stage manager; Stella James, soubrette; James and Marie Letton, character sketch; Harlie James, black face comedy; Tony F. Loss, juggling and slack wire; Ned James, leader orchestra, and troupe of trained dogs; Connie James, skirt dancer; Gar. Coppfield, calcium light and animatograph, with two assistants. Our 30ft. middle piece makes a great difference in our admissions, as we are packed at every performance. We take several copies of THE OLD RELIABLE every week, and the man in white always appears on time.

THORNTON & MARSH, with their picture songs, are now under canvas with their own show, playing Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia, with the following people: Thornton and Marsh, illustrated songs, also featuring their animated pictures, including a series of the Spanish bull fights; Dr. West, marionette; Prof. Hefner, in magic; Sol Goldsmith, Dutch and Irish; Sam Drane, in his old darky, changing to white face, and Prof. Cannon's dog circus. We carry our own band of seven pieces. Bert Gibson is boss canvas man, with three assistants, working under a 60ft., with 30ft. middle. Everything is new from stakes to bale rings.

ROSTER OF THE PAVILION CO.—We have a new 80ft. round top and 30ft. middle piece. Tom Atkins in charge, with four assistants; Prof. Alden, leader band and orchestra, with eight musicians; Phillips and Ray, Hayden Sisters, Skeicher Family, Billy Clark, J. V. Roberts, Ada Grant, J. Carrier, Three Bros. Morella, Shields and Mallon, Chas. Skeicher, stage manager, and Billy Collins.

NEIDERT'S HIGH CLASS VAUDEVILLE SHOW, under pavilion canvas, opened its Summer season at Bristol. Show is touring Pennsylvania, Ohio and Maryland, one, two, three night stands. Roster: Eugene A. Neidert, sole proprietor; Chas. L. Warner, business manager; Jean Alburtis, stage manager; Renzetta and Belair, comedy acrobats; Alburtis, wire walker; Carrie Delmare, contortionist; Sisters Charnman, song and dance; Neidert, trick 'cyclist; Prof. Warner, magician, and Vernon Brothers, bars.

BROWN BROS.' "EMANCIPATION" Co., which opens in September, will comprise seventy-four people, including a band and orchestra.

PRINCE HILAND has signed with F. D. Huling's Novelty Co. for next season.

NOTES AND ROSTER OF THE BLUE MOUNTAIN JOE COMPANY.—We opened our tenting season in Middletown, Pa., the later part of May, moving from there to Steelton, Pa., our present stand, June 7, where we will remain until June 28. Business is unexpectedly good here. The steel works, which are the largest in the world, are in full blast running day and night. On account of our increasing business and long standing in this city we are playing some new faces each week. The company now consists of the following people: Dr. Blue Mountain Joe, manager and lecturer; Mrs. Blue Mountain Joe, Master Maburn, Zereeth Trio, Ed., Ida and Miss Dennalla, T. F. Burns, W. G. Whitfield, Mary Bird and Tom Ladoo. Band and orchestra under the direction of Prof. F. D. Morse, B. A. Mills, W. E. Wheeler, L. M. Edwards, H. E. Johnson, Thomas F. Burns, W. Crosier, H. C. Newmyer, W. J. George, M. K. Frusteburg. Special attractions last week: Harry Dare, musical comedian; Harry Good, trick violinist; John B. Gruff, instrumental soloist, and the Keystone-Dubury Quartett, consisting of boys only eight years old. New faces for week of 20: Albert Fisher, Dutch comedian; Charles C. Lain and Mlle. Suzinetta, cannon ball manipulators. Our canvas is in charge of Tom McGraw with four assistants. We are still eating and sleeping in our own car and have not pitched cook tent yet. The show will start South in August for the Winter.

HATCH'S MIDWAY No. 1 opened at Bay Ridge, Baltimore, Md., Sunday, June 11, with new tents, banners and draperies. Roster: J. F. Hatch, sole proprietor and manager; the Great Paldo, Selcka, La Belle Freda, Garmea, Princess Armena, oriental dancers; Grace Sache, skirt dancer; Ella Waysbe, buck and wing dancer; Jim Hanlie, musician, and Ali Ben Harotian, oriental musician. Manager Hatch leaves June 20, with four oriental dancers, to join Geo. F. Knowles' circuit of street fairs, opening at Rochester, Pa.

WM. S. LE VARD is still principal comedian and stage manager with C. A. Bogardus. The show went under canvas at Wabash, Ind., and will remain out all Summer.

L. B. COLE is in charge of the advance for the Winternute Bros.' Show, and not W. W. Cole, as previously stated.

DEATHS IN THE PROFESSION.

PROF. LOCK E. RICHARDSON, an elocutionist, who underwent a surgical operation May 31, in Berlin, Ger., as a last resort in the efforts to save his life, died June 15, in that city. The deceased, who was about fifty-five years of age, was a native of this country, and was well known here for his work, which was principally confined to Shakespeare's works. He went to Berlin in March, 1898, to be operated upon for cancer, from which he had suffered for some time. He leaves a widow and several children. The body was cremated in Berlin.

JOHN H. COPLESTON, at one time well known in this country as a manager, died June 5, in Brighton, Eng., after a lingering illness. Mr. Copleston was born in England sixty-six years ago and came to this country as a young man. After devoting a number of years to newspaper work he joined the forces of the late Henry E. Abbey, with whom he went abroad to secure singers for the opening of the Metropolitan Opera House, this city. He was also instrumental in bringing for the first time to this country Henry Irving, Wilson Barrett and Sarah Bernhardt, and managed the latter on her first American tour. Of late years Mr. Copleston was identified with newspaper work in London. He leaves a widow and two daughters.

JUSTUS F. MENDEL, a musician, died May 8, in Ft. Worth, Texas, from meningitis. The deceased, who was in the nineteenth year of his age, was a son of Harry and Leonie Mendel, an old time and well known Dutch team. He had closed an engagement with the Marretta Family and was visiting relatives in this city at the time of his death, which occurred quite suddenly. His mother, two sisters and a brother survive him. The remains were interred in the Ft. Worth Cemetery 9.

EDNA PAIGE POTTS, an actress quite well known in the West, died June 11, at her home in Pine Island, Minn., from consumption. The deceased, who was twenty-three years old, made her debut nine years ago with her brother's company, then known as Paige's Players, and has since filled stock and repertory engagements with many of the best Western companies. Last season she starred with her own company, which was known as the Edna Paige Comedy Co., and was under the management of her husband, Walter L. Potts. Her husband and daughter, four years of age, survive her.

HENRY SCHACKEL, the pioneer pleasure resort keeper of South Beach, S. I., N. Y., died June 15, at the Smith Infirmary, New Brighton, from catarrh of the stomach. The deceased, who was fifty-nine years of age, went to Staten Island about twelve years ago, and established a pleasure park at Arrochar, bordering on what is now known as South Beach. Later he opened the first big hotel at the latter place, and had kept a hotel there continuously until his death. His wife, a son and three daughters survive him.

PROF. J. H. MOORE, orchestra leader of the Amphitheatre, Hot Springs, Ark., who died May 15, at that place, from cancer of the throat, was well known in the West. He was also a member of the Ledgerwood Band, of Hot Springs. His wife and an infant daughter survive him.

"DUMMY" (LAFE) MILLER, a bar performer, died June 15, at the South Framingham (Mass.) Hospital, after an illness of three days, from spinal meningitis. The deceased was about thirty years of age and had been in the profession for nearly fifteen years, during which time he had traveled with various circuses and minstrel shows. He and his partner, Tom Nelson, were playing with La Pearl's Circus when he was taken ill, 12, at Milford, Mass. The remains were sent to the home of his mother, in Springfield, O., for interment.

MRS. SARAH N. WARD, formerly an aerial performer, died June 19, at her home in Stamford, Ct., from gastritis. She was born in Sheffield, Eng., Jan. 30, 1842, and came to this country in 1882. For several years she traveled with the Sibbon Family, aerialists, in their own company. She leaves a married daughter, also in the profession. The remains were interred 20, in Woodland Cemetery, Stamford.

WM. BENTON WALKER, an actor, died June 19, in Bellevue Hospital, this city, from delirium tremens. The deceased, who was forty-two years of age, was at one time a member of the Old Union Square Theatre Stock Company.

OREGON.

Portland.—At the Marquam Grand "The Turtle" did a big business June 5, 6, "On and Off," with E. M. Holland, Fritz Williams and Essie Tittle in the cast, did good business 8-10. The Kelcey-Shannon Co. comes 26-28.

CORDRAY'S THEATRE.—The Wakefield-Andrews Opera Co. closed its engagement and the season of the theatre 14. The theatre is now dark.

COLISEUM THEATRE.—Dunbar and Harris, and Bradley and Evans.

THIRD STREET THEATRE.—Miss De Mar, Harry and Mamie Richards, Frank Montgomery, Arthur Stewart, Thompson and White, Forman and Howlette, Montgomery and Farrell, Linsley Brothers, Baisden and Captain Carl.

RINGLING BROS.' CIRCUS opened 12, under it own canvas, and four performances were given. At the evening show 12, an audience of 13,000 people was delighted by the clever performance.

INDIANA.

Indianapolis.—The Anglo-American Trained Animal Exposition opened June 12, for a two weeks' stay. Business has been only fair this week, owing to several rainy days. The show is well equipped and gives general satisfaction..... Eddie Hayes, of Hayes, Heeg and Smith, whose home is in this city, is spending a week with his family. His wife presented him with a girl baby 7. .....The first national meeting of the Order of Buffaloes was held 14-17, in this city.

Clipper Post Office.

☞ A STAMPED ENVELOPE, plainly addressed, must be inclosed for each letter, and the line of business followed by the person addressed should be given, in order to prevent mistakes.

NOTE.—Professionals and others should bear in mind that all letters, etc., in transit between the United States and Canada, must be prepaid, otherwise they are not forwarded.

WASHINGTON.

Seattle.—At the Seattle Theatre the Wakefield-Andrews Opera Co. presented "Fra Diavolo" and "The Bohemian Girl" June 13, 14, to good business. The Kelcey-Shannon Co. is the next attraction.

THIRD AVENUE.—Manager Russell has closed his house for the season, and is having it completely renovated, painted and newly furnished, and at the opening of the season will be supplied with scenery. Mr. Russell is untiring in his endeavors to push his little theatre to the front as a leading house of this city, and the past season has been most successful in providing the best companies available on the coast.

ORPHEUM.—Week commencing 10 the bill included "The Hidden Hand," as the drama, and an olio made up of: Edith Lawrence, Bessie Vernon, Frank Montrose, Ida Storms, Georgie Lee, Little Allright, De Corko Bros., "Irish Turks," and Georgie White. Mr. Gerald has been doing an immense business owing to the exceptionally fine programme on his boards.

PEOPLE'S THEATRE. — "The Workingman's Troubles," farce comedy, opens at this popular resort week of 12, with a vaudeville bill which includes Blanche Le Mar, Browning Sisters, Pat Kelly, Lillian Howe, Harry and Mamie Richards, Allie Del Mar, Gertie Jaxon, Maude Margeson, Billy Rafferty, Lulu Oro, Pat and Fannie Kelly, Lillian Starr and Oro and Bell.

MORRIS BROS., with their pony and dog show, were the outside attraction last week, commencing 9. The show played to a crowded house at each performance, turning many away. Ringling Bros.' Circus is due 16.

— Harry West has signed with A. G. Delamater's Farce Comedy Extravaganza, "The Gay Metropolis," to play the leading comedy part and to manage the stage.

BARNUM & BAILEY, LTD., NOTES.—Since our last letter our Manchester season has closed, and we are now on the down grade of our two weeks' stay at Liverpool, after which we begin a series of one day stands. The last week in Manchester, one of continuous holidays, known over here as Whitsuntide, drew immense crowds of people into Manchester from all parts of the Lancashire country, and as a consequence business with us was up to the top notch. Liverpool has held its own in good shape, and there will be a good report to make of this stand when the books are balanced next Saturday night. The stock market continues to look with favor upon the B & B stock. There has been an upward movement in price for several days and those who hold certificates are all happy. Last Wednesday was the first settling day on the London Stock Echange for this company's stock, and some of the speculators and brokers know it to their sorrow. They have reckoned without their host, speculated freely, making large sales thinking there would be no difficulty in supplying the demand. Unfortunately for them, however, the people are not anxious to part with their holdings, and as a consequence there is a big shortage of the market for which they are compelled to pay a stiff price for an extension of time until the end of June. The London papers are authority for the statement that the price charged for extension of time on the Barnum & Bailey shares is one of the highest ever demanded here, and it all goes to show that those who invested have a good thing and one worth holding. Mr. and Mrs. Bailey arrived on Wednesday from their trip to your side of the pond, having a delightful trip across the water and looking much the better for their trip. We are pleased to hear the good reports about the prosperous condition of amusements in the States and glad to say that the same happy conditions exist on this side. The English press are treating us most kindly in the way of notices. Not a paper has been issued in Liverpool since our opening but what has contained some splendid notice of the show and the same conditions have prevailed everywhere we have exhibited this season. Johanna, the gorilla, now has a Simian sister occupying the portion of her cage formerly tenanted by Chico. It is a female gorilla, almost as large as Johanna, and a splendid specimen. Mr. Bailey has been trying for some time to secure a companion for Johanna, and just before departing for the States had the pleasure of seeing his desires in this respect doubly realized, his last transaction on this side being the purchase of two female gorillas, one of which has been sent to the Zoological Gardens at London, to be kept until called for. They were specially imported from the Benin Country, or slave coast of Africa, and we have the word of various animal dealers on this side of the pond that with the exception of Johanna, they are the only ones known to be in captivity anywhere. Mr. Bailey paid a handsome price for them, but judging from the attention which they are creating both with the show and at the London Zoo the investment was a splendid one. Today we were honored with a visit from Prof. Forbes, of the Liverpool Museum, who came up especially to examine the new comer, and pronounces her in every way a worthy companion to Johanna. The young lady has been christened Dinah. We have had delightful weather for the past two weeks and it is a pleasing relief after seven weeks without a clear day. Dave McKay returned with Mr. Bailey and is in charge of the baggage stock again. He has entirely recovered from his rheumatism, thanks to the glorious climate of U. S. A., and we are all glad to have him with us once more. Del Fuego and wife closed at Manchester. He sailed for New York and I understand his wife left for Philadelphia last Saturday.

NOTES AND ROSTER OF THE J. H. LA PEARL'S Great Railroad Shows.—This is the eighth week of the season. Business continues to be immense, packing them to the ring bank. To say that the first visit of the La Pearl Shows through the Eastern country has captured the people completely would be mildly expressing it. We were enthusiastically received by both press and public wherever we have exhibited. The show is transported on nineteen cars. The big top is 130ft., with three 50ft. middle pieces; the menagerie 60ft., with four 30ft. middle pieces; dressing room 50ft., with one 40ft. middle piece; three horse tents and one large dining tent. The show carries eighty-four head of horses and twenty-nine ponies. The menagerie consists of sixteen cages of animals, two elephants, two camels and the largest hippopotamus in captivity. The roster: J. H. La Pearl, proprietor and manager; Mrs. J. H. La Pearl, in charge of front door, with four assistants; John Hamilton, assistant manager; S. F. Warde, treasurer; Mrs. S. F. Warde, stenographer; I. S. Ballict, assistant treasurer and press superintendent; Tony Lowande, equestrian director; James Beattie, manager of annex; J. M. Heddens, in charge of all tickets and mail agent; P. W. Kadel, reserved seat tickets; Harry Billings, reserved seat tickets; Mrs. Josie Lowande, in charge of reserved seats; C. H. Gilbertson, manager of privileges; Mrs. C. H. Gilbertson, in charge of candy stands, with eight assistants; M. Straus, programme and advertising solicitor; Prof. Harry Clair, bandmaster, with the following musicians: Geo. J. Forestner, M. O'Brian, Valney Shrader, G. Poland, Pete Cockley, H. A. Ward, Steve Shestak, G. Rohlen, Harvey Sawyer, Ray Morehouse, Martin Nelson, F. B. Wright, R. O. Bernhardt, S. Stevens, J. Martines, Al. Loyd, C. D. Rader. Performers: Harry La Pearl, principal somersault rider; Tony Lowande, principal somersault rider; Robert Whittaker, in his trotting and hurdle acts; Ray La Pearl, bounding jockey rider; Harry Higgins, carrying acts and mule hurdle; Della Sparling, principal and carry acts; Gracie Fraeham, principal and carrying acts; Blanche Hilliard, four horse and carrying acts; Miss Lulu, contortionist; Sutcliff Family, acrobats, four in number; Brothers Jerome, three in number; Fred Judge, perpendicular ladder; Spaulding Brothers, chair and table pyramid act; Loyal Family, aerialists, six in number; Nelson and Rydon, aerial return act; Madame Zarah Ceballos, balancing trapeze artist; Frank Laffe, aerialist; Miller and Nelson, triple bars; Dauble, somersault leaper; Ruby La Pearl, vocalist; J. W. Lynch, J. Roby, Charles Morosco, clowns; J. B. Gagnier, light and heavy balancing and clown; Martin Nelson, juggler; Johnny Richards, equilibrist; Sig. Cereno, impalement act and lariat throwing; May Cereno, performing dogs; Katie Roth, lady bugler; Inez Cereno, vocalist. Roth and Wright, vocalists and duettists; Marion and Pearl, sketch and clowns; W. T. Bryan, clown; Louis Loxdsdon, clown; Albions, burlesque boxers and clowns; Sen Sen, clown; C. Chandler, high dive; Mrs. Fanny Granger, wardrobe mistress; Dock Parkhurst, superintendent of canvas; J. A. Walsh, assistant, with thirty men; Frank Robinson, in charge of seats; H. C. Hoffman, superintendent of menagerie, with five men; Ed Yorke, boss of properties; Robert Burns, assistant; Z. Posey, in charge of ring stock, with ponies; Wm. Miller, master of transportation, with fourteen men. Our excellent camp is most worthy of praise, under the able management of our esteemed steward, C. H. Phillips, and twenty-one men in attendance. The side show is progressing in nineteenth century style, with its intellectual entertainments under the management of James W. Beattie. The attractive front, with its fifteen paintings, is the best this show has ever had. Mr. Beattie makes the openings, Lew Granger and C. Chandler are the door talkers; F. Byron, ticket taker; Prof. Clifford Sutton, the band leader, with eight pieces; Dr. H. Granmond, with his baby incubator, is the leading attraction; Mrs. Beattie, mind reader; C. Clayton, strong man; Miss Myrtel, snake charmer; Mr. Knee, marionettes; Cora McNeal, magnetic lady; Horaman, magician; R. Fitzgerald, vivisection act, and Punch and Judy; Prof. Hart's Parisienne Glass Weavers and the Wild Man from the Everglades of Florida. The top is a 60ft. middle with a 50ft. middle piece, with Charles Mack in charge, with eight men.

NOTES FROM COLLINS BROS.' ONE RING CIRCUS. We are in our sixth week and have had lots of experience with cyclones and hail storms, but we are still on the top side, and the last ten days' business has been extra good. Had to turn them away at a good many places in the afternoon. Howard Beall, cannon ball juggler and heavy weight lifter, closed June 14, and left for his home in St. Louis, Mo. THE CLIPPER reaches us every Monday.

NOTES FROM C. O. TAYLOR'S BIG REFINED SHOW. —We are now down in the Indiana gas belt and packing the tents. In Converse, Ind., we gave three shows, including Sunday night, to packed tents. Manager Taylor is making from two to four days' stands, and is leaving towns along his route with many friends and a great reputation. He will carry a larger tent than ever on his return. There is no change, except in the band, two cornets being added. Dewit Young is making a great hit with the Roman ax juggling. Chas. Olderfer and Claud Lewis, contortionists, are pleasing the people. We have added one more baggage wagon to the show outfit. We carry six horses, five wagons and fifteen people. Every member is happy and enjoying good health. We have not missed a number of THE OLD RELIABLE nor a pay day.

L. C. GILLETTE has charge of advertising of the John H. Sparks Show, with the following bill posters: Wade Guthrie, Mason Kearns, Walter Palmer, Wallace Shaw, Cooney Schillings, Richard Blunt; Lithos, our horse and buggy, for town work; Mrs. Gillette, cook. The show is doing a great business through Pennsylvania.

THE Cedar Rapids (Ia.) City Council on June 16 adopted an ordinance which reduced the circus license to $100 per day.

HARRY HARRISON, formerly a well known acrobat, has been appointed demonstrator of operative dentistry in a well known university, from which he has recently graduated.

FOREST'S BIG "UNCLE TOM'S CABIN" Co. opened the season under canvas at Urichsville, O., May 15. They write: "Our business has been big since opening. We carry a large company, travel in our own cars, have 120ft. top and carry our own stock. Roster: De Forest Davis, proprietor and manager; Ernest Kershaw, leader of band and orchestra. Band—Ed. Wing, Wm. Fletcher, E. Kershaw, Forest McGillard, Claude McGillard, Harvy Thrue, Will E. McCullough, Wallace Knees. The acting company—H. T. Glick, Geo. J. Secor, Arnold C. Baldwin, Jack Apdale, Joseph Laurence, Isam Minor, Archie Bulger, Fred Hart, Wm. Fletcher, Harry Breckinridge, Al Bailey, Richard Thomas, Henry Fields, Rufus Flood, Oscar Gardner, the Transylvania Quartet, Ella Miller, Mrs. Lelia Glick, Stella Burtch, Florence Bulger and Little Sadie Glick. Joe Randall, boss canvas man, seven assistants; Ed Davis, chandeliers, and one assistant; Wm. Sloman, business agent; Joe Dunn, A. H. Skidmore and Gene Hourihan."

CAPT. BEN WOODGER, director and manager of the Anglo-American Water Pantomime Company, has just arranged to produce an entire new pantomime at the Paris Exposition early next year. He will take the performers from America, and the engagement is for six months. The Anglo American Water Pantomime Co. has been doing very good business during the past week at the Chutes Park, Denver, Col. The pantomime was funny and pleasing to all. Several performers took part, including the Leando Bros., acrobats; Three Rackett Bros., Charles Morgan, Vic and Flo Gasmore, Jack Albion, Belle Williams, Sadie Boynton and Bertie Nichols, with Capt. Woodger as Ally Sloper, the English tourist.

THE UNCLE SAM COMEDY CO., under the management of Charles Smith and Henry Devine, are now in their tenth week through Cape Cod, Mass. They will play this section eight weeks longer. Roster: Charlie Smith, Henry Devine, Jas. Murphy, John Murphy, Harry Manford, Bertha Blanchard, Madge Devine, with Henry Frankenberger doing advance work.

ROVING NED'S BIG GYPSY CAMP.—Business this season has been big, and the outlook is brilli

World of Players.

☞ The Fourth of July being a legal holiday, it will be necessary to close our forms earlier than usual. Copy for advertisements intended for the last two pages of the issue of July 8 must reach us not later than Friday, June 30. All correspondence should reach us not later than the first mail on Tuesday, July 4.

NOTICE TO CORRESPONDENTS.

Our theatrical correspondents are hereby notified that the credentials now held by them expired on June 1. They are requested to return them to this office at once, for renewal for 1899-1900.

— Dore Davidson submits the following: "Carrie Colburn makes a statement that may be of interest to authors and owners of plays. She calls attention to a form of piracy so boldly and cunningly contrived that reputable managers may become play thieves even against their knowledge, and yet none the less amenable to the law. It has come to her knowledge that her play, 'His Last Chance,' has been extensively pirated under the title of 'My Uncle from India,' 'My Uncle,' etc. And upon investigation she learned that in several instances managers performing her play were (only in some cases) ignorant of the fact that they were using stolen property. Her play, 'His Last Chance,' was published by Baker & Co., of Boston, Mass., and fully copyrighted according to all the requirements of the statute. These cunning thieves get a copy of same, transpose it into manuscript form, attach a new title to the script, 'My Uncle from India,' 'My Uncle,' etc., etc., and sell same as an original play and the seller's personal property. By this means the authors and owners of such stolen plays are doubly injured. The companies most prominent in the use of 'His Last Chance' under false titles were Sam Pitman's Stock Co., Aubrey Dramatic Co., E. C. Wilson's Co. and O. W. Woodward, of Kansas City. These parties will be made acquainted with the author's rights, and as their standing heretofore have always been unimpeachable there is little doubt but that they will make prompt settlement. The acting rights to 'His Last Chance' have been sold to Dore Davidson."

— Mrs. Phyllis Rankin Gibbs, known on the stage as Phyllis Rankin, who acted in London in "The Belle of New York," applied to Justice Scott, in the Supreme Court, June 14, for an absolute divorce from her husband, Henry D. Gibbs. Mr. Gibbs is an actor. Mrs. Gibbs testified that she was married to the defendant on March 8, 1895, and that there were two children of the union, Catherine and Arthur. She said she wanted the Court to award her the custody of the two children. The case was adjourned to permit further evidence on Mrs. Gibbs' part to be submitted. Mr. Gibbs did not appear to defend the case. Mrs. Gibbs is a daughter of McKee Rankin and the sister of Mrs. Sidney Drew.

— Mme. Sarah Bernhardt has arranged to play "Hamlet" on June 29 in the famous theatre at Stratford-on-Avon, the town where Shakespeare was born.

— Ewald G. Abel has canceled his engagement with Rentfrow's Jolly Pathfinders, and will have the band and orchestra with the Columbia Big Stock Co. the coming season.

— E. S. Brigham, booking agent of the Crawford circuit of theatres in Kansas, Nebraska and Missouri, reached New York June 15, on his annual visit to book attractions. Mr. Brigham has recently disposed of his lease of the Crawford Theatre, in St. Joseph, which he made a very popular and financial success of. Mr. Brigham will remain in New York until about the middle of August, and will make his headquarters at Klaw & Erlanger's.

— Gus Hill's "Through the Breakers" Co. next season will include Owen Dans, manager; Dan A. Kelly, business manager; Sam M. Dawson, agent; Maude Banks, J. Hay Cossar, Sol Aiken, James Bevins, W. D. Stone, Joseph P. Keefe, Antoinette Walker, Charles H. Stewart, Josie Bacon, Francis Gheen, William Warren, Mary Bosworth, George W. Price, Henry Hof and John Callison. The season opens early in September, and will be for thirty weeks.

— Julia Arthur, after completing next season's tour of this country in her new play, by Emile Bergerat, which will be presented at the Broadway Theatre in September, and which is entitled "Plus Que Reine," will probably take her entire company to London and fill a lengthy engagement there.

— Notes from the Redmonds: May Stebbins, our soubrette, celebrated the anniversary of her birthday at Sioux Falls, S. D., June 2. After the performance the company were surprised by an invitation to a banquet, provided by Miss Stebbins. Many handsome gifts were presented, and she played the part of hostess in a charming manner. She left for Chicago June 9, to spend her Summer, and Carl Stockdale went to Crookstown, Minn., for the Summer. Roster: Ed. Redmond, Frank Dudley, Jack Bessey, S. M. Griffith, Mitchell Ingraham, J. M. Sandusky, R. A. Bernier, Master Claude Griffith, Estelle Redmond, Kathryn Ingraham, Lillian Griffith and Claudie Lucas. The company remains out all Summer.

— Notes from Chas. Mortimer's Co.: G. M. Lewis has disposed of his interest in Mr. Mortimer's forthcoming tour to Boyd Carroll, who assumes full management. Mr. Lewis and Mr. Mortimer, however, will be jointly interested in the tours of the Robinson Opera Co. and "The Stroke of Twelve." The latest engagements for Mr. Mortimer's Co. are: Suzanne Norwood, Edna Caldwell Minnelli, F. P. Minnelli and John Morrissey. We open at Mercer, Pa., Aug. 7. Our complete repertory arranged for the season is: "Football of Fortune," "Road to Ruin," "Won by Waiting," "A Yankee in Cuba," "Soldier of Uncle Sam," "Lady of Lyons," "The Fatal Wedding" and "Comrades." Mr. Mortimer is spending his vacation at Mercer, Pa., and preparing new scenery for his productions.

— Leota Howard complains that her name was misspelled in our last issue. She is leading lady of the Schwarz Stock Co., Waco, Tex., engaged for the Summer season.

— Maurice Barrymore, Chas. Plunkett, Robert V. Ferguson and Tyrone Power are recent engagements for Mrs. Fiske's Company for next season.

— James K. Hackett terminated his engagement with Maude Adams' production of "Romeo and Juliet" June 17, and is scheduled to sail for England June 21. He will be accompanied by his wife, Mary Mannering, on his Summer's vacation abroad.

— Notes from the Tommy Shearer Co.: We finished our two weeks at Celoron, Jamestown, and are now filling two return engagements, Titusville and Warren, Pa., and our business at the first named is excellent despite the warm weather. We have four more weeks of time, Summer closing at Lake Conneaut July 31. We are having some new bills which Mr. Shearer contemplates using for next season, one society comedy drama by Dore Davidson, called "A Day of Reckoning." It deals with the French. The characters are strong, especially a light comedy lead for Mr. Shearer, and a protean female part assumed by Isabelle Fletcher, who the coming season will be featured jointly with Mr. Shearer. We will finish a season of forty-six weeks with but one change in our company and the loss of one night on the season.

— C. S. Osgood will produce his farce comedy, "The Fakir," Sept. 25, at Portland, Me. Bob Branigan and Jessie Osgood, another recruit from the vaudevilles, are engaged for the leading comedy roles. The other people engaged are W. J. Kearney, James Nesbit, Harry McClusky, Nellie Barion, Maud Courtland and Lottie Mack.

— Paul Gilmore, in an interview, referring to last season, said: "During my first season as a star I was fairly successful in romantic roles from the start. At the beginning of last season I became imbued with the starring idea, and took out 'The Dawn of Freedom' with my own company. It was successful, but in Chicago disaster came. All the scenery and all my property was burned up, and I lost everything I had. The production cost me $8,000. About that time 'The Three Musketeers' craze was getting abroad in the land, and it was my ambition to give the play next season. When I found I had to begin all over again I thought I might as well take time by the forelock, and so I arranged my production of 'The Musketeers' and filled my remaining dates with it. It has been such a success that I will retain it next season. I shall increase my repertory with a number of Alexander Salvini's plays, and I may have Mrs. Salvini for my leading woman. I think I will play 'Don Cæsar de Bazan.' I will give this play and 'Ruy Blas.' It may seem too ambitious, but I shall also play 'Hamlet' for the reason that before his death Mr. Salvini prepared a superb production of the play, and I have all his scenery and effects. I think I shall also add 'Romeo and Juliet' to the repertory for matinee purposes."

— Notes Lennon Stock Co.: This Summer organization, consisting of sixteen acting people, is still doing a satisfactory business in spite of the warm weather and outdoor attractions. The company plays a return engagement at Elkhart, Ind., week of June 19, and will open its third return week at Battle Creek, Mich., June 26. The roster remains the same. W. W. Potts, our advance agent, leaves for Kansas City June 18, and will be in advance of the Dalrymple Comedy Co. next season. Mr. Lennon has been visited by a host of friends from his old home each night. The company intends to remain out all Summer.

— Notes from the Harry Shannon Co.: This will be Mr. Shannon's fourth season as manager of the company. The company will support Virginia Goodwin in a repertory of royalty and standard plays. The Shannon children, little Hazel and Harry, will be a feature of the vaudeville part. Prof. F. C. Stoutenburg's Mandolin Orchestra has been engaged to handle the musical portion of the show.

— William Gillette, who has been to England to visit Conan Doyle and talk over the dramatization of "Sherlock Holmes," is now returning to this country. He will complete the play here, and it will be produced by Charles Frohman during next season. Annie Russell, another of Mr. Frohman's stars, who went to London in May and expected to duplicate the wonderful success she made there last season, but who was prevented by illness from filling her engagement at the Duke of York Theatre, is also returning home.

— "Duffy's Jubilee," which was written by Horace Clarke, formerly with Rice's Comedians, will be staged by Bates and Grant. The season has been booked solid, opening Aug. 26. — The scenery for Howard Hall's production, "A Soldier of the Empire," will be painted by P. Dodd Ackerman. Speck, Wall & Ives report that they have secured for their star twenty-five weeks of city time, without a single one night stand.

— Edwin Forrest Lodge, No. 2, Actors' Order of Friendship, held a largely attended meeting in this city June 18, when President Milton Nobles paid a tribute to the memory of Augustin Daly. Instead of resolutions of condolence the lodge, by a unanimous vote, adopted the remarks of the president as the voice of the lodge. The address was ordered incorporated in the minutes, and an engrossed copy sent to the widow. Mr. Nobles said, in part: "The passing of Augustin Daly removes from the theatrical management a figure of commanding prestige. Acting and management in this country must now revolve in their separate spheres of art and commerce. With the death of Augustin Daly, theatrical management becomes purely a commercial proposition. Whether this condition is for the good of the profession at large we need not now consider. But it is fit that this representative body take public cognizance of the final exit of this representative man. To all earnest, thoughtful actors, and to each student of the contemporaneous drama, his death will assume the nature of a personal loss. A man with lofty ideals, and with the unquestioned courage of his convictions, his forceful personality has left an impress upon the modern stage not equaled by any of his contemporaries. As a dramatist, he will rank among the first of native writers. As a stage director, none will question his superlative gifts. As a manager, his name will ever be associated with that which was most artistic, liberal and professional. During nearly a third of a century of metropolitan management he probably did more to dignify the profession of the stage in America than any one of his contemporaries, and less to bring it into disrepute. His untimely taking off is a misfortune little short of a calamity, yet it should console his family and the thousands who so deeply mourn him that the final summons found him rich in honors, his fame at its zenith, and that this great metropolis, where his life had been passed and in whose artistic development his great talents have been a factor, will pay to his memory the homage due to a man of genius."

— W. H. Dalrymple, manager Dalrymple Comedy Co., writes: "My 'ad' in THE CLIPPER was most satisfactory; received one hundred and eighty-seven replies, and have engaged the following people for my company for the coming season: J. W. Sights, C. W. Courtney, Harry S. Kingsley, W. W. Potts, F. E. Evans, Pauline Sights, Rayne Kingsley, Evah Leonard, Bertha Dalrymple. I have also engaged as a special feature Bruns and Nina."

— W. H. Myers, manager of Little Irene Myers, and Joseph Green, of repertory fame, were visitors to the metropolis last week.

— The Opera House, Knoxville, Ia., is being remodeled. The roof over the stage is being raised, as an entire new set of scenery is being painted by Sosman & Landis. LULU KENT left 18 for an extended visit to St. Paul, Minn., her home. Doc. Holland has returned to this city, having been entirely cured of a severe attack of the gout.

Dallas.—At the 'Cycle Park Summer Theatre, week of June 12, a high class vaudeville performance was presented, under the management of Lew Rose, which drew big attendance. The vaudeville entertainments will be the prevailing feature the rest of the Summer.

PEOPLE'S THEATRE.—May Cody, Lydia Temple, Johnnie Swor, "Zilda" and "Lucille," Jack Turnbull, Lehman and Keating, Lester and Williams, C. Leroux and Ed. P. Gilmore. Business good.

ALABAMA.

Mobile.—The third week of the companies of the Southern Amusement Syndicate opened at Monroe Park June 13, to good business, which held its own. The people this week are Teed and Lazelle, in their comedy sketch, "Domestic Pets;" Sam J. Adams, "The Long Boy," and the Curtiss Sisters, in songs, dances and cake walks. Next week a new bill is promised. The Sunday afternoon concerts at this resort are much enjoyed by large crowds, and Manager Wilson intends to make Monroe Park an ideal Summer place.....Captain Chittenden is exhibiting his collection of Indian war relics at Monroe Park, and they are viewed by large crowds nightly.....The Elks of this city are making preparations to leave for St. Louis to attend the annual reunion there, 20. Several of the members will go from there to Cincinnati to attend the Saengerfest Jubilee, 28-30.....The work on the new theatre in this city is progressing rapidly, and Mobile will be right in line next season.

INEZ MACAULEY

Began her professional career four years ago and received an excellent schooling in repertory. She has since played a season as Marguerite, in "Faust," with Porter J. White; a season in the leading role with W. H. Power's "Shannon of the Sixth," and has had two successful seasons in stock companies. She is one of the most popular members of the Woodward Stock Co., Kansas City, Mo. Her home is in Detroit, Mich., where she is well known and highly esteemed. Miss Macauley is very sincere in her work, and has an air of refinement and girlish simplicity that makes her a favorite socially as well as professionally. She has been re-engaged by Mr. Woodward to play the ingenue roles for next season.

MASSACHUSETTS.

Boston.—A matter of considerable interest to our theatregoers will be the production at the Castle Square Theatre, on Monday, June 19, for the first time on any stage, of the four act play, "Just a Day Dream," from the pen of Paul Armstrong. Next week, "The District Attorney." Last week, "A Midnight Bell."

COLUMBIA THEATRE.—This popular house, the doors of which have been closed for some weeks past, will be reopened Monday, 19, and a carefully chosen company, composing the house stock, will begin the new season of bi-weekly changes of bill. For the first half of the current week the dramatic attraction will be "East Lynne," which will be strongly cast, and staged with that carefulness of detail that has in the past marked the presentations at this house. On Thursday and for the remainder of the week the drama will be followed by "The Gypsy Queen," a pretty story of gypsy life, which will be equally well cast and staged. Popular prices prevail under the new management.

KEITH'S THEATRE.—Ching Ling Foo, the Chinese magician, will head the bill. Others are: Caron and Herbert, acrobats; Odell Williams and company, in the farce, "The Judge;" Kara, juggler; Fisher and Carroll, comiques and songsters; Gavin Spence, Scottish story teller; the Johnston Bros., trick cyclists; Four Emperors of Music, H. Percy Meidon and company, in the sketch, called "A Matrimonial Blizzard;" Swan and Bambard, the Passparis, parodists; Saxon and Brooks, Delaphone, mimic; Merritt and Rosella, comiques; Signor Alberti, violinist; Coakley and West, comedians from "darktown," and the American biograph, with views of Admiral Sampson's squadron, etc., etc.

PALACE THEATRE.—Manager Charles Waldron has fully demonstrated that he is plumb up to date in the matter of providing for the comfort and pleasure of his patrons. He has just installed an extensive electric fan plant, and the house is now one of the most comfortable in the city to visit, while the attractions presented weekly are of the very best class in the vaudeville and specialty lines. For the present week he announces a reproduction of the Jeffries-Fitzsimmons fight, presented by a cineograph in a most realistic manner. Two breezy burlesques are also features of the entertainment, one opening and the other closing it, and in the olio are: Hart and Mills, George Scanlan and Pearl Stevens, Alice Leslie Eulalie and Kerwin, Sam Collins, Bessie Taylor, Tom Nolan, Cissy Grant and Vera Hart.

AUSTIN & STONE'S MUSEUM.—The Donnybrookers created no end of fun here last week, and such was the hit they made that Managers Stone and Shaw hold them over for the present week. Beatrix, the fearless handler of the serpents, still remains in the lecture hall. On the stage this week the Bouchier Troupe, Mlle. Morello's Cocker Spaniels, Carlotta and Carrie Herbert, the Sisters Sparling, the Riley Brothers, Mackie and Walker, Burke and Thompson, Bella Linden, William J. Holmes, Three Brothers Percival, Alice Harmon and other turns.

NICKELODEON.—Manager Walker's bill of novelties in his curio halls this week includes a facsimile of the fight between Corbett and Fitzsimmons at Carson City; also the ten round contest between Sharkey and McCoy, and an amusing pugilistic controversy between eight pretty young maids. A startling feature of the show in the halls is the entrance of Edna Nateliey into a den of rattlesnakes, which she fondles and caresses. In the theatre—which is now cooled by electric fans—are: the Hartford Sisters, female minstrels; the living picture posers and an olio by the Cliff Sisters; Hewlette and Howard, Blanche Hartford, Eva Scott, Frank Collins, Julia Weober and Maude Seabrooke.

GYPSY CAMP.—Manager Burgess has just finished the work of putting in a mammoth electric fan in the camp, and the hall is now supplied with an abundance of cold air, making the big hall one of the most comfortable places to be found in the city on a hot day. Business during the past week was abnormally good, and a steady stream of comers and goers was the rule daily. Manager Burgess has in mind the introduction of several novel improvements in the interior of the camp, which will add materially to its attractiveness, but just at present the current of patronage is too strong to permit of any interruption thereto.

CHUTES.—Pure enjoyment and your fill of genuine fun is obtainable in unlimited measure at Manager Hyde's Huntington Avenue grounds. The attractive features are many and novel there and additions thereto are being made weekly; in fact, many patrons wonder when Manager Hyde will rest from his labor of providing for their pleasure. One of the most charming novelties recently added is the Dunlap electric fountain, which was operated for the first time last week. Other features besides the chutes riding are the miniature railroad and the ponies, donkeys, horses, etc. The fountain is operated every evening and is in itself well worth a visit to this resort.

NOTES.—The Hollis Street Theatre closed its doors for the season Saturday evening, 17, with the final performance of "Bobby Shaftoe," and the Tremont Theatre also wound up its season on the same date with the last presentation of "Erminie."..... Most of the houses at present closed will open preliminary seasons in August, with attractions to be announced later.....Among the entertainers who are booked at Keith's are Louise Truax, whistler; Prof. Vernon, ventriloquist; Ethel Levy, singing soubrette, and Joe Cawthorne, Dutch monologue comedian.....Nat D. Jones, a well known and popular Boston boy, has signed with Jas. A. Herne's "Hearts of Oak" Co. for next season..... Col. Frank P. Stone, of Austin & Stone's Museum, is at Rangeley Lake, and on Thursday last landed a seven and one-half pound salmon trout, the prize catch of the present season.....The Boston Theatre will reopen Aug. 28.....The Boston Museum will reopen about the middle of August for a preliminary season, with Roland Reed in a new play..... Jacob Litt's spectacular drama, "Sporting Life," is booked for presentation at the Boston Theatre on Labor Day.....Manager Hyde has invited the officers and men of the United States warships now at this port to visit the chute grounds and enjoy themselves on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. The "Jackies" will be there in force, and fun fast and furious is assured. ....A revival of Steele Mackaye's powerful drama, "Paul Kauvar," will prove a very strong attraction in this city next season. In the leads will be E. R. Spencer and Isabel Pengra, and they will have the support of a good company of players.... Harry Mullaly, the popular leader of the Boston Museum Orchestra, has been engaged for the same position next season. Meantime he is summering at the various pleasant resorts adjacent to Boston.

Lynn.—The Lynn Theatre season for 1899-1900 will open the last week in August. The theatre is being thoroughly renovated, under the direction of managers Dodge & Harrison, and will be put in excellent condition.

OXFORD GEM THEATRE.—Manager Fenton has already made considerable progress in the way of enlarging and improving his little playhouse on Oxford Street, and everything will be completed for the opening on Labor Day. Special attention is being paid to the furnishing of the place and a gallery is to be put in for the boys.

MUSIC HALL.—After laying idle for a season this playhouse, the oldest in the city, is again to be opened as a place of amusement, and will be under the management of W. B. Watson. The house is now in the hands of the carpenters and painters, and when their work is completed it will be one of the prettiest theatres in the State. White will be the prevailing color throughout, with trimmings of gold, and the ground work will be cherry. The stage will be provided with new scenery throughout, and there will be a ladies' reception room, furnished with all the necessary requirements, as it is the intention of the management to make the house a family amusement resort, and special attention is to be shown women. The attractions will include first class combinations, and the season will open Aug. 29. Charles C. Stumm, of Cleveland, is to be resident manager of the house, and he and Mrs. Stumm have already arrived and will make their home in this city.

THE LA PEARL CIRCUS is booked for this city June 29, to exhibit on the Bowler field. Advertising car No. 1, in charge of T. R. Perry, came 15, and billed the town. Mr. Perry is assisted in his work by a force of eighteen men. Car No. 2 will come 22.

Fall River.—At the Casto Theatre Daniel Packard and his Herald Square Co., after putting Manager Haynes off from week to week, seem not able to reach the town, and the engagement has been canceled.....Joseph R. Dyer's new march, "En Route," was rendered by Prof. Louis Garretson's orchestra at the Stone Bridge Hotel, "Newspaper Men's Night," June 12, and was loudly applauded.....Major John M. Burke was in town 12, in the interest of Buffalo Bill's Wild West, which exhibits here 22.....Phil Sheridan, proprietor of the City Sports, has leased Rich's Theatre, and will run vaudeville, burlesque and comedy, at popular prices.....Bonner, the educated horse; Lillian Burbank's high waltzing horse, and Dot Winona's dog and monkey circus, form the opening attraction at Dighton Rock Park.

PENNSYLVANIA.

Philadelphia.—The opening of the Grand Opera House this week is about the only new feature of the theatrical situation. If but a fair part of the plans outlined is carried out we should have a very satisfactory Summer season of opera, and it can be said of Gustav Hinrichs, the director, that his past efforts in this direction here have proven entirely commendable. There is almost an entire lack of theatrical gossip here now, the professionals not compelled by business to remain in the city seeking more agreeable climes.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.—Arrangements have all been completed and the season of grand opera at this house, under the management of Charles W. Strine and the musical direction of Gustav Hinrichs, opens this week with favorable prospects. Beginning with "Il Trovatore" on Monday night, that opera and "Faust" will be given alternately throughout the week, with the last named opera for the Saturday matinee. In the first named opera the cast will include Leonora, Viafora Ciaparelli; Azucena, Mme. Culp Keibl; Manrico, Alberto Guille; di Luna, Achille Alberti, and Ferranco, M. Veron. In "Faust" the cast is as follows: Marguerite, Mlle. Hofacker; Siebel, Marie Mattfeld; Martha, Culp-Keibl; Faust, Mario Del Sol; Mephisto, Del Puente; Valentine, M. Begue, and Wagner, Richard Karl. Fifty and twenty-five cents are to be the prices for the first and second floors, while box seats can be secured for one dollar. The operas are staged under the direction of Carl Schroeder. It is announced that next week there will be produced "Cavalleria Rusticana" and "I Pagliacci," as a double bill, and "Carmen."

STANDARD THEATRE.—The stock company of this house is still keeping up its contention with the warm weather and is meeting with fair success. The bill last week was "The Octoroon," which was given in a satisfactory manner and pleased the patrons, who attended in fair numbers.

KEITH'S.—It is all smooth sailing for this house, be the weather warm or cold. Patronage continues steadily at a profitable point, and the uniformly good bills meet with unqualified approval. The topliner this week is Robert Manteil and company, in "A Lesson in Acting," which is followed by Hayes and Lytton, in "A Wise Guy" (second week). Willis P. Sweatnam, Bocksom and Burns, Romalo Brothers, Whitney Brothers, Three Nevarros, Nichols Sisters, Charles Leonard, Fletcher and Irene Young, in "Wanted, a Gent;" Wilson and Halpin, Lester and Stevens, Keely Brothers, Widden, the biograph and the stereopticon.

LYCEUM THEATRE.—Manager Jermon, continuing his policy of Summer entertainment, provides a bill of burlesque and vaudeville for his patrons this week of which, no doubt, they will approve. Fair patronage greeted the Broadway Girls Burlesquers last week. "Who Owns the White House" and "The Doctor's Dilemma" were the amusing burlesques, and vaudeville was provided by Harry Liston, Kennedy and Cole, Blanche Latell, Mills and Hart, Prof. Neuman. The company providing the entertainment this week is styled the Vaudeville Club.

OLYMPIA NICKELODEON.—This house is still receiving its fair share of patronage, and Managers Bernstein and Locke are making every effort to establish themselves in popular favor at their present location. Some of the features last week were Juliette Wood, soubrette; Prof. Morella, magician; Al Zeno, contortionist; May Adams, serio comic; Raymond and Hilda Shoop, dancers; Prof. Campbell, Punch and Judy, and W. T. Dulany and company in a one act farce.

WILLOW GROVE PARK.—This is probably the most successful season this park has had, and no small part of this success is to be attributed to the fine concerts given by the Banda Rossa, under the leadership of Maestro Eugenio Sorrentino. The other amusements, including the warograph, are well patronized.

WOODSIDE PARK.—Sunday, 18, began the annual Innes' festival, which continues throughout the entire week. Special programmes have been arranged for each concert, and in addition to a large chorus the band has the assistance of Effie Stewart, soprano; Eleanor Broadfoot, contralto; Signor Francesca Giannini, tenor, and Chevalier de Bassini, baritone. The electric artillery also adds to the effectiveness of some of the pieces.

WASHINGTON PARK.—This week the pictures of the Fitzsimmons-Jeffries fight are exhibited on the cineograph. A musical carnival also occurs this week, and the programmes will be given by the Liberati Band, and Myra Morrisana, soprano; Emma Dauti, contralto; Signor Guerimo, tenor, and Signor Muziate, baritone.

CHESTNUT HILL PARK.—Kalitz's Band continues to meet with approval at this park, and the programmes rendered always meet with hearty applause. On Thursday night of this week a fireworks display will be a special feature.

NOTES.—It is announced that on Saturday, July 1, Fritz Scheel and the New York Orchestra will inaugurate the midsummer season at Woodside Park..... Stockton Park, in Camden, will open for the season on Tuesday of this week, when the Boston Ladies' Military Band will begin a limited engagement.....The committee organized over a year ago to consider the building of a new Academy of Music was offered a suitable plot of ground, conveniently located, and at a very moderate price, by a prominent real estate dealer last week. This revived interest in the project, and the committee, which is composed of a number of prominent and influential citizens, will meet during the current week to consider the matter.....The new Fairmount Park Band, under the leadership of Adam Jacob, began its season on Saturday of last week with a concert at the Lemon Hill Music Pavilion.....Some miscreant has lately been amusing himself by cutting ladies' dresses with a sharp knife or scissors, and last week Flossie Loux, recently a member of Russ Whytall's "Vagabondia" Co., discovered on leaving a large department store after a shopping tour that her silk skirt had been cut in pieces and completely ruined. She complained to the authorities, as did also a number of other victims, and the detectives are making every effort to catch the vandal..... The success of the negroes at the Standard Theatre week before last, in "Uncle Tom's Cabin," has led David Trattel to organize a company of the cleverest of them, which he has named the Darkest South. The company is now rehearsing and a week will shortly be put in at the Lyceum Theatre, after which a tour of the parks will be made.

Harrisburg.—Cool weather had very little effect on outdoor business.

PAXTANG PARK.—The Velpo Stock Co. scored a big hit and drew large crowds throughout the week. Two bills were presented, "Whose Baby Are You?" and "A Complicated Case." "The Red Cat" will be the bill week of June 19, with the same organization. Jesse Mae Hall continues the strong favorite, with Miss Learock, Miss Burrill, Miss Tilson and Miss Neal, and Mr. Swan, Mr. Lester, Mr. Hearne, Mr. Crosby and Mr. Kenzie adding to their laurels daily. This organization is booked for Cave Hill Park, Carlisle, week of June 26. Mr. Van Kinzie of the company was looking after his business in New York City 18-20. Miss Burrill will take a three days' rest, 21-23, and visit New York City.

PICKUPS.—Spencer Charters, of this city, has been re-engaged for comedy roles for next season with the King Dramatic Co.....Manager Nathan Appell is enjoying a rest at Long Branch. On his return he will commence preparations for next season. The scenery for his three road companies will be painted at the Appell Studio, by De Harpe. .....Fred Clecker will look after "The Cherry Pickers" Co. until the season opens for the King Dramatic Co., when he will resume the business management of that organization.....The seats fell during the performance of the Welsh Brothers' Circus at Chambersburg, Pa., June 13. No one was hurt, and a panic was averted by the prompt action of M. H. Welsh and the attaches.....The Dr. Blue Mountain Joe Show will continue at Steelton, Pa., another week. Good business has been the rule. .....The Balliette Concert Company is filling a number of special engagements in this vicinity.... Ethel Tilson, known as the California Nightingale, will return to opera next season.....The Zereeth Trio, Ed., Dennolia and Ida, are the big features with the Dr. Blue Mountain Joe aggregation. Miss Dennolia Zereeth is scoring a big success in her new dances.....The Clayton Sisters (Nellie and Margaret), vocalists and dancers, and Lou Carlsen, character artist, were in the city 18. They were obliged to seek aid in getting to New York because of alleged unprofessional treatment at the hands of Mr. Knowles and Mr. Ford, who hired them for twelve weeks at parks and street fairs, opening at the street fair at New Castle. They were to have their fares paid to and from New York City. At the close of the engagement at New Castle they received their salaries, less the car fare from New York City. They were assisted as far as this city and from here East.

Pittsburg.—There is very little manna for the children of THE CLIPPER to gather in the wilderness of showdom. A free exhibition for patrons of the Consolidated Traction Company is the only diversion now available for our amusement lovers.

ALVIN THEATRE.—This house, which has been dark since June 10, reopened 15, for a benefit tendered by manager Charles L. Davis to the Jaxon Opera Co., which had intended to open in Milwaukee 12, but a flinty hearted landlord seized the baggage of several members of the company for board, and their departure was postponed in consequence. The benefit, which was intended to get the release of the baggage, was but moderately attended, "Faust" being well sung.

Altoona.—The Lakemont Park Theatre opened the season June 14, with the Oriental Troubadour Co. of Jubilee Singers. The park company has taken a new departure this season by giving these entertainments free. No admission is charged to the theatre, and but a small sum for front seats. From the present indications this change is going to prove a success, as there is a large increase in the travel to the park already.

Wilkesbarre.—All theatres have closed for the season, which, while not being as successful as in previous years, was on the whole satisfactory .....Florence Robinson, lately with the "What Happened to Jones" Co., is spending the Summer months at Harvey's Lake, near this city, with her husband, Geo. S. Robinson.

Lancaster.—Conestoga Park Theatre: Simmons & Slocum's Minstrels closed a successful two weeks' engagement June 17. The permanent Summer attraction, the Palmer Opera Co., opens with "Fatinitza," 19.

MISSOURI

St. Louis.—The Summer theatrical business was fair at all of the houses last week. A couple of days of bad weather knocked out the receipts for those days, but the week averaged well. All of the gardens have made extensive preparations for this week's business, believing that the Elks' convention will prove a gold mine.

SUBURBAN GARDENS.—The minstrels proved as popular as ever. The feature of the entertainment was a travesty of "Camille," with Carroll Johnson, Tom Lewis and Dan Quinlan in the cast. It was a unique performance.

OLYMPIA PARK.—The Hanley Stock Co. made their first appearance last week in "Caste." In the production were Lawrence Hanley, Nellette Reed, Jessie Izett, Edmund D. Lyons, Earl Stirling, W. Gilius Lonsdale and Isabel O'Madigan. The attendance was fair. This week a Shakesperean production is offered.

FOREST PARK HIGHLANDS.—The vaudeville bill drew very well indeed. In the olio were the Manhattan Comedy Four, James Richmond Glenroy, Charlie Gardner, Lawrence Sisters, Adele Purvis Oari, Edith Craske, Jessie Merrilees, and Mabel Craig.

MANNION PARK.—The minstrels, with Manager Ernest as interlocutor, had their share of the patronage. The Superb Quintet, composed of Franklyn Wallace, Ed Gorman, Joseph Hortiz, Charles Kent and H. W. Fullman, was featured. McMahon and King, the Freeze Bros., Frank Cushman, Arthur Deming and James Devlin all did good work.

UHRIG'S CAVE.—The Williams-Weinberg Stock Co. finished their four weeks' engagement June 17. "Turned Up" was offered and drew fairly well. The bad weather of the first two weeks prevented the venture from proving a money maker, but the two popular actors at the head of it—Malcolm Williams and Gus Weinberg—lost nothing by it. A benefit to the Sixth Missouri Regiment was given Thursday night. Mr. Alexander Spencer's Opera Co. opened at the Cave 18, in "The Daughter of the Regiment." Maude Lillian Berri is prima donna.

KOERNER'S GARDEN.—The vaudeville bill did fairly well last week. Lotta Gladstone, the Harvey Sisters, and Arthur Wellesley were featured. Cain's trained dogs proved favorites. This week Managers Bromley and Allan are making a special bid for the Elk's patronage, with an interesting minstrel show.

NEWS.—The Elks' convention this week has caused much excitement in the theatrical line. The local lodge has made extensive preparations to welcome them and the city is well decorated with banners and arches.....The most important event last week was the final settlement of the question of the Grand Opera House's future for the coming season at least. The particulars are as follow: The Tri-State has sold the present lease of the house to the Middleton Theatre Co., composed of George Middleton, of Chicago, president; Frank R. Tate, of St. Louis, secretary and treasurer; Louis M. Hedges and Arnold Smith, of Chicago; Louis J. Shay and Joseph Morrison, of St. Louis. The house will play combinations at popular prices, taking over the contracts of the Imperial, which house will run stock. The Columbia will remain vaudeville. The local manager is not announced, but E. D. Stair, of Detroit, will play all the combinations booked for his circuit at the Grand, and will probably control all the bookings. Extensive improvements are planned for the house. The name will remain the same.....The Standard Theatre has reopened this week for the Elks' Carnival. The Sporty Widows is billed with such seductive features as Little Egypt, Rose of Lucrece, the spicegraph and "The Circus." The management announces that it is proposed to show visiting Elks that the Standard is the coolest house and the "hottest" show in America.....The week's convention of Elks in St. Louis, beginning June 20, is an event of much importance to the many theatrical people who belong to that order. The convention is known, locally, as "Our People's Week," and at this writing the scale of preparation justifies the title. The local lodge has been at work for some weeks, and the officials assert that it will be one of the biggest and liviest affairs of its kind ever seen. The most unique feature of the week is the big parade on the morning of the 22, when about 8,000 Elks, representing 200 lodges, will do their best to capture some of the big prizes offered. About thirty bands will be in the line and all will compete at the band contest, which lasts three nights, at Concordia Park. The lodge of Sioux City, Ia., will lead their delegation with three live elks. Each of the lodges will be uniformed, and no two lodges will be similarly attired. The decorations of the city will be a big feature. The hotels, stores and public places will all be in gala attire, and the committee on decorations has exhausted itself in the matter of street decorations. On Olive Street an immense welcome arch, 40 feet in height, spans the street, covered with Elk colors and banners and lighted with countless incandescent lights. Several others are being constructed in different prominent places throughout the city. The headquarters of the local lodge is at the Lindell Hotel. The executive committee of the re-union has headquarters at the Southern. The local lodge rooms are on the eleventh floor of the Holland Building, on Seventh Street, between Pine and Olive. The officers of the local lodge are: David B. Alog, E. R.; Edwin Puller, E. L. K.; Ed. McCormack, E. L. K.; Chas. Whillenburg, E. L. K., and Lew L. Clark, secretary. The reception committee will be at the Union Station and all principal hotels throughout the week. The Grand Lodge will meet at the Olympic Theatre morning of 20, and will continue at work for four days.

Kansas City.—At Fairmount Park the second week of the Orpheum's vaudeville season opened to packed Sunday business and had fair attendance the rest of the week, the rainy weather being the special knocker. Chas. Marsh, the diving bicyclist, held over for the second week, and was again a big feature. In the theatre the bill was made up of Grayson and Ferson, two darktown singers and cake walkers; Jack Symonds, monologuist, in parodies and gags; the Four O'Learys, in a clever acrobatic comedy act; John Le Clair, an up to date juggler, who did many new acts; Martinelli and Sutherland, in songs and dances, who were a big hit; Howard's ponies, who closed the show and did their usual good act. This week the people will be the Faust Family, six in number; Almont and Dumont, Harry Fitzgerald, Frank and Dow, Edna Aug and the Arnold Pantomime Co. In the lake Cora Beckwith, the swimmer, will do her act.

AUDITORIUM.—Jas. F. Fulton's new melodrama, "The Man Behind the Gun," received its premier on Friday evening, June 16, before a large audience. The show had the disadvantage of being presented by a cast made up nearly entirely of amateurs, but nevertheless there is much merit in it, and with proper rewriting will be a big go. The third act will undoubtedly carry the show. During this act a rescue by Gen. Funston and the firing on the forts of Manila Bay are shown. Special scenery was used, and in justice to Mr. Fulton it must be said that he spent a lot of money to give the show a proper production. Mr. Fulton has a part that fits him like a glove, and was naturally the hit of the performance. Harry J. Ingram, in an old man character role, did some clever acting. J. May Bennett and Harry Forbes King did well. The ovation of the performance was given to the man who made up as Funston, and dashed on the stage on horseback. The cheers lasted for fully four minutes. It is probable that Mr. Fulton will take the show on the road next season.

TROOST PARK.—Zimmerscheid's Military Band is rendering splendid programmes every evening, and is attracting large crowds.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.—A large force of men are at work building the new gallery and balcony and remodeling the interior. Everything will be completed by September.

CLIPPERINGS.—Louis Rosenthal, who was treasurer of the Orpheum here, is acting in a similar capacity at the Fairmount Park this Summer. He will once more be treasurer of the Orpheum at Kansas City next season.....Chas. Marsh, the bicyclist, leaves direct for New York at the end of his engagement here.....The Four O'Learys, acrobats, are now in their third week in this country. They go from here to 'Frisco.....Manager "Jake" Rosenthal, who has been at West Baden for his health, was here to attend the opening of the Orpheum season at Fairmount Park. He announces that the Orpheum in Omaha will close 25, with Camille D'Arville as a special feature. Mr. Rosenthal will return here, and be with the Orpheum forces all Summer, at the Park. .....Manager Lehman's family is in California for the Summer.....Matilde Wefling, who has been playing leads with the stock company at St. Joan, New Brunswick, arrived in the city last week, and will spend the Summer with her folks. It is probable that she will join the Woodward Stock Co. at the Auditorium next season..... Grapt W. Harrington, manager of the Opera House at Hiawatha, was in the city last week.....R. B. Burgess and Lydia Broughal, cake walkers, won the fifty dollar prize for the best cake walkers, offered by Modern Woodmen, during their convention here at Convention Hall.....John Behn, accompanied by Mrs. Behn and orchestra, will leave for Colorado the last part of July.

DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

Washington.—The midsummer dearth of theatrical amusement is now on, and Washington is reduced to a single playhouse. This one, while presenting first class attractions, did not do so well last week as the merit of the bill deserved. A slight reaction seems to have set in after a very successful and meritorious ten weeks' season of a stock company which had so ingratiated itself in the good graces of our playgoers to such an extent that—temporarily, at least—no other attraction, however good, could fill the gap. A new stock company, however, is promised, and it makes its preliminary trial this week. The people promised and the play selected should insure success, and it is altogether probable that the season inaugurated this week will be long and profitable, inasmuch as neither of our other houses have shown any signs of opening until the regular Fall season commences. Vaudeville amusement had a fair send off two weeks ago at one of our suburban parks, but owing to several causes—deteriorating bills, managerial disagreements, etc.—this came to an end with last week, and now the public have but one place to go to for stage amusement, and that is at a first class house, with nothing cheap about it but the prices of admission.

LUCKETT & DWYER'S COLUMBIA THEATRE.—This house opens its third Summer season this week with a new stock company, presenting Bronson Howard's drama, 'Aristocracy." The new company includes J. H. Gilmore, S. Miller Kent, Harry Burkhardt, Louis Payne, Alfred Hudson, Palmer Collins, J. Edgar McGregor, L. R. Grisel, Mary Hampton, Minnie Ashley, Agnes Rose Lane, Annie Buckley, Fanchon Campbell and Gabrielle McLean. Last week Otis Skinner and his excellent company presented "Rosemary," to good business. Washington has never before, even during a regular season, been treated to so complete and satisfactory rendition of this beautiful play.

THE GLEN ECHO PARK AMPHITHEATRE has, for a time being, suspended its vaudeville bill, and this week presents twice a day concerts by the Boy Hungarian Band. A new management is in contemplation which may lead to a resumption of the vaudeville bills at an early date.

NOTES.—Manager Uriah H. Painter, manager of the Lafayette Square Opera House, has come out with a circular announcing that with the beginning of next season his house will be run independently and outside the theatrical syndicate, relying entirely on his own bookings of first class attractions only.....Although all of our theatres are closed save one, the painters, decorators and furnishers are busy at each, and there seems to be a competition between them as to which will open up in the Fall most improved in appearance. Every one of our managers seems to have made money last season. Each vie with the others to furnish the best, with a resultant gain to themselves and the complete satisfaction of their patrons..... Robert Downing has announced his retirement from the stage, and will open a dramatic school in this city.....Will Reeves, treasurer of the Grand Opera House here during the past season, has a similar billet at Minerva Park, Columbus, O., for the Summer. He will probably resume his position here with the opening of the regular season.....Manager Eugene Kernan and Meyer Fisher, of the Lyceum Theatre, in this city, have gone to St. Louis to attend the Grand Lodge of Elks, which is in session there..... Geoffrey Stein, who was so painfully injured on the stage of the Columbia Theatre during a rendition of "London Assurance" by the Frawley Co. a couple of weeks ago, has so far recovered as to be out, but will not rejoin his company at Milwaukee for a couple of weeks yet.... "The Children of the Ghetto" will receive its premier presentation in this city Sept. 18 next.....Walter Stetson, late of the Murry Hill Stock Co., is at his home in this city, after nearly two years' absence. After a short rest he will play vaudeville dates at Atlantic City and Coney Island. He has signed for next season with Stella Beauchamp.....Annie Lloyd, a clever soubrette, who has been often seen in our vaudeville houses, and last at Glen Echo last week, has signed with the "Sis Hopkins" Co. for next season, when she will be known as Annie Driver, which, by the way, is her real name..... Mr. and Mrs. John Grieves, of the Bijou Theatre, have gone to Atlantic City, N. J., where they have secured a cottage for the next two months.... Al. Stern, monologue comedian, is at his home here resting after a profitable season in the vaudeville houses. Next season he will be on the business staff of the Bowery Burlesquers, one of Hurtig & Seamon's road attractions.

NEW YORK CITY.

Review and Comment.—There is little activity at present in the local theatrical field, and during the past week there were few happenings worthy of comment. Three roof gardens were open throughout the week, and that number will soon be doubled. The weather during the greater part of the week was uncomfortably warm, and there was a strong demand for out-of-door entertainment, a demand, in fact, greater than the supply. There have been rumors of the erection of two new theatres, one devoted to dramatic art and to be managed by David Belasco, and the other to be a vaudeville house. Dame Rumor, though generally very unreliable, seems to have indulged in the delights of truth telling in both of these instances, the last mentioned house being already under way, while Mr. Belasco has confirmed the statement relating to himself.....There has been another rumor afloat, which we would be glad to entirely discredit, but which, unfortunately, seems to be founded upon truth. It relates to some dissatisfaction among the members of the Actors' Fund of America, arising from the lack of moral and financial support of the Fund by the profession at large. It is rumored that at the recent annual meeting of the organization there was a sharp discussion brought about by the ill success of benefit performances given in aid of the Fund during the past year. That there was such a discussion is undoubtedly true, but it is claimed that the whole truth concerning the matter has not been made known, and it is intimated that the trouble is really of a serious nature, and that, if unadjusted, it will greatly impede the work of the organization. Louis Aldrich, president of the Fund, is a man of excellent heart and sound judgment. He is broad minded and an indefatigable worker, and, above all, is intensely devoted to the interests committed to his care. We hope and believe that he will be able to still the tumult not only without antagonizing any one, but that through his efforts those who are said to be lukewarm in their affection for the Fund may be induced to renew their fealty. The charitable work of this organization is done so unostentatiously that it receives but little of the favorable comment that is its due, but through the closeness of our relations with the profession we hear of very many of the individual cases in which its charity has been operative, and we would be glad to see the entire profession united in its support.....Mrs. Leslie Carter closed her first season in "Zaza" at the Garrick Theatre, this city, on June 17, finishing an engagement at that house of twenty-three consecutive weeks. Her role in the play is an arduous one, requiring the outlay of much nervous force, and it is little short of marvelous how she has endured the strain imposed upon her. There is a valuable lesson taught by her success, and it may be found embodied in the old aphorism that "perseverance conquers all things." When Mrs. Carter began her professional career there seemed to be no logical reason why he should have attempted to act. Her work was uninspired, crude and almost utterly devoid of charm. It seemed to be entirely without promise, yet there was sufficient evidence of striving to enlist sympathy. In "The Heart of Maryland" Mrs. Carter showed that she had gained much skill, but although her work in that play was surprisingly good and highly commendable, it was not of the sort that could win for her very exalted rank. It suggested, however, possibilities of growth, and her first appearance here in "Zaza" was awaited with much interest. The result is well known. The first emotion, in spite of expectancy, was surprise, which quickly yielded to an admiration which was apparently boundless. She had somehow or other gained all that was necessary to make her great, that which in her case had seemed to be utterly unattainable, yet which had nevertheless been acquired. We knew then how persistently she had labored, how thoroughly she must have allowed her pride to be abased that her merit might be exalted, how obediently she must have bowed to the will of her instructor, and with what careful and arduous striving she must have endeavored to conform herself to his ideal. Mrs. Carter was not endowed with genius, yet seldom has genius achieved higher results than she has obtained by the exercise of indomitable will, by persistent effort and implicit obedience to the higher intelligence of the instructor. It is undoubtedly true that David Belasco is entitled to share liberally in Mrs. Carter's triumph, but it is not necessarily true, as some have intimated, that her future efforts must fail should she be deprived of his assistance. Such an assumption is based upon the idea of hypnotic influence, and ignores the more plausible theory that Mr. Belasco wrought upon Mrs. Carter's intelligence. Accepting this theory as true, it is scarcely possible that Mrs. Carter could have acquired the knowledge necessary to her performance of Zaza without that knowledge having gone through the process of mental digestion and assimilation which would make it permanently a part of herself. She has evidently not only learned how to act in conformity with another's mental chart, but she has doubtless learned how to think, and her mental powers must, by the process above mentioned, be capable of creation to a degree far beyond their earlier capacity. We cannot solve one problem by a process of reasoning without being better fitted to solve the next problem which may be presented, and although the mental growth of Mrs. Carter may be more rapid under the continual training of Mr. Belasco, which, happily, is vouchsafed to her, we incline to the belief that she would not fail without his assistance. .....The continued attractions for the week ending June 17 were: "His Excellency the Governor" at the EMPIRE, "The Man in the Moon" at the NEW YORK, "Zaza" at the GARRICK, "A Reign of Error" at the VICTORIA and the Jeff De Angelis Opera Co. at the CASINO, the three last named having closed on that date.....Variety entertainment was furnished at TONY PASTOR'S, PROCTOR'S, the UNION SQUARE, the PLEASURE PALACE, the LONDON and the following roof gardens: The Aerial Palm Garden (Koster & Bial's) and the Aerial Magnolia Grove (formerly Olympia).

PREPARATIONS for the opening of the American Theatre Roof Garden are rapidly nearing completion. The garden has been redecorated, and by the use of growing plants, palms and vines, wears the semblance of an aerial arbor. The resort will open July 1, and among the attractions Manager Kingsbury has secured for the opening bill are: Pauline Hall, Caron and Herbert, and the Cardownie Troupe of International Dancers. Popular prices will prevail, the general admission being fixed at twenty-five cents.

TWENTY-THIRD STREET, east of Third Avenue, will probably be the location of a new theatre, to be devoted exclusively to vaudeville. Negotiations looking to the purchase of the site and the construction of the building are now under way.

THE VENETIAN TERRACE GARDEN has been selected as the name for Oscar Hammerstein's Victoria Roof Garden, which opens with a vaudeville entertainment June 26.

FUNERAL SERVICES for the late Augustin Daly were held on the morning of June 19, in St. Patrick's Cathedral. Admission was by ticket, but the congregation filled the church. The bier was surrounded by large floral designs sent by the members of Mr. Daly's companies, who were seated on the left side of the aisle, behind the pallbearers. The body of the dead manager reached the church a little before 9.30 A. M. It was met at the main entrance in Fifth Avenue by the honorary pallbearers, Joseph Jefferson, Theodore Moss, ex-Justice Roger A. Pryor, John A. Sullivan, John B. Schoeffel, Richard Dorney, George Clarke, William Winter, St. Clair McKelway, ex-Mayor William R. Grace, John D. Crimmins, Richard M. Henry, Joseph Howard Jr, Dr. Oliver L. Jones, Thomas H. Kelly, George B. Robinson and Nelson Goodwin Green. While the organ pelaed forth Beethoven's Funeral March three bearers escorted the body to the catafalque at the head of the main aisle, and seated themselves in the front pews on the right. The mourning party which followed the coffin into the church included Mrs. Augustin Daly, her mother, Mrs. John A. Duff; her sister, Mrs. James E. Hayes, and her brothers, the Rev. Rufus Duff and James C. Duff; ex-Justice Joseph F. Daly, his wife and three children; Mrs. G. H. Gilbert, of Daly's Theatre Co., and a few of the old servants of Augustin Daly. The elder Mrs. Daly, mother of the deceased, was too feeble to attend. The Daly family pew was vacant and was appropriately draped. Elaborate floral pieces were arranged in front of the chancel and at the head of the coffin. Mass was celebrated by Archbishop Corrigan, assisted by the Rev. Fathers McCluskey, Daly, Newey, Connolly, Myhan, Elliott and Hughes. The music, which was under the direction of W. F. Pecher, the Cathedral organist, with a largely augmented choir and an orchestra, included Sullivan's "Lost Chord." Father Lavelle delivered the sermon and paid high tribute to the deceased manager. Among the members of the late manager's companies present were: Marcia Van Dresser, Charles Richman, Carona Ricardo, May Cargill, Wilfred Clarke, Mabel Roebuck, Beatrice Morgan, Robert Greppo, White Whittlesey, Paula Edwardes, James Young, Sidney Herbert, Louise Draper, Virginia Navarro, William Hazeltine, De Witt Jennings, Walter Howard, Anne Caverly, Lucy Spinney and William Owen. The musical company was represented by Cyril Scott, James T. Powers, Virginia Earl, Herbert Gresham, Harold Vizard, Henry Stanley, Catherine Lewis, Carolyn Gordon, Eric Scott, Lionel Hogarth, Robert Kelly and Belle Harper. Others who attended were: William H. Crane, Francis Wilson, Edward Harrigan, De Wolf Hopper, "Aunt Louisa" Eldridge, Mrs. W. J. Florence, Mrs. Barney Williams, Rose Eytinge, John Kendrick Bangs, Arthur Rehan, Gen. Louis Fitzgerald, Adrian Iselin, Richard Watson Gilder, Jeannette Gilder, Dr. Joseph D. Bryant, Mrs. Joseph J. O'Donohue and daughters, Dr. Appleton Morgan, Edward Gilmore, Peter F. Meyer, John F. Carroll, James S. Coleman, T. Henry French, Mrs. N. T. Reynal, J. Rhinelander Dillon, ex-Surrogate Arnold, William J. Gilmore, Augustus Thomas, Clay M. Greene, Mrs. E. L. Fernandez, Bijou Fernandez, Jacques Kruger, Dorothy Morton, Antonio Pastor, Frank Murtha, Mrs. James Lewis, Henry Harper, A. B. de Frece, Samuel C. Austin, Horace McVicker, Harry Mann and Samuel Carpenter, and delegations from the Actors' Fund of America, the Players, the Lambs, the Actors' Order of Friendship, the Musical Mutual Protective Union and the Actors' Society of America. The remains were taken to Calvary Cemetery and placed in the Daly family vault.

Proctor's Theatre.—For the current week General Manager J. Austin Fynes offers a pleasing bill, and the good attendance at the opening performances, June 19, gave every evidence of appreciation. Lillian Burkhart, always welcome, presented her latest sketch, "Her Soldier Boy," and scored a success, as usual. She was ably assisted by James Kyrle MacCurdy, and playlet and players recived every evidence that their efforts were appreciated. Hugh Stanton and Florence Modena appeared in Mr. Stanton's skit, "For Reform," and kept the house in an uproar. Smith and Cook, in their acrobatic grotesque act, were in prime form. Waterbury Brothers and Tenny gave their clever musical act, and were accorded a good reception. Carie Scott was as popular as ever in her budget of songs. Ely Coglan was pleasing in her vocalisms. Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie Barry presented an amusing act. McLean and Hall, in an old time black face act, were favorites. The team, which is composed of a man and a woman, do a very clever turn, and fully earned the applause which fell to their lot. Abbott Davidson, monologuist; the Harpers, in a cake walk; Anna Lounborg, in songs; Al. Waltz, skating expert; McLean and Hall, novelty duo; Pongo, man monkey, and Tobey's art views rounded out the bill. The Sunday programme 18 included Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew, Conroy and McDonald, Mabel Taylor King, Gordon Eldrid, Ed. Quinn, Stella Rinehart, W. J. Mills, Allen and Delmain, Chas. Zimmerman, Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie Barry, Conway and Leland, Ford and Dot West, Boyce and Black.

Grand Central Palace Roof Garden.—The opening of this amusement resort occurred on June 19, and sufficient merit was disclosed in the bill to amply justify the assembling of so large an audience as was then on hand. With plenty of cool breezes in evidence, and with so worthy an entertainment to hold their attention, small wonder that the audience waxed enthusiastic frequently, and the entertainers of the evening had no cause to complain of lack of appreciation. Eldora and Norine brought their display of juggling feats prominently to the fore, the Etting Sisters gave a clever singing and dancing specialty, and the Bates Trio played musical instruments and sang in a most satisfactory manner. Whitelaw and Stewart, as the German and the Celt, dispensed dialect comedy lavishly, and Ray Fields and Mlle. Sahra performed their acrobatic cake walk most entertainingly. L. O. De Witt rendered a cornet solo; Brice and Inman's comedy sketch, "My Friend the Lawyer," proved interesting; Derenda and Breen's club juggling act proved a salient number on the bill; Irene Franklin won well merited recognition for her conscientious work, and Behman and Spaulding brought the bill to a close with a neatly executed act, which they call "The Athlete and the Tramp."

Huber's Palace Museum.—Carl Gebhardt a modern pied piper, who charms a big troupe of rats by dulcet strains of music, is the curio hall feature this week, others on the main floor bill being Jack Sonwell, with a den of snakes; Huber, an armless painter; Lottie, a trained baboon, and a troupe of colored jubilee singers. Manager Anderson provides excellent stage entertainment in a bill which enlists the services of Howard and Linden, Merkel and Algers, Rosley and Lee, Green and De Voe, Ada Jones, Lillian Clifton, Fannie Granger and clever Eddie Clark. The attendance on the opening day of the week of June 19-24 was excellent, and the crowds in attendance were evidently well entertained.

Casino Roof Garden.—The bill is this week made up of the following people: Mlle. Fanchonette, Laura Bennett, Francioli Sisters, Violet Holmes, Wm. F. Gould, Sisters Minty, Annabelle Moore, Glenroy Bros., Snyder and Buckley, Nora Lambert, Pauline Hammerstein, La Petite Adelaide, Edgar Ely, Mlle. Irene and her dog, Alma Doerger, the Phasey Troupe and the Cole and Johnson company of colored comedians in a very worthy contribution.

Koster & Bial's.—Owing to the burning of the stage and canopy on the roof of this resort on the morning of June 18, the entertainments this week will be given in the Music Hall. The current bill, opening 19, includes Dave Meier, Alice Magill, Silvern and Emerie, Mme. Arniotis, Sadi Alfarabi, Leonida's trained cats and dogs, Josie De Witt, Goggin and Davis, Josephine Sabel, Johnson and Dean, and the Metweef troupe. On the roof an open air military band concert is given under the direction of Gustave Luders. The management expects to rebuild the roof garden stage and have it ready to give performances there next week.

Keith's Union Square Theatre.—Rose Melville, one of the most talented and popular performers ever seen in vaudeville bills at this house, returned Monday, June 19, for a continuance of her previously pronounced hit in her clever impersonation of "Sis Hopkins." Not content with character triumphs, she added a transition from Posey County, Indiana, to Broadway at the conclusion of her charming portrayal of the Hoosier belle. In the absence of a better excuse, we conclude that the transformation is made to assure the audience that Miss Melville is really the pretty woman that she is, and that she does not walk the streets and enjoy the quietude of private life as the gawkish girl she impersonates upon the stage. Her artistic character work, and not her personal charm, has brought her into enviable prominence, and it is to be sincerely hoped that the expressed satisfaction of Monday's audience upon discovering that her impersonation of Sis Hopkins was in truth an impersonation, and not a reality, will not lead her to rob the public of the delightful country girl we have come to so heartily admire, by adopting a line of stage work which will give full sway to an evident desire to show how personally charming she is. Whatever her plans, her hit on Monday was hearty, and, as usual, well deserved. As Sis Hopkins, she delighted all beholders by the finished portrayal of the character, and when she appeared in city raiment, she was equally well received. Her company has been augmented by the addition of six Summer girls, remarkable inasmuch as they make no effort to attract the attention or form the acquaintance of the two men who figure in the seaside sketch. Smith and Campbell reappeared after a protracted absence and scored a pronounced hit. Their string of rapid fire nonsensicalities is bright and new, and the audience was quick to appreciate the witty points with which their contribution bristles. The Blondelles, Edward and Libbie, introduced an improved version of their clever juvenile comedy; Miss Blondelle was prettily costumed and added her accustomed agreeable portion to the sketch, which has as a shining feature the artistic character work of Mr. Blondelle. Al. Wilson monologued his way to an immediate hit, his dialect stories and songs being abundantly appreciated. Wilmer and Vincent, assisted by Olive White, presented their laughable little comedy, "A Strange Baby," with splendid effect. Ethel Levy made a hit with coon songs, well sung and acted in a lively and intelligent way, her efforts being redemanded. Swan and O'Day, in a plantation sketch; Louis Truax, in a wrestling specialty; C. Southard Thompson, conjurer; Healey and Saunders, dancers, and Kissaire and Elliott offered specialties which met with approval. Kelly and Ashby were retained for a second and last week to perform their clever acrobatic act; Sheehan and Kennedy gave an amusing comedy interlude, and the one hundred and twenty-sixth consecutive week of the American biograph opened with that machine still in strong demand. Anderson and Engleton were seen in an acting sketch, wherein they displayed evidence of dramatic ability. In spite of the rather humid condition of the weather, the attendance, afternoon and night, filled the seating space and overflowed the standing room.

Tony Pastor's Theatre.—Two well filled houses marked the opening of the week of June 19, when Manager Pastor again presented an evenly good bill of continuous vaudeville for the amusement of his patrons. Maud Granger is toplined in a presentation of Sidney Wilmer's farce, "What the Parrot Said," assistance being rendered in its portrayal by Frank W. Cauldwell and George W. Parsons. The stage setting was very handsome, and Miss Granger wore an elaborate gown. As for the sketch, if it had a better finish, if the opening was improved, and if the main body of the sketch were revised and amended, it would show a betterment all around. The Stewart Sisters were again "in the hands of their friends," and were well taken care of in the way of encouraging applause. Their contribution was one of the hits of the show. Eva Williams and Jack Tucker gave "Skinny's Finish" another introduction to these audiences, and their previous excellent character work assured them a warm welcome. Their hit was well merited. Emma Krause, assisted by Jessie Cole and the Dutch Pickaninnies, won a favorable verdict on the merits of her work, and the entire act proved entertaining. The Seven Reed Birds were heartily applauded in their interpretation of Dave Reed's clever sketch, "After the Ball." The talented family, individually and collectively, scored a strong and well deserved success. Howley and Leslie's clever dancing specialty won its accustomed hit, and Allie Leslie scored her usual personal success in her juvenile impersonation. Harry Thompson gave his songs, stories and imitations to an appreciative audience, and the Borani Brothers were well received in their acrobatic contortions. Welland, juggler; Billy Payne, in a musical act; the Bohomes, in German comedy, and Cameron and Gauss, in a character act, offered specialties which won appreciation according to merit. Animated pictures, projected by the American vitagraph, formed an entertaining part of the programme. To conclude a mention of the show without referring to Tony Pastor's solo singing would make the work incomplete. His enterprise in keeping his comic song parodies and topical ditties abreast of the times finds constant appreciation with his audiences, and his popularity remains undiminished.

Aerial Magnolia Grove.—Big business continues here. The bill for week of June 19 includes: The Sisters Minty, the Four Talkas, the Versailles, Peasant dancers; Susie Forrester, the Miles Stavordale Quintet, Christopher Bruno and Mayme Gehrue, William English, Prof. Carl Marwig's Ballet Divertissment, Walter Stanton and Charles Walton, La Liska and her picaninnies, Ezra Kendall, the Beaumont Sisters, Walton's Monkey Gymnasts, Lizzie and Vinie Daly, the Manhattan Trio, the Tiller Quartet of Dancers, Mlle. Lotty, the Three Sisters Ronay, Mlle. Erna's trained dogs, Cissie Loftus and the Pony Ballet.

Koster & Bial's Roof Garden was the scene of a fire early Sunday morning, June 18. Flames were discovered in the flies on the stage by porters who were cleaning the place, preparatory to the Sunday night concert. With the aid of the house apparatus and the work of the Fire Department, which was quickly notified, the damage was confined to the roof and amounted to about $5,000. Workmen were immediately set to work, and by 8 o'clock in the evening the burned portion of the roof fixtures were replaced, and everything was ready in time for the regular performance.

Empire Theatre.—"His Excellency the Governor" entered on June 19 upon the fifth week of its run. It was to have closed 17, but owing to the continued demand for seats Charles Frohman wired from London, Eng., to keep it on for a while. It is worthy of its prosperity, and rarely at this time of year do we have so good a dramatic attraction.

Atlantic Garden.—Bartell and Morris, Trixeda, the Edridges, Leroy and Morris, and Barr and Evans are on the bill this week, opening June 19.

"FROM DEN TO MANSION," a four act drama, by J. K. Tillottson, will be presented at the Fourteenth Street Theatre Aug. 31, for a run. The following is the company engaged by Frank Williams, the business manager, through Col. T. Allston Brown: J. H. Gilmour, Frank Losee, Theodore Roberts, P. Aug. Anderson, J. L. Wooderson, Claude Gillingwater, Robert Quilter, Selma Herman, Sydney Cowell, Charlotte Crane, Margaret Dale Owen, Alma Earle.

IN THE SUPREME COURT of this State, on June 16, Justice McAdam dismissed the complaint in an action brought by the Broadway Theatre Company against the Dessau Company to recover damages for breach of contract in connection with the production of "The Sorrows of Satan."

CLOSED.—Knickerbocker, Lyceum, Broadway, Manhattan, Wallack's, Daly's, Bijou, Fifth Avenue, Garden, Garrick, Herald Square, Madison Square, Casino, Fourteenth Street, Grand Opera House, American, Academy of Music, Victoria, Star, Murray Hill, People's, Harlem Opera House, Columbus, London, Huntig & Seamon's, Irving Place, Third Avenue, Miner's Eighth Avenue, Miner's Bowery, Weber & Fields', Olympic, Germania, Thalia and Windsor.

Pleasure Palace.—The week commencing June 19 was ushered in by a good attendance at Manager Proctor's uptown house. Probably the most important item on the bill was the professional debut of Mrs. T. Benton Leiter, from Chicago. Mrs. Leiter has been heavily billed, a vaudeville recruit from the leading ranks of society, particular stress being laid upon her relationship to Lady Curzon, Vicereine of India. But Mrs. Leiter has greater claims than these to acquire a foothold on the stage from the fact that she is possessed of histrionic ability and selected a capable vehicle for her debut in the brisk comedietta, "A Stolen Kiss." She was rendered able assistance by Wright Huntington and Alex. Kearney. Mrs. Leiter is a handsome woman, and achieved an undisputable success, Messrs. Huntington and Kearney sharing honors with the debutante. Joe Welch scored his customary hit, with his quaint and original Hebrew characters. Barton and Ashley, in their specialty sketch, introduced their tough cake walk and were highly pleasing with their performances on various musical instruments. J. Frank Ely and L. Florence Harvey, in their black face sketch, "William and Mandy," were received with approbation. Marie Stori made her vaudeville debut, played the violin in an artistic manner and received rounds of hearty applause for her sweet singing. Arthur Rigby was another greatly appreciated number, his acting and singing winning for him quick recognition. Mlle. Flora made a pretty picture on the wire, her dexterous dancing finding favor. Sherman's goats showed the effects of careful training, and were especially pleasing to the juvenile portion of the audience. Jess Vernon gave a clever exhibition of ventriloquism. John "Chinee" Leach told dialect stories that pleased. Art Views and Timely Topics rounded out the bill.

New York.—Good business continues here, where "The Man in the Moon" began June 19 its ninth week.

THE ORPHEUM is the name selected by Manager Geo. E. Jansen for the music hall he is to erect on the property adjoining the Victoria, in West Forty-second Street. Plans filed with the Building Department on June 15 call for a three story and basement brick building of steel construction, with a front finished in Moorish style, and adorned with grille and fret work of ornamental terra cotta and galvanized iron. There will be a roof garden, arched with steel and movable glass, designed on the same principle as the roof garden on the New York. The building will be 60ft. wide and 100ft. deep, which will allow for an auditorium 60ft. deep and 50ft. wide, with two balconies and a promenade foyer in the rear of the parquet. The interior of the house will be finished in Moorish style, with an abundance of fancy grille work in the decoration of the boxes, balconies and proscenium. Much attention has been given to the comfort of the public in the seating arrangement of the house. In the parquet there will be three hundred seats, balcony two hundred and seventy-four, and gallery two hundred and thirty, and in the basement a billiard room and cafe will be fitted up. The theatre's policy will be to present to the public two performances each day by the highest class vaudeville talent obtainable. Every effort will be made to have the theatre completed for occupancy in time for the opening of the regular Winter season.

Brooklyn.—The Summer season was inaugurated at Manhattan Beach June 17, with Sousa's Band and Pain's Fireworks. The theatrical season here begins 24, with Frank Daniels and company as the attraction.

BRIGHTON BEACH.—Large crowds are attracted here these warm days and evenings to enjoy the very attractive entertainments given by Slafer's Brooklyn Marine Band and the vaudevilles. The performances are under the management of W. T. Glover. Among the vaudeville performers are: George Thatcher, Louise Gunning, the Van Aukens, T. Wilmot Eckert and Emma Berg, and Prof. Herbert's Dog Circus.

BERGEN BEACH.—The regular season at the Casino opened 19 with Edgar Selden's musical farce comedy, in three acts, entitled "A Spring Chicken." It is handsomely and attractively staged and presented by a capable cast, including Bert Leslie, Monte O'Neil, J. H. Flynn, Belle Gold, Vinie Henshaw, Gilbert Sarony, Idylle Vyner, Louise Auber, Orga Ortoff, George Betts, Fred Lucier, Sophie Leslie, and a large chorus.

MANAGER WM. L. BISSELL, of the Star Theatre, and family leave the latter part of this week for a short stay in the mountains of Western Pennsylvania.

NEW YORK STATE.

Albany.—A most notable production witnessed the close of the regular season at the Empire Theatre on Wednesday night, June 14, when Maude Adams appeared in "Romeo and Juliet." The theatre was packed to the doors, and applause for all the principals in the cast was most generous. Mr. Faversham was unable to assume the role of Romeo and Orrin Johnson took his place. The receipts were the largest of any night during the season. This house will remain closed until about the middle of September.

THE ELKS gave a benefit performance of minstrels on Monday evening, 12, at Harmanus Lyceum, for a local charity. A good sized audience was in attendance. The Columbus Association gave a minstrel show 19, at this house.

PROCTOR'S LELAND is commanding good business, notwithstanding the heated term. Light comedy, by the Frederick Bond Comedy Co., is the drawing magnet, and all plays are well presented, giving two performances daily. The curtain raiser, "Honor Thy Father," and "His Little Game" was the bill 12-14, and the curtain raiser, "L z," followed by "Betsy" was put on 15-17. J. W. Bingham and Kittie Bingham appeared between the acts. "London Assurance" is announced for 19-21, and "Arabian Nights" and "The Goose with the Golden Eggs" as a curtain raiser 22-24.

NOTES.—The Albany Theatre and Gaiety Theatre have closed for the season..... Lagoon Island, the Summer resort on the Hudson River, among its many attractions has a well appointed theatre, where variety is given daily and nightly. The bill for the current week includes Tanner and Claxton, Speeden and Hurson, Sadie Probst, Pete La Mar and Miss Forrest. William H. Buck, manager of the Gaiety Theatre, has resigned from the booking and is superintending the excursion business of the Island. Billy Williams now has charge of the booking.

Buffalo.—The current roster at Shea's Garden Theatre is: The Four Cohans, in "Running for Office;" Yorke and Adams, Swift and Huber, Inez Mecusker, Marsh and Sartella, Boyle and Graham, Cooke and Clinton, Carlos and Voulette, and the biograph. British American Band is due 25. Business was tremendous last week.

STAR THEATRE.—The stock presents "All the Comforts of Home" this week. "The Iron Master" next week.

LYCEUM THEATRE.—The Summer opera season ended June 17. Patronage was light. The Broadway Opera Co. will devote the rest of the Summer to Ontario Beach, near Rochester, and Midland Beach, Staten Island. Champion Jeffries appears 20.

EMPIRE THEATRE'S season closed 17. The stock company is being engaged for the early September opening.

ELMWOOD BEACH.—Manager Girard's attractions this week are: Edward E. Gilford, Collins and Madill, Al. H. Weston, Prince Schuman, Gregory and Durrell, Sadie Hart and Mlle. Thompson. Business excellent. Harry Ferren is assistant.

NOTES.—Marcus Moses is now treasurer at the Star Theatre, a merited promotion.....Gentry's Dog and Pony Circus is here next week..... Buffalo Bill's Wild West comes July 24..... The Roof Garden is flourishing under August Sonnemann's management.....Wallace's Circus had four big gatherings and gave good satisfaction. Several of their camels were loaned to the Mystic Shriners for their great parade, 15.....The fourth annual benefit of the Theatrical Mechanical Association took place at the Star 18. George Fuller Golden, Mae Lamkin and the Gliberts were on the lengthy programme.....Cricket Caryl has signed with J. H. Wallack.

Rochester.—At the Lyceum Theatre the Lyceum Theatre Stock Company began a week's run of "Nordeck" June 19. Last week "Monte Cristo" was given to good sized audiences during the week.

NEW BAKER THEATRE.—"All the Comforts of Home" was began 19, by the Saerbert Stock Company, running for the entire season. "Diplomacy" drew good houses last week.

ONTARIO BEACH PARK.—The Broadway Theatre Opera Co. begin a two weeks' stay 19, in "The Highwayman;" after that vaudeville performances are to be given. Manager Sweeney has engaged the world's champion, James J. Jeffries, to give a sparring exhibition at the Pavilion between the acts during the performance of "The Highwayman," 20. Liberati's Band and Carlisle's Wild West Show are also attractions at the Park.

Syracuse.—At Wieting Opera House Maude Adams presented "Romeo and Juliet," to very large attendance, June 13.

Newburg.—At Glenwood Park the people for June 19 are: Bessie Phillips, Tommy Baker, Edwards and Clifton, Prince Raldino, Mlle. Cleo, and Gus Vincent, pianist. The park is under the same management as last year. Business is good.

Binghamton.—At the Casino, week of June 19: Little Chip, De Hollis and Valora, Mason and Wright, Jerry Sanford, Alice Carmelo, Flossie Wilmot and Snedman's Dog Circus.

Music and Song.

☞ The Fourth of July being a legal holiday, it will be necessary to close our forms earlier than usual. Copy for advertisements intended for the last two pages of the issue of July 8 must reach us not later than Friday, June 30. All correspondence should reach us not later than the first mail on Tuesday, July 4.

Meyer Cohen, the New York representative for Chas. K. Harris, writes us that his office is crowded continually with professionals rehearsing some of the Harris songs. "'Mid the Green Fields of Virginia" is growing daily in popularity. "One Night in June" is moving along nicely, and is in the repertory of the best singers in the profession. "Eileen" is going along steadily. "When Euphriam Plays His Solo on the Drum" is being used by all coon singers. "Molly, Come Drive the Cows Home" is the feature of Pauline Hall's act. "Without Your Love, Ah, Let Me Die" is being made a feature of by ballad singers. "Will I Find My Mamma There?" is considered one of the best ballads that Mr. Harris wrote.

Emil Paur sailed for Europe last week. He will go to Paris, where he may meet Maurice Grau and settle the terms of his engagement as conductor of the Wagner operas at the Metropolitan next Winter. Then he will go to Vienna and Bayreuth. He will return to New York toward the middle of September.

Harry Walters ("the original Tidd") has an immense success in his clever parody on "The Moth and the Flame" and the "Kaya Kaya" dance.

Victor Herbert, not contented with his work to complete three new operas for the coming season for Alice Nielsen, Frank Daniels and Francis Wilson, has contracted to furnish the Bostonians a new opera, which will be delivered about December. It is very likely that the book will be written by Harry B. Smith.

Robert Recker, who has for many years been the musical director at the London Theatre, this city, has gone into the music publishing business.

Bennett and Rich, song illustrators, introduced "He Carved His Mother's Name Upon the Tree," with original illustrations, with success wherever they appeared, and have started the song on the road to popularity.

The Asby Gaiety Opera Co. will open the season July 31, and is booked for forty-five weeks solid.

Gustave Kerker sailed for England June 17. He goes to London for six weeks to collaborate with Hugh Morton in a new musical comedy for George W. Lederer, to be produced in this country next season. Mr. Kerker will return in August and assist in the rehearsals for the new review destined for London, which has been called "The Gay World."

Messrs. Jules and Matt Grau have organized one of the strongest Summer opera companies ever known for their season of opera at Pleasure Bay Park, opening Thursday, June 29. There will be over eighty people in the cast. Among the singers are such names as Maud Hollins, Jessie Padgham, Addie Farrington, Josie Bartlett, R. E. Graham, Harold Blake, Stanley Felch, Arthur Cunningham, Deegles Flint, Chas. Dean Lovegood, Jas. Fressl, musical director. The repertory will embrace such operas as "Said Pasha," "Mikado," "Wang," "Pinafore" and "Ship Ahoy."

Ed. Carl Hand, musical director, has joined Kennedy Players for the Summer season.

E. C. Andrews, late of Waite's Comedy Co., has accepted an engagement with I. G. Heth's Orchestra for the Summer, at Exposition Park, Pa.

Abbott Davison ("Old Sport Davie") has made a go at the Proctor houses singing "The Handicap" and "The Moth and the Flame."

A. J. McWatters, of McWatters and Tyson, sang his latest compositions at the Pleasure Palace last week, entitled "We'll Meet Again" and "Sweet Dorcthy Lee."

Helen Feltham Masury's suit for a divorce from John Miller Masury, which was in realty an action to establish her marriage to him, has been dismissed by Judge Scott, of the Supreme Court. His action is based on the report of Hamilton Odell, the referee in the case, before whom it was heard secretly. The complainant was formerly a member of the Bostonians.

RHODE ISLAND.

Providence.—The Wilbur Opera Co. opened for a Summer season June 12, at the Providence Opera House. The company is large and presents all the standard operas at 10, 20 and 30 cents. The fact that people can have the privilege of going to a $1.50 house at these prices seems to have a great drawing power, and every performance last week was well attended, and on some of the cooler evenings the house was filled to its capacity. Between the acts vaudeville is presented, and taking it all together there is plenty for the money. The company will continue until further notice.

KEITH'S OPERA HOUSE.—At this pretty theatre last week there was a fine show, headed by Ching Ling Foo, Chinese magician, who was the star attraction. His performance is clever and he has no doubt made the hit of the season. The rest of the bill was good. The business was good all the week, although the Providence Opera House certainly made its presence felt. The bill for the present week, which is the closing one of the season, is made up as follows: Arthur Dunn and Clara Bell Jerome, Monroe and Mack, Harris and Fields, Howard Hall and Co., Taylor Holmes, Flood Bros., the American biograph, Giguere and Boyer, Lincoln and Gillette, Farrell and Taylor, the Reillys, John R. Barty and Walter Hyde.

OLYMPIC THEATRE.—This house, although closed for the season a week or two ago, opened up for one night, June 15, with James J. Jeffries, the new champion pugilist, as the attraction. The house was packed.

NOTES.—Brown, Harrison and Brown are at their home in this city for the Summer. They closed their season here at Keith's Theatre, and will open the coming season at this same house in September. .....Chas. Lovenberg, resident manager of the Keith house in this city, will, after the season closes here, at the end of the present week, go to New York to take the place of Sam Hodgdon, who is the general booking agent..... Mr. Hodgdon will be absent for several weeks, and upon his return Mr. Lovenberg will return to this city to assume control of this house again.....Rose Coghlan and John T. Sullivan are spending the Summer on the shores of the bay hereabouts, and may be seen at Newport and Narragansett Pier most any time..... Work on the new Empire Theatre is progressing very rapidly, and Manager Spitz is a very busy man.

ILLINOIS.

Chicago.—Recent spells of hot weather sounded a warning which has been heeded by two theatres. During the sweltering periods there were long rows of vacant seats. There have been an unusually large number of houses planning to keep open for the Summer, but the Great Northern and McVicker's managements have concluded to heed this portent and leave the field to the others. Ward and Vokes will remain another week at the former place, and "The Club's Baby" will stay for the same period at the latter, and then the houses will close for the Summer. Hopkins' shut down after the Sunday performances for a couple of weeks. It will be repaired, and then reopened with the old policy at the end of that period. The Dearborn and Studebaker call this week "the opening of the Summer season," although that means no change in policy, other than the adherence to light entertainment, the former in drama and the latter in opera. This has been done for some weeks anyhow. Two first class attractions have just started in on Summer runs, and bid fair to remain all through. "Arizona" was produced at the Grand last week with a cast made possible by the closing of the Winter season. The play is already popular. "Because She Loved Him So" opened at Powers' last week, and leaped into immediate popularity. The business has gone down or up in inverse ratio to the thermometer, which has been favorable to indoor managers about two-thirds of the time.

GRAND.—"Arizona," by Augustus Thomas, was originally produced here Monday by Fred R. Hanlin, assistant manager of the house, and Kirke La Shelle. The play itself tells a strong story, perhaps not altogether novel, but thoroughly interesting, dressed up in the fashion of the Western plains and replete with bright dialogue. The cast is good all through. Theodore Roberts has an old ranchman to portray, rugged, but kind hearted, and he does it with wonderful verisimilitude. Mattie Earle gives an amusing picture of his shrewish wife. Olive May, as their daughter Bonita, has a major share of the sentiment, with Robert Edeson, who makes a fine hero as Lieut. Denton, wronged but finally righted. Mabel Bert has the thankless role of the weak and erring wife of Col. Bonham, the latter role being played by Edwin Holt. Arthur Byron makes a cool, self contained, absolutely unscrupulous villain, Capt. Hodgman, and the lesser roles were played splendidly by Stephen French, Adora Andrews, Edith Athelstone, Samuel Edwards, Vincent Serrano, Franklin Garland Walter Hale, Lionel Barrymore and Menilee Johnstone. The play is booked for the Summer, Wednesday matinees being cut out. The week's business averaged very good.

POWERS'.—"Because She Loved Him So" opened last week, and has been going quite well, thoroughly delighting those who have turned out to see the dainty, crisp and lively farce. J. E. Dodson, Kate Meek, Edwin Arden, Annie Irish, Maggie Fielding and Arnold Daly all took immensely. The play is booked for the Summer.

MCVICKER'S.—This is the fourth and final week of "The Club's Baby." When the weather was favorable the piece did quite well last week, and the average was to the good.

STUDEBAKER.—"Erminie" is the bill this week, with some new faces in the Castle Square Opera Co. John E. McWade, who has been settled in Chicago for some time, will take his old role of the Marquis. Homer Lind's baritone voice will be heard for the first time in Chicago. The cast is as follows: Marquis de Powart, John E. McWade; Chevalier de Brabazon, Homer Lind; Eugene, Reginald Roberts; Ravanes, William G. Stewart; Cadeaux, Frank Moulan; De Launey, Maud Lamberi; Simon, Charles W. Myers; Sergeant, Harry Truax; Ernst de Brissac, Walter Ware; Erminie, Laura Millard; Cerise, Mary Carrington; Princess de Grameneaux, Bessie Fairbairn; Javotte, Gertrude Quinlan; Marie, Phyrnette Ogden; Benedik, Jacob Wienley.

DEARBORN.—The stock begins its official Summer season with the comedy, "Lend Me Your Wife." This follows in the footsteps of another piece of light nature, "All the Comforts of Home," the presentation of which met with deserved success.

HOPKINS'.—"The Golden Giant Mine," with vaudeville, was the bill at Hopkins' for the final week of the season. After two well attended Sunday performances the house closed for two weeks, for repairs.

GREAT NORTHERN.—The sixth and last week of the Ward & Vokes Burlesque Company opens with no change in bill from the week preceding, except that "The Back Stair Investigation" has been revised and take offs on recent sessions of the Baxter Committee added. The other travesties are: "Sponging Life" and "The Floor Walkers." Business has averaged fair.

MASONIC TEMPLE ROOF GARDEN.—Camille D'Arville's engagement proved a success, so much so that Manager J. J. Murdock has re-engaged her, in spite of the fact that he makes affidavit to paying her $1,600 a week. Others to be seen are: Freeze Brothers, McMahon and King, Musical Dale, Pantzer Trio, Jessie Merrillees, Clarice Vance, Gallando, and Stover's Electro Scenic Topics.

CHICAGO OPERA HOUSE.—With the roof garden its sole down town vaudeville, this house manages to hold its own quite well against the warm weather. The current bill is made up of Robert Downing and company, Lina and Vani, Tiddley Winks Johnny Dugan, Loney Haskel, Juggling Johnsons, Richard Foote and Annie Plunkett, May Cook, Lawrence Sisters, Breton-Runkel Trio, Johnny Williams, Fogarty and Levigne, Mlle. Vidas, Varney and Harris, Marion Hart, and the Two Bedfords.

FERRIS WHEEL PARK.—The Summer crowds are beginning to materialize at this resort. The current bill is made up of Howard's Pony Circus, Annie Kenwick, T. J. Farron, Al. and Mamie Anderson, Kelly and Violette, Mons. Geyer, Kittie Leslie, Knox Wilson and others.

SANS SOUCI PARK.—A good business has been done on pleasant days. Here, this week, are the Anglo-American Pony Circus, Fox and Allen, Inez Mecusker and others.

CHUTES PARK.—The turnstile gives indisputable evidence of the popularity of "shooting the chutes." The vaudeville bill is made up of Conger and Maxwell, Welch and Allen, Gus Andrews, Anita and Albert Teres, the Provost Brothers and Beno.

SAM T. JACK'S.—"Skylarking," full of local allusions, is the principal burlesque this week. The Oriental Pas Ma La and French Moulin Rouge dancers are features. The "Harem of the Effendi" is the curtain raiser.

CLARK SEREET DIME MUSEUM.—Mr. and Mrs. D'Aljer, Cuban knife experts, are the feature of the week. Others on the week's bill are: Captain Sidney Hinman, life saver; Flossie Green Lee, sixteen years old and weighing 350 pounds; Barney Nelson, armless man; Du Puyster, Yankee whittler, and Professor Jukes, glass blower. Dick Riley, Kittie Wolf, Ed. Lawrence, Mrs. Rose Wallace Gagne and others will appear in a farce in the theatre.

WHITE'S LONDON DIME MUSEE.—The following are at this house: Prof. Herman, tattoer; Prof. La Verd, magician; Clara Scott, performing dogs; Chas. Fields, crayon artist, and the usual specialty and Midway show.

GOSSIP.—The Edelweiss Garden, formerly Old Vienna, next to the new Sans Souci Park, at Fifty-first Street and Cottage Grove Avenue, has opened with the Max Bendix Orchestra as the amusement feature.....The Castle Square Opera Co. has commenced rehearsing "The Tarantella," Jakobowski's new opera, which it will produce soon ... Mme. Adelaide Herrmann and company will be next week's feature at the Masonic Temple Roof Garden. The judges in the prize guessing contest as to what would be the attraction will announce their decision soon.... ..Gertrude Haynes is testing the mooted advantages of Chicago as a Summer resort.....Charles A. Gardner filed a petition in bankruptcy in the United States District Court last week, placing his liabilities at $33,115 and his assets at $209, most of which he claims is exempt.

SOUTH CAROLINA.

Charleston.—At Chicora Park the Chapman-Warren Co. continue to good business week of June 12. Kilroy and Britton join the company 19.

World of Players.

—The will of the late Augustin Daly was offered for probate June 19. It was drawn Jan. 20, 1898, and is holographic. The executors named are: Mary Duff Daly and Joseph F. Daly, widow and brother of the deceased, and Richard Dorney. The testator gives to his widow all his personal effects in his residence, moneys in bank and securities. To his mother he leaves an annuity of $300, together with some personal mementos. Mementos are also left to his neice, two nephews, Ada Rehan, James C. Duff, Richard Dorney, Arthur Rehan, John Farrington, Richard M. Henry and Alexander Milne, and, if still in his employ, George Clarke, Mrs. Gilbert, Herbert Gresham, Sidney Herbert, Michael Ryan, Henry Hoyt, Thomas Mangan, Patrick McCarthy, Richard Redding, Owen Gormly, Anna Fiegands, Lizzie Simmons Anne Stringer, and any other persons who may have been in his employ for five years or longer. His correspondence, papers and books are left to his brother. In the matter of his theatres in this city and London, Eng., he directs his executors to continue the business at each as long as they deem proper. And from the net profits of these theatres each year a sum not less than 40 per cent. of such profits shall be divided annually on Dec. 31 among the following persons, or among such of them as shall remain in the employment of the executors, viz.: Ada Rehan, Mrs. G. H. Gilbert, Richard Dorney, John Farrington, George Clarke and Sidney Herbert. Of this money so set aside Ada Rehan is to receive 50 per cent. and the balance to be divided in proportion of the respective salaries of the others named. Ten per cent. of the remainder of the profits is to go to charitable institutions and the balance to the testator's wife, Mary D. Daly. The will also provides that whenever the executors deem it advisable they may close up and dispose of the business of either or both theatres at public or private sale, and the proceeds shall be thus divided: Ten per cent. to charitable institutions, 10 per cent. to Joseph F. Daly, 20 per cent. to Ada Rehan, and the remainder to Mary D. Daly. In case of the death of Mary D. Daly before the sale of such business the proceeds shall be divided, quarter among charitable institutions, quarter to Joseph F. Daly, quarter to Ada Rehan, and the balance to various interests elsewhere named in the will. The balance of his estate, including copyrights, stagerights, etc., is given to the executors in trust, to convert into money by lease or sales and to invest the proceeds, the income from which is to be thus applied: Ten per cent. to the use of the testator's mother, 20 per cent. to Joseph F. Daly, and 70 per cent. to Mary D. Daly.

—The Actors' Church Alliance of America held a meeting for the purpose of organization at the Berkeley Lyceum, this city, evening of June 19. About three hundred and fifty actors and actresses were present, and the meeting was presided over by Bishop Potter. The object of the organization, which is promoted by the Church Association for the Advancement of the Interest of Labor, is to bring profes-ionals in closer union with the church throughout the country. The religious element of the Alliance was represented by the Rev. Thomas H. Sire, Father Ducey, the Rev. Dr. John P. Peters, the Rev. Thomas R. Slicer, Rabbi Silverman, the Rev. Walter Bentley, the Rev. James Reynolds and the Rev. Dr. Francis. The stage was represented by F. F. Mackay, president of the Actors' Society; Verner Clarges, and Miss Kayser, the secretary of the new alliance. Among the members of the dramatic profession in the audience were Laura Burt, Rosa Rand, William Owens, Alfred Fisher, Dore Davidson, Sydney Cowell, Mrs. W. G. Jones, Roland Reed, W. D. Stone and George Treder. After the adoption of the constitution letters of regret were read from the Rev. W. P. Faunce, the Rev. R. Heber Newton, Viola Allen, Fred Warde and others. The first official act of the new alliance was to pass resolutions of regret upon the death of Augustin Daly, and expressions of sympathy for his family. Addresses were made by F. F. Mackay, the Rev. Joseph Reynolds, George T. McIntyre, the Rev. Dr. Peters, Father Ducey, the Rev. Dr. Slicer and others.

—McCullum's Theatre, Cape Cottage Park, and the Gem Theatre, Peak's Island, Me., both opened June 12 with stock companies for the season. The Underwood Springs Park, operated by the Yarmouth Electric Railroad, will open when completed, sometime during the Summer, but as yet plans have not been made for the amusement features.

—"Heroes of the Spanish-American War" is the title of a neat volume of poems which has just been received. It is an epic on the theme of our late war, written by Theodore F. Price. The author is an actor, who has also done good service in other branches of the show business, and whose versatility enabled him to set the type of this work, which is his own publication. It is divided into a number of parts, thus making a series of poems, each complete in itself, but arranged in chronological sequence. The author displays intimate acquaintance with his theme, much facility in rhyming and patriotic ardor. The work will doubtless be prized by those who took part in the stirring scenes it depicts, and especially by the brave sailors who served under Admiral Dewey. Members of the profession will be proud of the work as the product of the muse of one of their guild, and may find matter therein for declamations. Appended to the main poem is another poem, entitled "Spain's Lyre and Sword," which will be found interesting and instructive. The work is handsomely printed, and is profusely illustrated with portraits of men who were prominent in the war. It is published by the author at Cape May, N. J.

—John M. Hickey will manage the tours of Mildred and Rouclere, who begin next season Sept. 25, at Norfolk, Va., presenting an entertainment of magic, illusions and fantastic comedy. Mr. Hickey has negotiations under way for two very notable attractions, which will be a marked innovation in illusionary shows. The season is fully booked to March, and time is being held in a leading Broadway theatre in the Spring. A London season is likewise being seriously considered.

—Ffolliott Paget sailed from Liverpool for America June 17.

—Frank Losee goes with "Dens and Palaces."

—Myrkle and Harder and Manager J. G. Glasgow are at their cottage, "Holland Beach," Port Huron, Mich.

—Frederick Rashland and wife, Anita Leslie, after a successful season have gone to the Thousand Islands for the Summer. Next season they will add several standard comedies to their repertory. Mr. Rashland has a complete set of scenery completed and will open early in September.

—Roger Bros.' new farce comedy, which John J. McNally is writing for them, will be called "The Roger Brothers in Wall Street." They will use it as the opening bill at the Victoria, in this city, Sept. 18. In addition to the Rogers Brothers, Maude Raymond, Ada Lewis, John Parr, Ross Snow and Louise Gunning have already been engaged.

—John R. Rogers will manage the tour of Eddie Girard and Dan Collier next season, when they will appear in a musical farce, entitled "Who's Baby."

—Jacob Litt has changed the name of Edwin Arden's romantic play, which he will produce next season, from "The Children of Israel" to "Zorah." Mr. Litt has engaged Edwin Arden for the leading male part, and Rebecca Warren for Zorah.

—Manager Will H. Myers, of the Little Irene Myers Co., spent last week in New York in search of novelties for the coming season. Contracts were also closed for several new plays which are to be given a production. The company will comprise about twenty people, and the season opens Aug. 21. Sim Allen has been re-engaged as business representative, making his second season at the head of this attraction. Frank Clayton has been also engaged for the coming season as one of the vaudeville features.

—Theo. Hamilton and Minnie Radcliffe have retired from Giffin's Stock Company.

—Angels' Comedians open its regular season the first week in August.

—Douglas Paterson goes with Harrison J. Wolfe.

—Notes from Rentfrow's Jolly Pathfinders: Having just closed one of the most successful seasons in twenty years, Manager Rentfrow is busy man in Chicago, organizing, arranging, booking and carrying out the details necessary for his two companies, Rentfrow's Jolly Pathfinders, twentieth season, and the Manhattan Stock Company. Each company will carry a band and orchestra as a feature. The engagements made thus far are as follow: For the Manhattan Stock Company, Rentfrow & Wies, managers: Sadie Farley, Helene Myertle, Hilda Tucker, Little Cordelia, Amelia Cordelia, Petro Sosso, Wilber Ferris, Jap. Rentfrow, H. A. Thayer, N. E. Tucker, H. Irwin Reed, E. M. Orpin and Robert Demorest. For the Pathfinder Company: Amelia Losee, May Walters, Grace Rentfrow, J. M. Boitin, Mrs. J. N. Rentfrow, Little Louise, Frances Green, Herbert Betts, Harry King, Will Peters, Walter Fredericks, S. F. Hix, E. G. Andrews, and Zenobia, mystic aerial dancer.

—E. F. Nagle goes with "A Temperance Town."

WISCONSIN.

Milwaukee.—Local announcements promised for the Summer at the Academy and Davidson Theatres are certainly out of the ordinary, and it is to be hoped that Milwaukee theatregoers will prove sufficiently appreciative to make the season a prosperous one. The Thanhouser-Hatch Stock Co., at their permanent home, the Academy, has the inside track to start with, a large number of commutation books for the season having been disposed of, and favorites of the company are all well established. The Frawley Co., judging from the production of "The Dancing Girl," is in every way up to the high standard claimed for it, and should meet with liberal patronage and great favor. The past week's business at both houses was entirely satisfactory.

ALHAMBRA THEATRE.—The Jaxon Opera Co. failed to materialize Sunday, June 18, and the engagement was canceled. The house remains dark until 25, when the Wilbur-Kerwin Opera Co. will open an indefinite engagement. "The Queen's Lace Handkerchief" is the opening bill.

DAVIDSON THEATRE.—"The Dancing Girl" was presented all week by the Frawley Co. in a manner that left no doubt as to the excellence of the company. The clever work of Blanche Bates won her great favor. Augustus Cook appeared in his original creation, "David Ives," and received considerable applause. Mr. Frawley, Harrington Reynolds, Alfred Hickman, Mary Van Buren and Georgia Welles all received a most cordial welcome. Week of 19, "Sweet Lavender."

ACADEMY.—The Thanhouser-Hatch Co., in "The Masked Ball," furnished a most delightful performance, the credit of which was shared by the entire company. Valerie Bergere, Julia Blanc, Eugene Moore and R. C. Chamberlin were especially good in their respective roles. Week commencing 19, "Held By the Enemy," followed by "The Private Secretary."

SLENSBY'S TROCADERO.—People week of 18: American Trio, Condon and Norando, Carroll and Neland, Marion Winchester, Ella Dunbar, Ricci and Chandler, Zoe Mathews, Lottie Swan and Charles Reeves. The burlesque, "Faro Bill," completes the bill.

NOTES.—Considerable enthusiasm is being evinced over the home coming of Gen. Chas. King, and Manager Thanhouser, of the Academy, alive to the occasion, has made special arrangements to produce at an early date Gen. King's great war play, "Fort Frayne."....Manager O. F. Miller made a flying trip from New York to Milwaukee Friday. He has secured the Wilbur-Kerwin Opera Co. to take the place of the Jaxon Co., which failed to appear. Mr. Miller has let all contracts for the building of his new theatre, the Star, and work will commence at once. Thirty-two weeks of the coming season has already been booked at that house. Mr. Miller will return to New York in a few days.....The Milwaukee Maennerchor opened the season at White Fish Bay Friday night, with a midsummer concert. It was estimated that nearly ten thousand people attended.....The Lyric Glee Club, at its annual meeting, elected Ossian F. Bird president, and Daniel Frotheroe conductor.....Kathleen Chambers, a well known Washington lady, is playing with the Frawley Co.....Eugene Moore, leading man at the Academy, will have reached his two hundredth role in his next week's performance.....Both the Academy and Davidson give a special matinee next week for the benefit of the New Richmond, Wis., tornado sufferers.....The A. Capella Choir will repeat "The Creation" in a popular concert at the Exposition, June 22. A chorus of over 200 is promised, and over 2,500 tickets have already been sold.....The Milwaukee Lodge of Elks will make the trip to St. Louis with the intention of bringing the next meet to Milwaukee. Hal. Coleman and an advance guard left last week.

Fond du Lac.—At the Crescent, June 8-10, the Irving French Comedy Company had fair business. Hadley's Stock Company comes week of June 19.....No. 57, B. P. O. Elks, sent a large delegation to the grand lodge at St. Louis. All but two of the grand lodge members are in attendance.

KENTUCKY.

Louisville.—At the Auditorium the second week of the Fay Opera Co. opened with the opera, "Falka," for the first three nights, "The Mikado" being presented the latter half of the week. The attendance increased with each production, and the audiences manifested its pleasure by constant and vigorous applause. The company will present "Olivette" June 19-21, to be followed by "Fra Diavolo" 22-24.

PHŒNIX HILL PARK.—This resort will be closed for a couple of weeks to make some necessary repairs, when it will be opened under the management of J. W. McNutt.

ROBISON'S OLYMPIA.—Woods and Lincoln, Billy Wolf, Oma Venell, Frank Lundil, Zoda Meyers, Josie Duncan and stock. Business good.

R. S. SEARS and wife (Gladys Allen Sears), formerly of the team of Allen Sisters (Louise and Gladys), leave 19 for Seymour, Ind., to join Leslie & Sarsfield's Variety Co.

WEST VIRGINIA.

Wheeling.—Everything is ready for the Elks' big street fair, and all that is required now to make it the greatest week Wheeling has ever experienced is fair weather. The carnival will open 26 and run for one week, day and night. A monster street parade, composed of nearly all the civic and military organizations of the city, will mark the opening, and from that time on it will be one continuous round of pleasure. Manager C. A. Feinler, of the Opera House and Grand, who has charge of the advertising, has finished his labors, and the result is that every town for miles around, as well as this city, is billed as it never was before. The influx of strangers is expected to exceed all former occasions, and it will be indeed a gala week. The mayor and chief of police have opened wide the city gates and will deliver the keys to the Elks next Monday. Merchants and citizens have already begun decorating, and by the time the Midway features arrive the city will have on its best holiday clothes.....The work of cleaning, painting and renovating the theatres will begin after July 4. At the Opera House Stage Carpenter Richardson has fitted up a neat little office near the entrance and made numerous changes in the box office.....Col. Rolf has booked the Banda Rossa for three concerts at Wheeling Park early in July.

KANSAS.

Topeka.—The Forest-Hubner Co. opened a second week's engagement June 12, at Garfield Park, to fair business, but on rainy nights they played at Crawford's. William De Boe, head balancer, is being featured this week by the company. The Arnold-Wolford Co. is booked for the park week of 19.....A suit was recently brought here to obtain possession of the chairs in the Grand Opera House for the payment of a mortgage given before the house was bought in by the present owner. The argument was made that when the Opera House was bought that it did not include the chairs. The court decided that the chairs were a part of the Opera House.

MINNESOTA.

St. Paul.—At the Metropolitan Opera House the Neill Co. had good business week of June 11, presenting "The Dancing Girl" the first half of the week and "London Assurance" the last half. Week of 18 the bill will be "A Gilded Fool" the first half of the week, and "A Parisian Romance" the last half. On 19 will occur a benefit for the sufferers by the New Richmond, Wis., cyclone, and because of the state of public sympathy here it will be an immense one. New Richmond is only forty miles from here.

OLYMPIC.—Business was good week of 12, with the following people: Polly O'Neill, Hazel Demar, the Ellsworths, Ella Hulit, Langley and Fonce, Williams and La Rose, the Shaw Brothers, the La Penos, the Ellis.

PALM GARDEN.—The people for week of 12 were: Clara Wagener, Kittie Pink, W. J. Malcom, Grace Gilmore, Harry Pink, Bessie Malcom, Miss Felice and Rhode Oliver. The only new people announced at this writing for week of 19 are Allan and Dellmay Trio. Business was good week of 12.

Duluth.—At the Lyceum Roland Reed, June 13, was the only regular attraction last week, and had a large audience, who were well pleased with "The Wrong Mr. Wright." The company will make one more stand after here and then close for the season, which has been a long one. St. Luke's Minstrels (local) had a big house 15, for the benefit of St. Luke's Hospital. The performance was one of the best the boys have yet given and it took well with the audience.

HILL TOP CASINO AND PAVILION had its opening afternoon of 11. There was only a fair crowd, but at night a big audience was present. Business fell off, however, through the week. There is a boycott on the place by the labor union, and that hurts business. "Uncle Tom's Cabin," with specialties introduced, was the attraction for the week. For week of 18 the bill is: Newhouse and Woodworth, Alex. B. Butler, Laneve la and Aldo, Billy Hepford, Two Pucks, G. L. Magesty, and Roltair and Ashley. On the Casino floor for the week are: Nellie Young, Silver Venus; Cassabaun, human anvil; Private Nelson, veteran of San Juan Hill, and Mlle. Rubee, 2,000 years old. The Cherry Sisters will be the attraction for 25 and week.

PARLOR THEATRE.—Business continues excellent and the shows presented are giving the best of satisfaction. The people for week of 19 are: The Blackford Bros., musical mokes; Adraine, dancer; Kehoe and Raines, Sadie Manning, Ed. Veith, Rose V. Wentworth, Scott and Howard, Edith Maretta, Mayme Smith, Wm. J. Wells and the stock. The new farce for the week is called "The Ten Thousand Dollar Beauty."

TURNER HALL.—The Marston Dramatic Co. opened 12, for nine nights. Business was light for the week. The weather may have kept the people away, as it rained nearly all the week.

CONNECTICUT.

Hartford.—Maude Adams presented "Romeo and Juliet" at Parson's Theatre June 16, and was well received by a large audience. The local critics were divided as to the merits of the production, but all agreed that Miss Adams was out of her element. Mr. Hackett made a most decided hit as Mercutio, and Orrin Johnson, who filled the place of William Faversham as Romeo, proved to be a very capable actor, reading his lines with discretion and force. The play was excellently mounted and pleased the large audience. James J. Jeffries and vaudeville company, 15, came to top heavy business. Jeffries sparred three rounds with James Daly, of Philadelphia, for his part of the programme.

WERDEN'S PARK.—The vaudeville bill presented for week of 12 was excellent, and included Harry and Anna Ladell, Prof. Van Vraken and horse, Forrest Tempest: Alex. Wilson, ventriloquist; Annie Whitney, and Frank D. Clare's orchestra. The bill for week of 19 includes: The McGinleys, the Gerises H. P. Woodward, Kirby and Parker, and the Harpers.

THE MONTHLY DINNER of the Press Club at Sawyer's Cafe, 17, was attended by over fifty, who were entertained by the talent of last week at Werder's Park, and the Frochard Sisters, a local sister team, who were well received.

CANADA.

Toronto.—The Bijou is the only theatre in town that keeps its doors open during the warm weather. A burlesque stock company holds the boards, and is doing a fairly good business, opening with a transformation scene entitled "Beauties in the Woods." The olio includes Belle Emerson, living pictures; Edmond Corbin, Nora Williard and Jack Newman, Arthur Golden, Nora Milliard and Leon De Long, and concluding with "The Masque Ball."

HANLON'S POINT.—The Bank Concerts are putting up good programmes of music, and drawing large audiences.

NOTES.—Adam Forepaugh-Sells Bros.' Circus comes June 26.....The Empire has closed for the season, and will open up Aug. 28. In the interim the theatre will be enlarged.....Junette Perie and Pauline Elliott have taken a cottage on the Island, and will spend the Summer season here.

St. John.—At the Opera House, St. John, the Spears' Comedy Co. closed June 10, having played to fair business during the week. "Patience" (local), 12, 13, had big houses. "Town Topics" opened 14, to a good house. "O'Hooligan's Wedding" is due July 6-8. Turner's Coon Band and Orchestra, booked July 3-5, canceled. W. S. Harkins' company, booked for a return date June 26-July 1, canceled, closing the season in Halifax.

AT THE MECHANICS' INSTITUTE, June 9, the White Crook Burlesquers had a good house.

N. H. GILBERT closed with Spears' Comedy Co. 10.....Stetson's "Uncle Tom's Cabin" laid over here 13 on the way from Yarmouth to St. George, where they played 14.

Winnipeg.—Roland Reed and company delighted their audiences at the Winnipeg Theatre June 8, 9. The attendance was large and prices advanced. The house will be dark week ending 17. Blanche Walsh and Melbourne McDowell are due 22-24.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.—The Metropolitan Opera Co. played to very fair business week ending 10. The house was dark week of 12.

C. P. DAKER, manager of the Winnipeg Theatre, is at present in New York, booking attractions for the coming season.

Montreal.—The Royal caught a fair amount of business last week, June 12-17, and the show the Boston Palace Vaudeville Co. put up warranted it. The pantomine, "An Affair of Honor," and the Gardner Trio were features. Week beginning 19 the company will change its bill.....The Forepaugh-Sells Bros', big show comes to town for two days, 19, 20, exhibiting on Exhibition grounds.

Hamilton.—The Forepaugh and Sells Bros.' Circus comes June 27.....John M. Chapman, who has been touring Western Canada and the States with Clara Mathes' Comedians, closed with the company at Oshkosh, Wis., and is spending the Summer at his home in this city.

MASSACHUSETTS.—[See Page 327.]

Lowell.—At the Opera House James J. Jeffries gave an exhibition afternoon of June 16, to a fair sized house.

LAKEVIEW THEATRE.—The houses last week were fairly well filled. Booked 19, for week: International Vaudevilles, with Ward and Curran and Annie Wilmuth.

WILLOW DALE PARK.—The Bruns and Nina Vaudeville attracted good audiences last week.

Taunton.—At Sabbatia Park week of June 12, Grant & Flynn's International Vaudevilles pleased large audiences. For week of 19 "The California Minstrels will be the attraction.....J. H. La Pearl's Circus came 15, to good business..... Pawnee Bill's Wild West Show comes 24.

COLORADO.

Denver.—Week opening June 11 was a good one for all the resorts, and big business was done all around.

MANHATTAN BEACH.—Week of 11 Capt. Bethel opened this popular resort to the public with a fine stock company. The beach is under the management of Dr. Foster, who has put the grounds in elegant shape, and greatly improved the appearance. The orchestra is under the leadership of Chas. Horst, and is known as the Horst-Pinney Orchestra. The following are in the stock: Minnie Seligman, Robert Drouet, Charlotte Deane, Agnes Findlay, Isabella Gilbert, Ikez Mapleson, Emmet King, Laura Case, Albert Brown, John Findlay and Chas. S. Albee. Percy Winter is stage manager. The opening bill was "Lady Windermere's Fan," and the company was well received. Miss Seligman received quite an ovation. Manager Foster will present a strong list of plays during the season.

ELITCH GARDENS.—Lieut. Dan Godfrey's British Guards Band, 10-11, drew big crowds, and for the rest of the week "Cyrano de Bergerac," by the Bellows Stock Co. Packed houses ruled. Week of 18: "Too Much Johnson."

TABOR GRAND OPERA HOUSE.—Week of 11: Giffin Stock Co., in "The Amazon" and "The Nominee," had fair houses. This is the last week, as the company closes its season. Week of 19: Chas. Frohman's Co., in "On and Off."

CHUTES PARK.—Week of 11: Harris & Bauman are giving a great show this week. The Water Pantomime is a drawing card. The vaudeville people are: Three Racket Bros., Belle Williams, the Great Sigfried, the Leando Bros., Casmore and Florence, Chas. Morgan, W. H. Barnes' Diving Elks.

MENTION.—Gentry's Dog and Pony Show, week 12, drew crowds of people.....The Overland Trotting and Racing Association is giving a two weeks' meeting and is hanging up $40,000 in purses..... Giffin Stock Co. gives R. B. Mays and W. B. Heine, treasurer of the Tabor Grand, a benefit 16.....The American Band of Chicago, thirty pieces, began a thirty days' engagement at the City Park 11. Big business rules.

IOWA.

Council Bluffs.—At the Dohaney Theatre the season is practically over, although an occasional attraction may be seen during the Summer. John Griffith presented "The Avenger" before a fair sized audience June 11.

LAKE MANAWA PAVILION will open 18, and a strong vaudeville bill is promised. Manager Cole, of the Trocadero, in Omaha, will have charge of the amusement features.

FRANCES MCMILLEN, of the juvenile team of Stephan and McMillen, has been very ill at her home here.

Davenport.—The Hobson Theatre, the only exclusively vaudeville house in the city, will continue to run this Summer as last. There will be a change of programme each week. At present it is closed for extensive improvements. The stage will be enlarged and the size of the auditorium will be doubled.

SCHUETZEN PARK has opened for the season under the management of Otto Wickelman. Concerts and vaudeville will be the principal Summer attractions.

WATCH TOWER THEATRE will open shortly.

Burlington.—We have vaudeville under canvas on West Hill, vaudeville at Ferris Wheel Park and vaudeville at the Coliseum.....Mosely's company is doing well.....At Ferris Wheel Park good crowds assemble nightly and are pleased.....At the Coliseum the following people have given excellent satisfaction: Myra Dean, Sarbo and Marlowe, Manly and Rose, Chinese Johnny Williams, Dave Rivers, Four Princes, Jessica Duncan, Hayward and Hayward, and Elmer Jerome.....Manager Chamberlin is again at his office in New York.

Keokuk.—Hubinger Park Casino opens for the Summer season June 26 with C. Geo. Hamilton's Vaudeville Co. The executive staff of this place of amusement is: C. G. Hamilton, lessee; Jerome Fletcher, manager; Gust Anderson, treasurer, and Wm. Bucy, stage manager..... Wallace's Circus is extensively billed to exhibit here 28.

MONTANA.

Butte.—The Grand has closed for the season.

CASINO.—Minnie Robinson, Irene Van, Ada Clifton, Ed. Erb, Miss De Clairville, Stella Robson, and the drama, "Joaquin, the Outlaw," by the stock, comprising the following people: Chas. Smiley, Wm. Le Compte, Ed. Erb, Billy Snyder, J. Lonsdale, J. Hawkins, W. Rawley, D. Edson and Lulu Sutton.

CALIFORNIA MUSIC HALL.—The Four Miltons opened a four weeks' engagement June 10, and are meeting with a fine reception, Lola Milton, in character songs and dances, being especially well received. After their engagement here the Miltons open in Omaha.

GOSSIP.—The veteran manager, John Maguire, who has been living in Missoula during the past few months to escape the smoke and the rigors of a Butte Winter, was in town last week attending a directors' meeting of the Grand Opera House Co. He was re elected president and chairman of the board of directors, and while here paid off and canceled a $17,000 mortgage which has been hanging over the Grand for several years. The veteran is looking better than he has for years.....The Somers Musical Family, who closed a successful season at the California 9, will play dates in and around Butte during the Summer.

VIRGINIA.

Norfolk.—At the Auditorium Theatre people for week of June 19 are: Reid and Gilbert, Lavard Sisters, Fanchon Sisters, Olvio, Barret Bros., and Hamilton and Wiley. This house will be thoroughly equipped with electric fans and will continue open during the Summer months.

ATLANTIC GARDEN.—People who appear here week of 19 are: John Woodford, Joe Mallison, Lottie Gorman, Belle Joy, Lou Fulman, Lillie Sheahan, Bessie La Belle and Laura Woodford.

COLUMBIA PARK (Portsmouth).—The attraction at this resort for week of 19 will be a picture machine presenting the "Passion Play." Business here has been entirely satisfactory, and the management feel highly elated at the outlook.

OSCAR P. SISSON, acting for T. G. Leath, will have charge of the theatricals at Ocean View for the Summer season.

Richmond.—The two vaudeville resorts are now under full headway and both are apparently doing prosperous business.

MAINE STREET PARK.—Lawrence and Harrington head the bill for week of June 19. Others are: The Prentice Trio, Leslie and Audley Gallagher, and Barrett and Agnes Bernard.

BROAD STREET PARK.—Opening week of 19: The Goldens, Chappelle Sisters, Thompson and Carter, George C. Darling, and James and Sadie Leonard.

PENNSYLVANIA.—[See Page 327.]

Reading.—Carsonia Park is proving more attractive to the amusement loving public every day. The Boston Ladies' Military Band proved a big card to the management. The pavilion was crowded every night. For this week President John A. Rigg, of the United Traction, has another big attraction, the New York Vaudeville Stars. Among them are: Barry and Bannon, Irish comedians; McDowell and Reed, grotesques; the Sisters Revere, soubrettes; Prof. Magnell, saxaphonist; the Bowery Four, and the Mulmi Sisters, cornettists and soloists. "The New Nurse," a one act afterpiece, will be presented by the entire company.....It is probable that this city will have a roof garden. The location is said to be on the roof of the Academy of Music. Mr. Mishler is now in New York.....M. Rudy Heller, formerly of this city, is now manager of the Elite Vaudeville and Comedy Co.....Chas. H. Leyburne, proprietor of the Bon Ton Stock Co., became a Benedict last month.

NEW JERSEY

Newark.—Trilby Music Hall is the only place of amusement now open. The programme this weeks names: Whitler and Bell, Etta Chatam, Jeanette Young, Vallie Egar, Nellie Monroe and Jere Mahoney.....The Prentice Trio, of this city, are engaged this week at Athletic Park, Richmond, Va.....Geo. Neville, of the Columbia Theatre Stock, left last week for Roxbury, Mass., and Robert Neil, of the same company, has gone to Wappinger's Falls, N. Y., for the Summer.

Trenton.—At Broad Street Park the following people are billed June 19 and week: Koope, Kittie Excelia, Fred Heath, Danny and Dolly Mann, and The Carmontelle Sisters.....Manager Simonds, of Taylor's Opera House, is building a handsome residence here on one of the fashionable streets.

RULES FOR SINGING CONTESTS.

The directors of the Northeastern Saengerbund have adopted a set of rules and regulations for the government of prize contests at the nineteenth annual national saengerfest, to be held in Brooklyn Borough next year, a copy of which we herewith present. These rules will go in force six months before the beginning of the festival, and until that time can be subjected to changes or amendments. Societies who believe them to be unjust in any particular may apply to the local organization, which will then submit the proposed alteration or alterations to the board of directors.

1. The prize singing of the individual societies will take place in three classes, it being submitted to each society to choose that class in which it shall wish to sing. All prize singing societies must procure through the festival city the score and single voices of the festival songs.

2. Every society that will participate in the prize singing must send to the executive committee of the Northeastern Singing Association three months before the singing festival an accurate list of its members, as only those singers will be permitted to join in the prize singing whose names shall have been sent in time. Should a singer during these three months become a member of a different society he must then be announced by the latter.

3. A singer shall be permitted to participate but once in the prize singing by the individual societies.

4. Societies shall be entitled to participate individually in the singing festival and great choruses. They must, however, be attached to the singing association of their respective city if they wish to participate in the prize singing.

5. All the city or county associations shall participate in the prize singing in two classes, the first class consisting of confederations possessing 200 or more singers, while confederations with less than 200 singers will comprise the second class.

6. For each of the two classes a prize will be established. The bust of a renowned composer will be chosen as prize for the first class. The festival city will determine the prize for the second class.

7. The prize singing associations and individual societies must appear at the prize singing with at least three-quarters of the announced number of singers.

8. All prize singing societies must participate with at least three-quarters of the announced number of singers in all the rehearsals and concerts that take place at the singing festival. The festival board will see that this rule is strictly enforced.

9. Societies that disregard the above resolution will, under no circumstances, be considered in the prize distribution.

10. The prize singing shall consist in the first and second class of selections designed to test the highest vocal technique. A less difficult (if possible, folk song in character) will be selected for the third class.

11. The notifications for the prize singing must be made at the latest two months before the singing festival takes place.

12. (a) The musical committee of the N. E. S. B., in union with the conductors of the festival, shall select the obligatory prize songs for the (single) prize singing of the third class. (b) For the city prize singing each confederation shall select its own prize song; in character however, it must be a folk-song. For this purpose it shall be submitted to a committee of three conductors, to be selected by the festival city, whose decision shall be final. (c) Prize songs must be sent in at least six months before the singing festival is to take place. Within a month of their remittance these three committee judges shall communicate these decisions (in writing) to the respective city and county confederations.

13. Criticism of the contesting societies shall take into account the following branches: 1, intonation; 2, precision; 3, nuance; 4, phrasing; 5, pronounciation.

14. For the prize conference the following marking shall stand: 6 points, perfect; 5 points, very good; 4 points, good; 3, tolerably well; 2, satisfactory; 1, mediocre. No judge shall be permitted to give one-half or fraction of a point.

15. The society scoring the greatest number of points shall be entitled to the first prize of its class, the others following accordingly.

16. The Northeastern Singing Association shall select three judges for the prize singing. Each of them shall receive a salary of $100 and his railroad fare. All other costs are to be paid by the city of the festival, which shall be entitled to select two more judges for the prize singing, provided it pays the costs.

17. (a) The points given by all of the prize judges shall be counted as heretofore. (b) The appointment of the prize judges shall take place in the following manner: The associated committees, members of the City of New York, cities of Brooklyn, Newark, Philadelphia and Baltimore shall each select a judge and communicate this to the chairman of the committee. As soon as the gentlemen shall have made their selection the chairman shall call a meeting of the committee, in which it shall be decided whether to accept the proposed prize judges. In the name of the Northeastern Singing Association a written contract shall be signed with each one of the engaged judges. (c) After the prize singing of each class the judge shall deliver his written verdict in a sealed envelope to the confederated musical committee. When all of the prize singing shall have been concluded a conference of the judges shall take place in order that any erroneous opinion that may have been given can be corrected; only after this conference shall have taken place shall the result of the committee be considered final. The verdict of every judge must bear his signature.

18. The judges shall be bound to deliver definite decision of the results of the prize singing not later than one month after the festival. This verdict shall be presented to the musical committee of the Northeastern Singing Association. The committee shall have it printed immediately, and shall forward it to all singing societies belonging to the association.

CHANGES OF MIND.

"You are just going out, I see" —

"Yes; an important engagement. What was it you wanted?"

"It was about that little debt I owe you."

"Ah, yes; take a seat."

"I was going to ask you for a little delay" —

"Oh—excuse me, but I am already late."

"I say I was going to ask you for a little delay, when I met a fellow who paid up what he owed me, and" —

"Why on earth don't you sit down? Will you take a glass of wine?"—Figaro.

CARDS.

L. K., Louisville.—B is wrong; if the seller declines to entertain the highest bid, and pitch the trump himself, he is entitled, if successful, to score all the points he may make; but if he fails to make as many points as the highest number offered he must be set back just that number of points, and cannot score anything he may have made during the play of that hand. He does not have to make one point more than the highest bid, as you appear to think.

T. R. C., Toronto.—A and C are right; at euchre a player cannot elect to play alone after himself or an opponent has led a card.

B. R., Portland.—1. B was wrong; the cards must be cut before the deal by the player next to the right of the dealer, and by no one else. 2. If the deal has been completed, and the player next to the left of the "age" has acted, the deal holds good.

T. J. B., Du Bois.—A, having opened the pot with an insufficient hand, is penalized for so doing, his hand is dead and he is out of the game for that hand, which is played by the others, just as they would have played it had the false opening not occurred.

A. J. S., Philadelphia.—A is right in both instances.

W. L. S., Boston.—Yes; in forty-fives, spades being the trump, and ace of hearts being led, a player holding no trumps need not play a heart.

D. A. R., New York.—The party who claimed out was right; he did not need to take another trick.

J. D. L., Chicago.—Any straight flush constitutes what some persons choose to term a "royal" or "tiger" flush.

D. W. W., Little Rock.—1. A is entitled to a run of seven for the last card in 6, 3, 4, 1, 2, 7 and 5, if not being necessary that the cards forming a sequence should be played in order. 2. B. has a run of four for the last card in 3, 5, 2 and 4.

H. S. C., Hartford.—A hand of four 4's and a 7 in cribbage counts twenty-four.

BASEBALL, CRICKET, ETC.

C. J. K., Newark.—The Richmond team won the championship of the Atlantic League last season.

S. W. B., Chicago.—1. The English eleven, captained by Lord Hawke, defeated the Philadelphia team by an inning and 40 runs, Sept. 28, 29, 1894, at Philadelphia, Pa. 2. It is not the rule to take a substitute from the opposing side.

E. G. W., Newburyport.—1. Yes. Cleveland in 1895. 2. Boston, five; Baltimore, three.

BILLIARDS, POOL, ETC.

H. W., Providence.—1. There is nothing in the rules of continuous pool to cover the point at issue, but it can be decided on a common sense basis as follows: The player pocketing fourteen balls, presuming his hand is in play, must pocket, or attempt to pocket, the fifteenth, or remaining ball. A refusal to do so would warrant his opponent in claiming the game, under rules which govern different games. 2. There is nothing so absurd in any rules of billiards or pool; no player has that privilege.

AQUATIC.

C. H., Poughkeepsie.—We do not know his present whereabouts, but a letter addressed in care of THE CLIPPER will reach him. No answers by mail or wire.

RING.

CHR. G., Milwaukee.—Yes, and he fought under that name, his opponents being Bob Donnelly, at Fort Erie, in 1866, and Tom Allen, in the far West, early in the "70's." A number of years ago he reformed, and has since followed the life of an evangelist, we having last heard of him as residing in Chicago, Ill.

T. D., Rochester.—He did not. "Kid" McCoy defeated Tommy Ryan in fifteen rounds before the Empire A. C., at Maspeth, L. I., N. Y., March 2, 1896, and on Sept. 8, 1897, they fought a draw at Syracuse, N. Y., the police stopping the fight in the fifth round.

D. M. C., Cortland.—The maximum limit of middleweight has not been changed since the time it was officially fixed upon in England, for professional P. R. fights, many years ago, it being 154lb. When the parties referred to fought at New Orleans, for the middleweight championship, Bob Fitzsimmons weighed 150½lb, and Jack Dempsey but 147½lb.

P. F. H., Bridger.—John L. Sullivan won the title of champion of the United States when he defeated Paddy Ryan, in 1882, with bare knuckles, and acquired the right to call himself champion of the world when he, in the same style, defeated Jake Kilrain in Mississippi in 1889, both battles being avowedly for the titles named.

G. A. N., Brighton.—According to the measurements of the men taken by physicians a few days before the fight Jeffries' chest, expanded, measures 48in., and Fitzsimmons', 44½in.

IKEY, Rochester.—Address S. Lubin, 21 South Eighth Street, Philadelphia, Pa. See advertisement in our business columns.

F. C. C.—The exhibition of training exercises to which you allude was given by Jim Corbett at Madison Square Garden on Aug. 29, 1892, previous to his glove fight with John L. Sullivan at New Orleans.

S. L. C., Boston.—George Dixon weighed 113lb, one pound over the featherweight limit, when he went to scale for his fight with Nunc Wallace, avowedly for the championship, before the Pelican Club, in London, Eng., June 27, 1890. He has never since fought at the correct featherweight limit, which is 112lb.

W. J. R., St. Joseph.—Several, at different weights, are about equally clever; as to the cleverest of all, that is a matter of opinion, and the best of judges differ.

W. B. D., Butte.—James Jeffries, the champion boxer, was born in Los Angeles, Cal.

S. J. W., Butte.—In Dublin, Ireland.

F. E., Anderson.—We have no data that would enable us to answer your query.

W. A. P., Bayonne.—B is right; simple sparring bouts do not count as fights.

O. M., New York.—George Dixon was born at Halifax, N. S., July 29, 1870.

TURF.

C. E. McL., Baltimore.—We are officially informed that there were no pictures of the Brooklyn Handicap taken by a regular artist, although there may have been "camera fiends" on hand taking snap shots for private use.

MISCELLANEOUS.

P. J., Morrison.—The steamer Paris, of the American line, which recently ran aground near Falmouth, Eng., was launched Oct. 23, 1888.

News of the Game.

The International Match Book of the games contested at Glasgow, last Spring, between England and Scotland, is at hand. It contains one hundred and eighty games, thoroughly annotated and revised. The book is gotten up by the Messrs. Bryson, of Glasgow, in their usual first class manner. .....Messrs. D. G. McKelvie and R. Holmes, both of Glasgow, are expected to contest the issue in a match at an early date. As the players are of well known ability, the result will be of considerable interest to all players.....The N. A. C.B. for June is at hand, filled with games, problems and gossip. It also contains a fine portrait of Henry Hutzler, of Cincinnati, O.; also a condensed account of his exploits at the game. If we remember rightly, Mr. Hutzler was the discoverer of the 23 to 18 loss on the Switcher.....In the Decoration Day match, between the district and city players, at Pittsburg, Pa., the former won by the score of 44 to 32, and 24 drawn games. McAteer, of The Chronicle-Telegraph, says that the district players won for the first time since the event was scheduled eight years ago. The affair passed off very pleasantly. .....J. H. Irwin, an old time Boston player, has been stopping at New London, Ct., and gave a general hustle to the players of the Nutmeg State of that locality. It is some fifteen years since we saw Mr. Irwin in New York, but we hope to record his early appearance. While on one of his trips through this city he met Jas. McEntee in the afternoon and invited him down to the Astor House, there he kept him for eighteen hours playing checkers.

☞ The agreeable compound of dash and caution here exhibited leads us to believe that Herr Cohn is less known over here than he should be; more of his work will be eagerly looked for.

(!) It must be suspected that in the rush and clangor of his onslaught Black did not fully measure his coup and its consequences. The combinations following are most interesting.

THE AUSTRALIAN CHAMPIONSHIP.—Mr. Wallace's unchessilke demands in the much proposed match with Mr. Jacobsen, demands which savor too strongly of being in chess for revenue only, have led Mr. J. to resign his championship of Australasia without a match. Mr. Jacobsen recounts briefly his chess course and victories, and quotes his own previously published statements that "he only played the match with Mr. Crane to assert his position as an Australian authority, and has neither time, inclination, nor sufficiently robust health to defend the title."....In a recent Sydney Daily Telegraph, Mr. Jacobsen continues: "On the conclusion of the match with Mr. Jonas, it was generally felt that I could not well retire without first responding to Mr. Wallace's request for a trial of strength, and accordingly I accepted a challenge from him also. It, however, transpired that Mr. Wallace was not willing to play upon the usual terms, but insisted upon inserting in the deed of rules a clause which would have interfered with the free admission of the public and have permitted the exclusion of the press. I objected on principle to what seemed an improper innovation; and, after lengthened and fruitless correspondence, the proposed match fell through in consequence. I am, therefore, now at liberty to act on my previously announced intention, and herewith take advantage of your widely read columns to inform the public that I have retired from the position of chess champion of Australasia."

LONDON CHESS.—"The late great match, Kent vs. Surry, shows plainly the increased numbers who devote their attention to the game, and the rapid strides it is making in popularity. There never were so many strong chess players in any city in the world as in London at the present time. The London amateur of today is half a class better than the strong players of ten years ago. The increase in strength, however, and the still greater increase in players, have been accompanied by a marked tendency towards uniformity of style bordering somewhat on the commonplace. There is a notable absence of that bold individuality in the treatment of openings, and that charming, albeit risky, imaginativeness in the handling of the middle game, which characterized the play of masters of the olden times."—Weekly Times and Echo.

The Great Tournament.

There is little to be said beyond noting as best as we may the "current of the beady fight," and some of these currents are not altogether pleasant spectacles. Burn, as we knew from the first, vamosed the ranch. Teichmann followed him, and there seems to be no sufficient reason why Bird, Lee, Tinsley and, we are sorry to say, Mason should not follow suit—at the close of the first round, at farthest. This would leave just competitors enough for the prizes, and would present a coterie of the very creme de la creme of the active chess masters of the day.

To be sure, this is not exactly what was expected when it was announced that only the choicest selection that the prize winning masters of the world could produce were to be admitted. But if not all, as it stands the above suggestion presents the best we can get. Now it is that all concerned feel most severely the loss of Herr Charousek. At the point of Mr. Teichman's collapse, Maroczy, Janowski, Lasker and Showalter were all ahead of Mr. Pillsbury. It is of interest to know that Showalter had a draw with Janowski and a victory over Steinitz. One of the sensations up to this point was the defeat of Lasker by Blackburne.

The relative positions have now materially changed and Lasker leads with Janowski second, Maroczy third and Pillsbury and Schlecter tied for fourth place. The scores to date:

Bird	4	9	Pillsbury	8½	4½
Cohn	8	6	Showalter	6½	7½
Janowski	9½	3½	Steinitz	6½	6½
Lasker	10	3	Teichmann	2	12
Lee	4	9	Tinsley	3	10
Maroczy	9	4	Tschigorin	7	6
Mason	5	8

In the minor tournament Marshall, the young American player, won first prize, $350, with the score of 8½ won to 2½ lost. The other six prizes, valued at $250, $150, $100, $75, $50 and $25, were captured by Marco and Physick, with 8 to 3 games each (second and third prizes); Jones and Mieses, 7½ to 3½ games each (fourth and fifth prizes), and Jackson and Smith, 5½ to 5½ games each (sixth and seventh prizes).

The scores complete were:

Marshall	8½	2½	Smith	5½	5½
Marco	8	3	Muller	5	6
Physick	8	3	Esser	4	7
Jones	7½	3½	Tabuntschikoff	3½	7½
Mieses	7½	3½	Erskine	3	8
Jackson	5½	5½	Klimsch	0	11

STATE CHESS ASSOCIATION.—The most important local item is the meeting of the board of managers of the N. Y. State Ch. Association on the 2d inst. It was decided to hold the midsummer outing festival for the current year, late in August, opening probably on the 28th. The anticipated triangular match, Mass., N. Y. and Pennsylvania, is settled as a fixture, each Ass'c'n to put up $50, the total to be divided into five prizes to be awarded to the five highest scorers, regardless of the Ass'c'n to which they belong. Seven hotels from various fashionable resorts have filed a bid to have the gathering on the premises, but the selection has been left to President Underhill, of Albany, and Secretary Broughton, of Brooklyn.

The College Oarsmen

Who will compete at Poughkeepsie, N. Y., on the Hudson River, for the supremacy in watermanship will be well protected while in action, as the Poughkeepsie-Highland Association, which has charge of the events, has paid particular attention to the necessity of securing a free and fair course for the races, to be rowed June 26, 27. In the endeavor to have a clear course the following rules have been formulated by the association, which have been approved by the Secretary of the Treasury:

All yachts and excursion boats will be placed in position on the line established, on the day of the regatta, in the order of arrival and application, and small yachts and boats will be placed in front of larger craft.

All yachts or other craft desiring to view the regatta must be in position and anchored at least thirty minutes prior to the signal for starting.

No vessel will be allowed to anchor to the westward of police line established.

No vessels or boats will be allowed to make fast to the judges' boat at the finish line, and no person will be allowed on board the judges' boat other than such as are especially invited.

No yachts or other craft will be allowed on the course thirty minutes previous to starting of the race.

All vessels proceeding up or down the river will be required to keep close to the east bank and run at slow speed during the progress of the race.

No steam yachts or other craft will be permitted to follow the race ahead of or on a line with the boat containing the referee.

The policing of the course will be in charge of and directed by an officer detailed by the Secretary of the Treasury for that duty.

Capt. Louis N. Stodder, of the revenue cutter Manhattan, will have entire charge of the course during the regatta, and all owners of yachts and other vessels desiring anchorage from which to view the contest must apply to him upon their arrival at Poughkeepsie.

The Dominion Wins.

Races for the special trophy donated by Commodore Ross, of the Royal St. Lawrence Yacht Club, were last week continued at Lake St. Louis, near Montreal, Can., the result being a decisive victory for the Canadian boat, Dominion, winner of last season's Seawanhaka-Corinthian special half rater trophy, over Yankee, the boat representing the St. Paul (Minn.) White Bear Yacht Club. The first race, sailed June 12, resulted in favor of the Canadian, as reported in our last issue. The second of the series resulted unsatisfactorily, as the Canuck craft met with an accident during the first round of the course, her mainmast snapping in the centre; Yankee finished alone and was declared the winner. The third race, sailed 14, brought victory to the Canadian candidate, the elapsed times being: Dominion, 1h. 59m. 29s.; Yankee, 2h. 2m. 8s. The race was Dominion's from start to finish. The fourth and deciding contest, sailed 15, was won by Dominion, in 2h. 34m. 43s., Yankee finishing in 2h. 37m. 11s., elapsed time. There was little doubt as to the final outcome from the sailing of the first leg.

GEORGE TOWNS, champion oarsman of England, on June 3 met with an accident while rowing on the Thames which will probably prevent him getting into a boat for some months to come. Towns and Mr. Howell were sculling against tide up the Surrey shore when the Colonial was cut down by a chock four oared crew who were on the tide and right out of their proper course. The impact was so great that Towns had two ribs broken and his boat was smashed to pieces. The champion was taken ashore and carried up to the Thames Boat House by Mr. Howell. Medical assistance was immediately summoned, and after the immediate wants of Towns had been attended to he was orded to be removed to St. George's Hospital.

THE ARGONAUT ROWING CLUB'S Henley contingent left Toronto, Can., June 13, and sailed for England from this port 15. Their chief object in making the trip is to compete for the Grand Challenge Cup for senior eights. The crew: G. H. Muntz, stroke, 154lb; F. H. Thompson, 172lb; E. A. Thompson, 180lb; A. J. Boyd, 177lb; Joseph Wright, 184lb; H. G. Kingston, 167lb; D. R. Mackenzie, 166lb; R. G. Muntz, bow, 152lb; R. K. Barker, coxswain, 121lb. They send three entries for the Diamond Sculls, C. A. E. Goldman, W. M. Bright and Bush Thompson.

J. H. DERBYSHIRE, holder, in winning the race for the Northern counties Amateur swimming championship, at one hundred and fifty yards, at the Barslem Baths, Eng., on June 8, created a fresh record for the distance, which he swam in 1m. 38⅘s. He beat his club mate, W. H. Lister, home by a yard and a half, with Kays three yards away.

The Schuylkill Navy Regatta.

An annual fixture of much interest to Quaker City watermen was held Saturday afternoon, June 17, on the Schuylkill River, at Philadelphia, Pa., a large crowd of spectators lining the course during the continuance of the struggles for supremacy in the eight events. The race between the junior eights, won by the Pennsylvania Barge Club, was the most interesting contest of the list. Summary:

Pair oared shells.—Won by G. Loeffler (bow), W. Carr (stroke), Vesper Boat Club; H. G. Scott (bow), John O. Exley (stroke), Pennsylvania Barge Club, quit. Time, 9m. 53⅗s.

Junior four oared gigs.—Won by Pennsylvania Barge Club; A. C. McCloskey (bow), Guy Grover, Joseph Dempsey, M. Reugenberg (stroke), George Klages (coxswain), 8m. 58⅗s. Second, Vesper Boat Club; Joseph Shane (bow), C. P. Haggerty Jr., Frank Madden, William Wark (stroke), J. B. Love (coxswain). Third, Crescent Boat Club; Charles Morris (bow), Charles Heiwig, F. E. Highley, H. C. Bruner (stroke), Philip Maas (coxswain). Fourth, Bachelors' Barge Club; I. D. Blackwood (bow), E. C. Leedom, W. G. Gribbell, P. C. Corket (stroke), P. Forderer (coxswain). Fifth, University Barge Club; S. D. Sinkley (bow), Henry Winsor, Allan J. Henry, W. Innes Forbes (stroke), W. W. McCall (coxswain).

Senior four oared shells.—Won by Pennsylvania Barge Club; Hugh Monaghan (bow), J. O. Exley, Henri G. Scott, James Dempsey (stroke), in about 8m. 24s., the race having been stopped, owing to a foul, and then started over again. Second, Bachelors' Barge Club; G. H. Smith (bow), B. Bloch, R. R. Zane, James Bond, Jr., (stroke); Vesper Boat Club crew disqualified for fouling Bachelors'; H. DeBaecke (bow), W. Foelker, J. McClanaghan, N. Clanaghan (stroke).

Junior double shells.—Won by Vesper Boat Club; W. Wark (bow), R. Harlfinger (stroke), 9m. 19s. Second, Bachelor's Barge Club; S. H. Colliom (bow), F. A. Donaldson Jr. (stroke), 9m. 24s. Third, Quaker City Barge Club; C. W. Young Jr. (bow), F. W. Sadler (stroke). Malta Boat Club Crew—G. F. Haertrich Jr. (bow), J. M. Root Jr. (stroke)—upset.

Junior eight oared shells.—Won by Pennsylvania Barge Club—Roy Grover (bow), Guy Grover, J. L. Young, J. P. Wall, A. C. McCloskey, A. Woodward, Joseph Dempsey, M. Reugenberg (stroke), George Klages (coxswain) in 8m. 18s. Second, Vesper Boat Club; Joseph Shane (bow), C. P. Haggarty Jr., F. Madden, H. Teaf, F. Hanlon Jr., F. Stehle, W. Barr, R. W. King (stroke), J. B. Love (coxswain in 8m. 26s. Third, Malta Boat Club; Warren R. Abell (bow), Harry Kollock, J. Russell Young, Thomas James, Geo. Wohensmith, Walter Neall, Herbert Fullerton, John Rittmar (stroke), Eugene Raymond (coxswain).

THE UNIVERSITY OF WISCONSIN will not send its freshmen crew to Poughkeepsie, N. Y., to compete in the intercollegiate races, owing to a lack of funds to defray the expenses.

MAJOR LEAGUE.

The Bostons' winning streak was broken on June 13, when they again tackled the New Yorks at the Polo Grounds. The locals could not do much in the way of collecting base hits, but what they did gather they put to good use. Remarkably clever base running by Doyle and a weird and fantastic throw by Herman Long were prominent features of New York's victory. The circumstances leading up to Long's extraordinary throw were these: In the seventh inning Seymour forced Hartman at second, making the second out. Tiernan followed with a safe hit, sending Seymour to second. Seymour took quite a lead off second to draw a throw from Catcher Bergen, the latter accepted the defy and threw to Long. Seymour, who is very fleet of foot, scooted for third base. Long didn't have a ghost of a show to head him off, but he threw the ball anyhow, and it sailed far over Collins' head, and continued on its flight until it landed back of the grand stand. Seymour scored, although he did a tumbling act at third base before doing so. Tiernan also tallied, running all the way around home from first base on the throw. Doyle's great piece of base running came in the sixth inning. After Wilson had flied out Van Haltren was sent to first on four balls. Doyle singled, advancing Van Haltren to third base; Doyle stole second. Then Gleason hit toward right field, and Tenney got the ball and threw to Lewis, who covered first base. Van Haltren easily scored from third, but it never occurred to Lewis that Doyle would also attempt to score on the play and before he realized that Doyle would even try to do so the latter had accomplished the feat. These two things gave New York three runs and virtually a victory. In fielding there was little choice between the two teams, each being credited with four fielding errors. The Bostons made eight safe hits, including a double bagger by Tenney, off Seymour, who gave only one base on balls, made a balk and struck out five men. Lewis held the New Yorks down to six safe hits, including a two baser by Gleason. He gave three bases on balls, hit another batsman with a pitched ball and struck out two men. The visiting team was somewhat weakened by the absence of Lowe, Stafford taking his place at second base and Pitcher Hickman

The inning seemed like a plain case of being taken by surprise. Up to that point it looked as if the locals would certainly be defeated unless something unusual happened, and that is really what transpired. The Brooklyn cohorts didn't play up to their standard. The error column is a good illustration of how far they departed from the form they showed during their games at home with the Western teams. On the other hand, the Baltimores showed marked improvement over some of their earlier efforts seen at home. Not a fielding error marred their work in that respect, while the visitors had three errors charged to them, and all three were bunched in the seventh inning, just when the locals were hitting the ball for keeps. McGinnity was in fine form and allowed the Brooklyns only six safe hits, including double baggers by Kelley and McGann, gave three bases on balls, hit two other batsmen with pitched balls and struck out two men. Baltimore made sixteen safe hits, including double baggers by Sheckard and Robinson, off McJames, who gave four bases on balls and made a wild pitch. McGraw's batting and fielding were features. Time of games, 2h. 5m. The score:

The second game was one postponed by rain the day before, and it proved to be the hottest and best contested of the two. The locals took a lead early in the game, and it looked as if they were going to make it two straight victories, but the Brooklyns didn't seem to see it in that light, and, after a hard uphill fight, they managed to score what proved the winning run in the eighth inning. Hughes and Kitson were the opposing pitchers in this contest, and while both were touched up in a pretty lively manner, Hughes was very effective after the third inning. In fact, that was the only one in which the home team could do anything with his delivery. In that inning they made things pretty lively for him. They tried it again in the fourth, when they had three men on the bases and only one hand out. Hughes, however, pulled himself together and quickly disposed of the next two batsmen on popped up flies. Kitson had a similar condition to face in the fifth inning, and he, too, proved himself equal to the emergency. To a certain extent it was a pitcher's battle. While both were freely batted, each had to use considerable discretion to prevent runs being piled up against him, and in this respect each worked himself out of several tight places. Brooklyn made twelve safe hits, including a triple bagger by Anderson, off Kitson, who gave two bases on balls, made a wild pitch and struck out one man. The home team batted Hughes safely eleven times, including triple baggers by Sheckard and Keister. He gave four bases on balls and struck out three men. Each team was charged with making three fielding errors. Time of game, 2h. The score:

These teams played a double header on June 13, at Washington, D. C., but the locals were not as fortunate as were the Baltimores, inasmuch as they lost both games to the Philadelphias. The opening contest, which was the one regularly scheduled for that day, proved a perfect blizzard of base hits, and it required four pitchers before the end came. The home team made the most safe hits and the most damaging fielding errors, and consequently lost, the combination proving too much for them. Weyhing started in to pitch for Washington, but he proved such a good thing for the visitors, and was so freely batted, that he was replaced by Dineen in the sixth inning, and, while the latter did much better work in the pitcher's position, he, too, was touched up quite lively. Donahue, who began pitching for the Philadelphias, fared just as badly as did Weyhing, and, he, too, received his walking orders. He was replaced by Bernhardt, who also came in for quite a lacing. The Washingtons made fifteen safe hits, including a two baser by Bonner, off the Philadelphia's two pitchers. Donahue gave three bases on balls and hit another batsman with a pitched ball. Berhardt gave one base on balls. The Phillies gathered twelve safe hits, including a home run and a triple bagger by Delehanty, a triple by Lauder and a two baser by Cooley, off Washington's twain. Weyhing gave one base on balls and struck out one man. Dineen gave two bases on balls, hit two other batsmen with pitched balls, made a wild pitch and struck out two men. Washington made three fielding errors and Philadelphia two. Time of game, 2h. 20m. The score:

The second game was one which had been postponed by rain on the day before, and it was a battle royal between Pitchers Mercer and Piatt, in which the latter carried off all honors. Although beaten, Mercer has little to be ashamed of, for he pitched a great game, and had his team done any batting might have won. They did not bat, and the Phillies did, or at least made enough safe hits to win. Piatt was certainly in excellent form, and was so effective that the locals could make only three safe hits, including a two baser by Cassidy, off his delivery. He gave two bases on balls and struck out three men. The Philadelphias made eight safe hits, including a double bagger by Childs, off Mercer, but he kept them so well scattered that they yielded only two runs. Mercer had excellent command, and gave no side dishes, such as bases on balls, etc. The weather was oppressively hot, and seriously affected the players. The Phillies made a run in the first inning on Delehanty's single and Child's double. The other run was made in the fifth inning. Piatt singled, Cooley's attempted sacrifice rolled safely, as did Thomas' similar effort. This brought up Delehanty. The best he could do was a grounder to Padden, on which a double play was made, but Piatt scored. Each team was charged with two fielding errors. Time of game, 2h. The score:

Louisville vs. St. Louis.

The St. Louis team visited Louisville, Ky., June 14, and defeated the locals in a game limited to six innings, on account of a severe rain storm. Both Powell, of the visitors, and Phillipe, for the home team, pitched good ball, but the former proved the more effective at critical moments. While the seventh inning was being played a terrific wind and rain storm came up and stopped the game. A portion of the roof of the grand stand was blown off, but fortunately no one was hurt. The damage will not reach over $100. Threatening weather kept the attendance down, and probably accounts for no fatalities. The game was well contested while it lasted, but there were really no exciting features. Only one fielding error was made, and that fell to the lot of the home team. St. Louis made only five safe hits, including double baggers by Heidrick and McKean, off Phillipe, who gave three bases on balls and struck out two men. Louisville carroled six safe hits, including double baggers by Clarke and Wagner, off Powell, who gave three bases on balls and struck out one man. Time of game, 1h. 30m. The score:

Timely batting and superior fielding helped St. Louis to another victory on June 15, although outbatted by the home team. The locals could not hit the ball at the right time, but they did bunch their errors to perfection. They made only four, but they were just as costly as though they had made a dozen of them. The visitors put up a better all around game, being charged with only one fielding error, and while they did not make a surfeit of safe hits, they bunched what they did make and profited by the home team's errors. The victory helped the St. Louis team to move up several points in the major league percentage table. Wallace put up a fine game for St, Louis, accepting all of eleven chances at short. His fielding and a home run drive were features. Dowling allowed the visitors only six safe hits, including the home run by Wallace and a triple bagger by Stenzel, gave one base on balls, made a wild pitch and struck out two men. Louisville made nine safe hits, including a triple bagger by Wagner, off Sudhoff, who gave two bases on balls and struck out one man. Time of game, 1h. 47m. The score:

The Louisvilles gave their friends an agreeable surprise on June 16, when they succeeded in reversing the above result by a grand uphill fight, and a great rally at the bat in the ninth inning. With the score standing twelve to six in favor of the visitors the locals went at Young for keeps and hammered out six runs evening matters up. This made an extra inning necessary, and after St. Louis had been quickly disposed of without a run the home team went to the bat. The excitement was intense, but it cooled down some after two men had been retired. Then followed a single by Wagner, a steal and a wild throw by Second Baseman Childs, of the visitors, which let in the winning run. The batting of Wagner and the fielding of Second Baseman Ritchey of the home team were features. The former made five safe hits and the latter accepted all of eleven chances. St. Louis made sixteen safe hits, including triple baggers by Childs and O'Connor and doubles by Cross and Blake, off Cunningham, who gave two bases on balls, made a balk and struck out two men. The Louisvilles batted Young safely seventeen times, including a two baser by Wills. He gave two bases on balls and struck out four men. Each team was charged with making five fielding errors. Time of game, 2h. 34m. The score:

The final game of the present series between these teams, played June 17, was won by St. Louis with ridiculous ease. For two innings Louisville made it exceedingly interesting for the visitors, but in the third the latter developed a mania for runs, and before they could be headed off had gathered half a dozen. After that they were held in restraint until the eighth inning, when they added another run to their list. Zimmer, for so many years with Cleveland, caught for the home team, and made two safe hits. St. Louis outplayed the locals at every stage and put up a faultless fielding game, while Louisville had three errors charged to its credit. Beyers, the home team's latest acquisition for short stop honors, was given an opportunity to show what he could do in that line, but he did not come up to expectations. Powell, of the Mound City team, pitched a great game, allowing the locals only six safe hits, including a two baser by Zimmer, gave two bases on balls and struck out three men. St. Louis made ten safe hits, including a triple bagger by Heidrick, off Phillipe, who gave three bases on balls, hit another batsman with a pitched ball and struck out one man. The fielding of Wallace, third baseman of the visiting team, was a feature. Time of game, 2h. 10m. The score:

Washington vs. Baltimore.

The Washingtons proved the easiest kind of a snap to the Baltimores on June 14, at Washington, D. C., in a slow, tiresome game, the visitors batting hard and consecutively both pitchers presented by the home team. Nops, who pitched for Baltimore, was also touched up quite lively, but the locals were unable to connect at opportune moments. Dineen started in to pitch for Washington, and for four innings did exceedingly well; but began to show signs of weakening in the fifth, and grew worse in the sixth, when he was sent to the bench and replaced by Baker. The visitors didn't appear to notice the change, for they kept up their good work with the bat in the seventh inning. After that Baker did much better, but as the visitors had more than enough runs to win, they didn't seem to care much. Baltimore made eleven safe hits, including a triple bagger by Crisham and a two baser by Sheckard, off Dineen and Baker. Dineen gave one base on balls, made two wild pitches, and struck out one man. Baker hit a batsman with a pitched ball. Washington batted Nops safely nine times, including a triple bagger by Barry. He gave three bases on balls, hit another batsman with a pitched ball, and struck out one man. Washington made two fielding errors, and Baltimore one. Time of game, 2h. The score:

The Baltimores again won on June 15, when the scene of action was shifted to Baltimore, Md. The Baltimores won in a long drawn out, one sided and uninteresting contest. The locals found Weyhing to their liking, and batted him almost at will. In the sixth inning he was replaced by McFarlan, who did very well for the short time he was in the game. Howell pitched for the home team, and, although quite freely batted, kept the hits so well scattered that many of them went for naught. Cassidy, of the visitors, led in batting, making four safe hits Washington made eleven safe hits, including a two baser by Cassidy, off Howell, who gave one base on balls, hit two other batsmen with pitched balls and struck out two men. Baltimore batted Washington's two pitchers safely twelve times, including doubles by Brodie (twice), Keister and O'Brien. Weyhing gave two bases on balls, hit a batsman with a pitched ball and struck out three men. McFarlan gave one base on balls and struck out two men. Each team made only one fielding error. Time of game, 2h. 10m. The score:

By again winning on June 16, when the scene of action was shifted back to Washington, the Baltimores drew up a little nearer to the Bostons in the percentage table. Boston's defeat by the Philadelphias also aided the Baltimores. The visitors outbatted the locals almost two to one, but many of the formers' hits went for naught through the sharp fielding of the home team. Washington made only two fielding errors, against five charged to the Baltimores. Lack of coaching in the second inning caused a collision between Barry and Slagle, two outfielders of the home team, that let in two runs for the visitors and helped them in winning the game. McGinnity was not batted so often as was Mercer, but the home team made most of their hits off him count. Washington batted McGinnity safely eight times, including doubles by Cassidy and Mercer. He gave one base on balls, hit another batsman with a pitched ball and struck out two men. Baltimore made fourteen safe hits, including double baggers by Sheckard and Keister, off Mercer, who gave two bases on balls and struck out three men. Time of game, 1h. 55m. The score:

Boston vs. Philadelphia.

The Philadelphias went to Boston, Mass., June 15, encountered the major league champions, and came out second best. Rain limited the contest to five and a half innings, but that was long enough for the Bostons to show their superiority over the visitors. It was thought that the Phillies had brought the weather with them. If they did they didn't spring it at the right time to avert a defeat. Had they opened the flood gates at the end of the fourth inning it would have ended the affair, and there would have been no game to record. When the game started the sky looked as though rain might fall at any moment. As the game progressed the weather became more threatening, and after the Phillies had completed their half of the sixth inning there was every indication of just such a thunder storm as caused the panic at the Philadelphia grounds several years ago. You could hardly see your hand before you, and to add to the discomfort the lightning began to play pranks and the rain to fall heavily. The game was called, and everyone beat a hasty retreat for shelter. The Philadelphias made seven safe hits, including a triple bagger by Cross, off Willis, who gave two bases on balls and struck out five men. Boston batted Fifield safely eight times, and he gave two bases on balls. Boston won by bunching its hits, especially in the fifth inning. Each team made two fielding errors. Time of game, 1h. 23m. The score:

The Philadelphias succeeded in reversing the above result on June 16, by timely batting, aided by wretched fielding on the part of Herman Long, short stop of the home team. Undoubtedly Long's errors lost the game for the locals. It was tame for five innings, but interesting features developed in the remaining four, when the Bostons began to make some runs, and in the final inning came within one run of tieing the score. The Phillies backed their pitcher to perfection, and to this fact was due in part their victory. Frazer pitched very effectively for five innings, the Bostons getting only two safe hits in that time. They could not get a man as far as second base, and, in fact, only sixteen men went up to bat in the five innings. In the last four innings the champions batted rather freely, and it looked as if they might win out in the ninth.

E. G. BARROW.

Among the heads of all the baseball organizations, probably there is no more popular man than the young and athletic president of the Atlantic League, Edward G. Barrow. Mr. Barrow thoroughly understands the business, and is as familiar with all the departments of the game as any magnate connected with it. He came by his knowledge through the regular channels, by beginning as an amateur, and obtained such practical ideas that they have been of great service to him in late years. The Atlantic League is indeed fortunate in being able to command the services of such an able and thoroughly capable business man as Mr. Barrow. He is genial ity itself, and a great favorite with every one who has come in contact with him. He deserves a great deal of credit for the remarkable success that the Atlantic League has attained. He was born May 10, 1867, at Springfield, Ill., but shortly afterwards his parents took up a residence at Des Moines, Ia., where the subject of this sketch resided until after he had reached his majority. It was while attending school at Des Moines that he learned to play ball, and he soon became so proficient that he was looked upon as one of the best amateurs in that vicinity. He never played ball professionally, but made an enviable reputation for himself as manager and first baseman of the noted Clipper team, champions of the City League of Des Moines, of which Fred Clarke, captain and manager of the Louisvilles; "Ducky" Holmes, of the Baltimores, and Herman McFarland and others were members. Mr. Barrow afterwards managed the Y. M. C. A. team, of the same league, and met with great success in both undertakings. In August, 1889, Mr. Barrow, after reading the late Horace Greeley's advice to young men, "To go West," thought he would reverse that idea once, and, "just for luck," started East, and he has never regretted his move. His first jumping off place was at Pittsburg, Pa., and he liked that city so well that he settled down and engaged in the hotel and theatrical business, afterward he became treasurer of the Duquesne Theatre, retaining that position until early in the year 1894, when he took a prominent part in the organization of the Inter-State League, and, in connection with A. C. Buckenberger, obtained the franchise for a club at Wheeling, W. Va. His team won the pennant that year, and the following season captured the championship of the Iron and Oil League. The Atlantic League was organized at a meeting held in this city, Dec. 18, 1895, with Samuel N. Crane as president. In 1896, Mr. Barrow was manager and part owner of the Paterson Club, of the Atlantic League, which finished the season a close second, and finally won the Soby Cup. That season Mr. Barrow brought to the front several players who have since made big reputations in the major league. Among them are Hans Wagner, of Louisville, and J. E. Heidrick, of the St. Louis team. At the annual meeting held in the Fall of 1896, he was elected to the triple office of president, secretary and treasurer, and at the annual meeting held in the Fall of 1898 he was re-elected for a term of three years, which is a fitting acknowledgement that his services have been duly appreciated by the club owners. Ever since he was elected to the presidency of the Atlantic League his efforts in every detail have been to make the organization a success, and what he has thus far accomplished leaves no question of doubt on that subject. Mr. Barrow is also part owner of the Bijou Theatre at Richmond, Va., in connection with Jacob Wells, manager of the Richmond team.

Nichols pitched a good game, and the visitors were entitled to not more than one run, with some doubts about that. The Philadelphias made eight safe hits, including a home run by Delehanty, and a triple bagger by Cooley, off Nichols, who gave three bases on balls and struck out three men. Boston batted Frazer safely eight times, including triple baggers by Tenney and Collins, and he gave three bases on balls. Boston was charged with five fielding errors, four of which were made by Long. Time of game, 1h. 52m. The score:

The Philadelphias gave the champions another backset on June 17. Boston was the favorite among the betting coterie who gather on the home grounds at every game, but the locals, the far away favorites, were in the rear when the end came. Manager Selee's bunch of pitchers have not been performing well of late, and he was undecided as to which one he should select for this occasion. Finally he sent Lewis to the post, but the latter was as wild as an untamed bronco. While the Quakers did not get in so many hits, they made up in quality what they lacked in quantity. The Phillies made eight safe hits, including a homer by Delehanty and a double and a triple by Lajoie, off Lewis, who gave four bases on balls, hit another batsman with a pitched ball, made a wild pitch and struck out two men. Orth allowed the Bostons seven safe hits, including a triple bagger by Lowe and a two baser by Lewis, and gave three bases on balls. The batting of Lajoie and Delehanty was a feature; they made five of the six runs credited to the visitors. Philadelphia made only one fielding error and Boston made two. Time of game, 1h. 47m. The score:

There was blood on the moon when these teams met June 14, at Chicago, Ill., and it required ten innings before the home team would acknowledge that they were beaten. It was a pitcher's battle from start to finish, and for seven innings nothing but cyphers were chalked up to the credit of each team. Phillips and Taylor were the opposing pitchers, and both men did great work, with the honors slightly in favor of the former, and as a result the visitors managed to win out in the tenth. The Chicagos were the first to break the long string of cyphers by making a run in the eighth inning. The visitors tied the score in the ninth, and then scored the winning run in the tenth. The fielding on both sides was poor, and the game was virtually won by Cincinnati through two passed balls by Catcher Chance. Phillips allowed the home team only four safe hits, gave three bases on balls and struck out one man. Cincinnati made six safe hits off Taylor, who gave two bases on balls and struck out five men. Corcoran did the best fielding for the visitors and Ryan and Lange for the home team. Cincinnati made three fielding errors and Chicago two. Time of game, 1h. 40m. The score:

The Chicagos succeeded in reversing the above result on June 15, by bunching seven of the hits made by them in three innings, and, aided by Breitenstein's wild pitching, easily scored runs enough to win. Callahan was batted more freely than was Breitenstein, but the former was more effective at critical stages, except in the eight inning, when the visitors gathered enough hits to send in three runs. That was the only inning in which the Cincinnatis could bunch their hits to any extent. De Montreville played a great game at short for the home team, accepting all of twelve chances, and some of them were of the sensational order. Cincinnati made eleven safe hits, including double baggers by Corcoran and Steinfeldt, off Callahan, who gave one base on balls and hit another batsman with a pitched ball. Chicago collected eight safe hits, including a two baser by Lange, off Breitenstein, who gave four bases on balls and struck out six men. Steinfeldt and Irwin did the best fielding for the visitors. Each team was charged with making one fielding error. Time of game, 2h. The score:

Probably it would be impossible for the Cincinnatis to put up a worse exhibition of ball playing than they did on June 17, in the final game of the present series with the Chicagos. Weak at the bat and deplorable in their fielding, an amateur team could hardly have done much worse than did Cincinnati on this occasion. If they have any poorer exhibitions in reserve then they had better keep them out of sight, for this one was bad enough to last them the rest of the season. Phillips started in to pitch for the visitors, but gave way to Damman after the sixth inning. Both were freely batted. Griffith pitched great ball for Chicago, allowing the Cincinnatis only five safe hits, gave three bases on balls and struck out five men. Chicago made seventeen safe hits, including double baggers by Green and McCormick, off the two visiting pitchers. Phillips gave five bases on balls and struck out one man. Damman made a balk and struck out one man. The Cincinnatis had seven fielding errors chalked up against them and Chicago had two. Time of game, 2h. 5m. The score:

Cleveland vs. Pittsburg.

The Clevelands went down before the Pittsburgs on June 13, at Cleveland, O., as easily as a cyclone wipes the houses off a Western prairie. Although beaten for the thirty-seventh time this season, the Clevelands are still in the ring. They came up smiling after each knock down with the patience of Job, and wearing a benignant smile, as if saying, "We are ready for another one of the same kind." Pittsburg won this game by better all around work. They bunched enough hits at the start to take a good lead, and made their hits afterwards when needed to send in runs, and while they made only a single run at a time after the first inning, they made enough of them to win with ease and some to spare. Their batting was not the only good thing about the work done by the visitors, as their fielding was faultless. The Clevelands, too, did great execution at the bat, but their hits were so scattered that many of them went for naught, and their fielding was good, except that of Lockhead and Tucker, who made seven fielding errors. Pittsburg made fifteen safe hits off Knepper, who gave six bases on balls and struck out one man. Cleveland batted Rhines safely fourteen times, including a home run by Quinn and a two baser by Schreckengost. He gave two bases on balls and struck out one man. With anything like proper support Knepper might possibly have won. Time of game, 2h. 5m. The score:

The Pittsburgs again defeated the Clevelands on June 14, but the result came far easier to the visitors than did that of the preceding day. The error column fails to show the stupid work that marked considerable of the playing in the game. However, the local team's most pronounced weakness was at the bat. Tannehill, who pitched for the visitors, had the Clevelands completely at his mercy, and with a little effort on his part might have shut them out without a run. Cleveland tried out two pitchers, and both aided considerably in fattening the averages of the Pittsburg batsmen. Maupin started the ball rolling and continued it until the fifth inning, when he gave way to Bates, and the latter was as "dead easy" as was his predecessor. Every man on the visiting team made at least one safe hit, while McCarthy and McCreery led, each having three. Pittsburg made sixteen safe hits, including triple baggers by Madison and Bowerman and doubles by McCarthy and Tannehill, off the local pair of twirlers. Maupin gave one base on balls and struck out one man. Bates contributed two bases on balls. Tannehill allowed the Clevelands only six safe hits, including a two baser by Tucker, gave three bases on balls, hit another batsman with a pitched ball and struck out one man. Each team was charged with making one fielding error. Time of game, 1h. 40m. The score:

The Clevelands treated all hands to a surprise on June 15, when they won the final game of the present series from the Pittsburgs. The locals put up a faultless fielding game, and their batting was very opportune. The visitors made only two fielding errors, but they proved costly, as they greatly aided the home team in gaining a victory. Hill pitched a good game for Cleveland, and kept the Pittsburgs' hits so well scattered that they yielded only two runs. Quinn, at second for the home team, fielded finely, accepting all of ten chances. His batting was also good, he making two safe hits. Pittsburg made eight safe hits, including double baggers by McCarthy, Williams, McCreery and Schriver, off Hill, who gave two bases on balls and struck out three men. Cleveland batted Leever safely nine times. He gave two bases on balls and struck out two men. When it is noted that four double baggers were included in the eight safe hits made off Hill and only two runs scored, then it can be seen how effective he was at critical stages. Time of game, 1h. 40m. The score:

After a day's rest these teams again met on June 17, at Pittsburg, Pa., by which time both had recovered somewhat from their four days' sessions, and were in fairly good trim. They put up a very stiff fielding game, but Cleveland was weak at the bat. Jack O'Brien, who was to have relieved Madison at second base on the home team failed to arrive from Baltimore in time to go in the game, and Madison resumed his place. He batted in one run and started the hitting that brought in another. Sparks, who had been pitching effectively up to the ninth inning, became a little unsteady, gave the first man up his base on a balk, the next batsman reached first on an error and Lockhead followed with a single, tying the score. Pittsburg easily won out in its half of the ninth. McCreery singled, Clark was hit with a pitched ball and Ely singled, the latter's hit sending in the winning run. Sparks held the Clevelands down to five safe hits, gave three bases on balls, hit a batsman with a pitched ball, made a balk, a wild pitch and struck out three men. Pittsburg batted Hughey safely ten times, including double baggers by Clark and Madison. He gave two bases on balls, hit another batsman with a pitched ball and made a wild pitch. Cleveland made one fielding error and Pittsburg two. Time of game, 1h. 55m. The score:

Brooklyn vs. New York.

The first meeting of the season between the above named teams took place June 15, at Washington Park, Brooklyn, N. Y., and, although limited to five and a half innings on account of rain, resulted in an easy victory for the Brooklyns. The work of the home team was sharp, snappy and brilliant from start to finish. Their whole play was like so many pieces of machinery, all fitted together with a nicety that formed a perfect whole. New York, too, played good ball, but not up to the nigh standard of their opponents. The absence of Davis from the visiting team weakened them considerable, and while Wilson, who played short in place of Davis, made several good stops, his two misplays, the only fielding errors made in the game, proved costly. Doheny was unfortunate in being batted safely after he had either given a base on balls or hit a batsman, but that is all in the game. New York made seven safe hits, including a double bagger by Doyle, off Kennedy, who gave one base on balls and struck out three men. Doheny held the Brooklyns down to six safe hits, gave three bases on balls, hit another batsman with a pitched ball, made a wild pitch and struck out two men. There were a number of fine plays made on both sides while the contest lasted. Time of game, 1h. 20m. The score:

The second meeting between these teams was scheduled to take place June 16, at the Polo Grounds, this city, but after one inning had been completed, with the score standing 5 to 1 in favor of Brooklyn, Umpire Burns gave the game to Brooklyn by 9 to 0. It was another one of those disgraceful affairs that have taken place on several occasions this season. From the very inception it was evident that trouble was brewing, but it was not until the second inning was started that the New Yorks, who felt that they had been given the worst of it in St. Louis, where Burns had declared a game forfeited by them, cut loose vehemently at what they declared the incompetency and partiality of Burns. There were about three thousand spectators on hand. While the game was in progress many of them showed considerable impatience at what they considered Burns' poor work, but after the game had been forfeited they became angry, because they had been deprived of their afternoon's sport and because they did not get their money back. There was a demand for the return of the admission money, but the spectators, on the whole, took their disappointment with good grace and accepted rain checks, which, according to the major league provisions, shall be given out in such cases. There were others, however, who refused to accept the rain checks and demanded their money, and when this was not forthcoming threatened to sue. The game began with Casey at the bat for Brooklyn. He got his base on balls, but people behind him on the grand stand saw two of those four balls split the plate. The spectators jeered Burns for his ruling, but Casey went to first just the same, and to third as Keeler's sharp rap got past Doyle. Then Gleason made the first protest. He claimed Burns was "roasting" Seymour on balls and strikes. But the protest went unheeded. Keeley hit to Hartman, who threw him out at first, and four balls to Dahlen filled the bases in spite of another protest. Jones hit sharply to Hartman, who made a wide throw to Warner. The latter caught the ball and apparently had his foot on the home plate, but Burns declared Casey safe, instead of forced out. There was a vigorous protest over that decision, and people on the grand stand called Burns a "robber." Then Burns called four balls as McGann was at the bat, and that forced Keeler in with another run, leaving the bases still filled. Gleason again protested against Burns' calling of balls and strikes, but the protest went unheeded. Daly came along with a sharp whack along the third base line. Just as the ball neared third base it apparently went foul by about a foot, and Dahlen, who was on the base line, believing the ball was foul, returned to the base. But Captain Kelley yelled to him to go home. Umpire Burns cried "Fair!" and Dahlen, Jones and McGann scored before O'Brien got the ball, which had rolled to the open seats. Gleason ran in to Burns with a protest, Warner joined in and so did Doyle, but the umpire refused to reverse his decision and then announced that he would declare the game forfeited if play were not at once resumed. While the spectators were jeering Burns, Seymour struck out Farrell and Gleason disposed of Dunn. In the New York's half of the first inning Gleason and Warner were continually arguing with Burns over his rulings. Dunn also protested when a ball was called on him that everybody saw was a clear strike. Tiernan and Wilson were out, but Van Haltren got first on balls, took second on Doyle's rap over second, stole third and scored on Gleason's liner to left, O'Brien closing the inning with a fly to Kelley. Just before O'Brien went out Burns fined both Gleason and Warner and ordered them out of the game and off the field. They went to the bench abusing the umpire, using language that is not printable. Foster was sent to short, Colcolough to second and Wilson behind the bat. When Casey stepped up to the plate Wilson got close to the bat with Umpire Burns right behind him. As Seymour pitched the first ball Wilson stepped to one side and the ball struck Burns on the chest, doing little harm because of his protector. Burns at once turned toward the grand stand and cried out: "I declare this game forfeited to Brooklyn by a score of 9 to 0." Then he walked to the dressing room, under the grand stand, followed by the hoots and hisses of the spectators, who flocked down on the field and then beseiged the several ticket offices, where they demanded the return of their money. It was over an hour before all the people had left the ground.

Cincinnati vs. Brooklyn.

The Brooklyns made a flying visit to Cincinnati, O., June 18, just to give the home team a chance to retrive themselves for their four recent defeats at Brooklyn. While the locals made a great effort to do so, they fell short a few runs at the end. Cincinnati tried two pitchers, but neither one was very effective, judging from the shower of base hits the visitors sent flying over the field. In fact, it was not a pitcher's day, as it was necessary for Brooklyn to use two pitchers before it finally won the game. While both teams did fine batting, there was a vast difference in the playing in other respects. The Cincinnatis were guilty of stupid base running and ragged fielding, making seven errors, while the fielding of the Brooklyns was perfect and their base running of the liveliest order. Hawley, who had just been reinstated, pitched three innings for the home team, and was so freely batted that he was replaced by Hahn at the beginning of the fourth inning. Hughes, for the visitors, quit at the end of the sixth inning, and Kennedy succeeded him. Brooklyn made sixteen safe hits, including a double bagger by McGann, off Cincinnati's two pitchers. Hawley hit two batsmen with pitched balls and struck out one man. Hahn gave three bases on balls and struck out two men. Cincinnati batted the two visiting pitchers safely fifteen times, including a triple bagger by Hawley and doubles by Miller and Beckley. Hughes gave five bases on balls and struck out two men. Kennedy gave one base on balls and struck out one man. Time of game, 2h. 40m. The score:

Chicago vs. New York.

The Chicagos defeated the New Yorks June 18, at Chicago, Ill., in a close and exceedingly interesting contest that had an exciting finish. The New Yorks led up to the ninth inning, playing brilliantly behind the great pitching of Meekin. In the ninth, Meekin swerved and the game was lost. Mertes singled in the ninth inning and Lange bunted. No one was covering either second or third bases, and a double steal was attempted and accomplished. Everitt then followed with a safe hit to left field, sending in two runs for Chicago and winning the game. Meekin had a spell cast over the home team until the final inning. Base hits were as few and far between as trout in fly time. He had the speed of an Empire express train, with all the slants and benders as extras. De Montreville, of the home team, was laid off and Mertes substituted in his place. Meekin allowed the Chicagos seven safe hits, gave one base on balls and struck out four men. New York made eight safe hits off Taylor, who hit a batsman with a pitched ball and struck out two men. Each team was credited with making three fielding errors. Time of game, 1h. 50m. The score:

St. Louis vs. Washington.

The Washington's were beaten at St. Louis, Mo. June 18

Freeman, gave two bases on balls and struck out three men. St. Louis made thirteen safe drives, including a triple bagger by Childs and a two baser by Burkett, off Dineen, who gave three bases on balls, made a balk and struck out one man. The fielding of Wallace and Cross, of the local team, was a feature. Time of game, 2h. 4m. The score:

Superior all around work enabled the home team to again win on June 19. The contest was listless, and outside the batting of the locals and a home run drive by Freeman was featureless. The Washingtons made several changes in the make up of their team. First Baseman Cassidy, in the fourth inning, gave way to Mercer, but the change was hardly made before Mercer was retired and Barry substituted, the latter playing to the end of the game. Weyhing proved easy for the home team, and was freely batted throughout. Young was also touched up quite lively. Washington made nine safe hits, including a home run by Freeman and a triple bagger by McGuire, off Young, who struck out six men. St. Louis batted Weyhing safely thirteen times, including triple baggers by Burkett and O'Connor and a two baser by Young. He gave three bases on balls and hit another batsman with a pitched ball. The fielding was very good on both sides, St. Louis making only one error and Washington two. Time of game, 2h. 15m. The score:

Louisville vs. Baltimore.

It was the oft-repeated story, the Louisvilles were again beaten on June 18 at Louisville, Ky. This time it was the Baltimores who turned the trick. It was said that it was the home team's inability to bat the ball when hits were needed. The visitors experienced no such inconvenience. They took kindly to Dowling's delivery and batted it in all directions, except where a home player happened to be located. This was especially true with Keister, McGraw and Lachance, who made ten safe hits between them, the first named getting four, while each of the others made three. Louisville tried a local player named Lankswert at short, and he fielded finely, but was weak at the bat. Baltimore made fourteen safe hits off Dowling, who gave two bases on balls, hit another batsman with a pitched ball and stuck out four men. Kitson allowed the locals only five safe hits, including double baggers by Clarke and Zimmer, gave one base on balls, hit a batsman with a pitched ball and struck out two men. Baltimore fielded faultlessly, while the home team made five errors. Time of game, 2h. 11m. The score:

The unexpected happened when these teams met on June 19, when twelve innings were necessary before a result was reached, the locals winning after two men had been put out. Cunningham pitched superbly, allowing the visitors only four safe hits, two being the merest scratches. Only four safe hits in twelve innings is remarkably clever pitching. Howell, for the visitors, also did good work. Although he was freely batted he kept the hits so well apart that they netted only three runs. The winning run was made in the twelfth inning on singles by Clarke, Dexter and Wagner, the latter's hit sending in the run. Clarke played short on the home team, and did exceedingly well. His batting and fielding were features. Cunningham, beside allowing the visitors only four singles, hit a batsman with a pitched ball and struck out one man. Louisville made thirteen safe hits, including double baggers by Clarke and Zimmer, off Howell, who gave two bases on balls and struck out one man. Baltimore made only one fielding error and Louisville three. Time of game, 2h. 17m. The score:

The Pittsburgs have been dubbed "Pirates," but that title probably never fitted them better than in the game at Pittsburg, Pa., on June 19, when they robbed the New Yorks of so many apparently safe hits by their superb fielding. Their work in this respect, with Tannehill's clever pitching, proved too much for the Gothamites. It was a lively, breezy contest, and was completed in one hour and twenty-two minutes, making it the quickest played nine-inning game of the year. There was not a sign of a kick, nor an objection to a single decision. The umpiring was as good as the playing. The only fielding error was charged to New York. Three of the New York's hits came in the fifth inning, putting O'Brien, Warner and Seymour on the bases, and with two men out, everything depended on Tiernan, the next batsman up, but he was not equal to the occasion and was easily thrown out at first. That was the visitor's nearest and only semblance of a chance for scoring. New York made only five safe hits off Tannehill, who struck out three men. Seymour was batted six times, including a homer by Bowerman and a two bagger by McCarthey. He gave two bases on balls and struck out five men. Time of game, 1h. 22m. The score:

Cincinnati vs. Philadelphia.

The Cincinnatis are after the New Yorks good and hard, and it all depends upon the Philadelphias and Pittsburgs as to whether or not they will reach the Gothamites. On June 19, at Cincinnati, O., the Phillies gave the locals a good shove on their journey downward. Whether Cincinnati will ever reach the bottom of the race depends entirely upon the action of the directors in cutting down the league's circuit. The Quakers put up championship ball, warranted to win against any team. Their batting was clean, hard and consecutive, and their fielding perfect, not the least semblance of an error marred their good work in that respect. On the other hand the work of the home team was decidedly wretched. A poor imitation for a class J team. Donahue allowed the locals only five scattering singles, gave three bases on balls and hit a batsman with a pitched ball. The Philadelphias made thirteen hits, including a triple by Lajoie and doubles by Cooley, Lauder and McFarland, off Breitenstein, who gave four bases on balls and struck out one man. Cincinnati made four fielding errors. Time of game, 1h. 45m. The score:

Cleveland vs. Brooklyn.

All teams look alike to Brooklyn. It is Cincinnati one day, Cleveland the next, and still they win. After beating Cincinnati on Sunday the Brooklyns went to Cleveland, O., June 19, and walloped the locals in good shape, although the latter made a desperate effort to accomplish the unexpected. The fielding was sharp and snappy on both sides, and each team made but one fielding error. Dunn's clever pitching, backed up by excellent support, proved too much for the "Wanderers." Bates gave the best exhibition of pitching seen by him thus far this season. That is, so far as the number of safe hits were concerned, but he was unfortunate in being batted safely at opportune times. The Brooklyns found him for nine safe hits, including a two bagger by Dunn. He gave seven bases on balls, hit three other batsmen with pitched balls and made a wild pitch. Dunn held the Clevelands down to five safe hits, hit two batsmen with pitched balls, and struck out one man. Quinn and Sullivan, of the home team, carried off the fielding honors, and Jones, of Brooklyn, led in batting, with three safe hits. Time of game, 2h. The score:

Chicago vs. Boston.

The uncertainties of the game were again demonstrated on June 19, at Chicago, Ill., when these teams met for the first time this season. After Boston virtually had the game won Pitcher Willis bolted and in Chicago's last turn at the bat they made more than enough runs to win, in the seventh inning, with the score standing 7 to 4 in favor of Boston, Willis lost control of the ball and sent three men to base on balls. His wildness was followed by a triple bagger and a long fly to the outfield, netting four runs for the home team, who added two more in the eighth. Up to the seventh inning Willis had been very effective. Callahan was freely batted, but kept the hits well apart, except in the second and fifth innings, when the champions made six of the eight runs credited to them. Boston made thirteen safe hits, including a triple bagger by Stahl, off Callahan, who gave two bases on balls, hit a batsman with a pitched ball, made a balk and struck out two men. The Chicagos got eight safe drives, including a homer and a triple bagger by Green, a triple by McCormick and a double by Ryan, off Willis, who gave four bases on balls, hit two other batsmen with pitched balls and struck out one man. Chicago made six fielding errors and Boston two. Time of game 2h. 25m. The score:

James A. Hart, president of the Chicago Club, proposes a radical change in the rules governing the reservation of players by the major league clubs. His plan is to have players released at regular intervals by all clubs, so that each team could have a chance to get the good men at a reasonable price. Then there would be no monopoly of stars as there is at present, and no such state of affairs could exist as that which now makes it possible for one club to win the pennant year after year, because it cannot lose its best players through exchange or sale without its own consent. "I would have players serve one club for a regular term of years," said Mr. Hart, "and then I would so arrange matters that they could be released and be at the disposal of other organizations. Five years would be a reasonable time for a player to tread the diamond in one team. I believe this system would give more general satisfaction, especially to the public, than any other that I can think of just now."

Nearly five thousand persons went over to the Weehawken (N. J.) grounds on June 18, to see Champion James Jeffries and Referee Tim Hurst umpire the game between the West New York and Syracuse teams. The former won by 4 to 2. On June 24, the West New Yorks will have the Montreals for opponents and another rare treat is in store for the local public. Press Agent Tidden is always hunting up surprises of some kind or another.

Fourteen innings were necessary to decide the afternoon game between the Sacramento and San Francisco teams, of the California League, played June 11, at San Francisco, Cal., the former winning by 3 to 2. This was the second time this season that the Sacramentos defeated the San Franciscos in a fourteen inning contest. The first game was played on April 1, and Sacramento won by 4 to 3.

We acknowledge the receipt of one of the San Francisco Club score cards, issued by Charles S. Harris, manager. They are the most sensible ones we have ever seen, inasmuch as they contain blanks for the scoring of two games. The Eastern clubs could easily copy after their friends on the Pacific coast.

Harvard University team defeated the Holy Cross nine by 1 to 0, in ten innings, on June 17, at Cambridge, Mass. The losers made only two safe hits off Morse.

The University of Chicago team defeated the University of Pennsylvania by 9 to 3, on June 17, at Chicago, Ill. The losers made only two safe hits off Merrifield.

The final game between Princeton and Yale University teams was played June 17, at the Polo Grounds, this city, and resulted in a victory for the former by a score of 11 to 4.

The Richmond teams defeated the Newarks by 4 to 0, June 17, at Newark, N. J. The losers made only one safe hit off Pitcher Herndon.

Manager Sharsig, of the Allentown team, seems to have a "hummer" in "Joe" Delehanty. He looks something like his brother "Ed," of the Philadelphias, and bats something like him. Sharsig also has two other Delehanty boys on his team, and all need watching.

Pennsylvania Christians at Play.

The Young Men's Christian Association of Wilkesbarre, Pa., held a successful open field meeting at the organization's park on Saturday afternoon, June 17. It was the initial handicap meeting of the association since it joined the Athletic League, and its great success has given much encouragement. Summary:

One hundred yards run.—Won by C. Riley, Mauch Chunk, 1½yds.; William Ross, Wilkesbarre, 2yds., second; C. Williams, Wilkesbarre, 4yds., third. Time, 11s.

Running high jump.—Won by Frank Paine, Wilkesbarre, 3in., actual jump 5ft. 7in.; G. H. Gibbs, Scranton, 2½in., second; B. Courtright, Wilkesbarre, 3½in., third.

One mile run.—Won by J. J. Kaiser, 12yds.; T. J. Quinan, Scranton, scratch, second; W. Collins, 40yds., third. Time, 5m. 2s.

Polo in the Quaker City.

Polo week in Philadelphia, Pa., opened on Monday, June 19, with a game between the Rockaway team, of Long Island, and the Westchester Country Club team, of New York. The Westchester boys came out victorious, but it was by their handicap, for both teams earned the same number of goals and each was penalized a quarter on a safety. The difference in handicaps and in the final scores stood five in Westchester's favor. Larry Waterbury, of the Westchester, was the all-star attraction of the day. His riding was full of dash and vim, and his use of the mallet was almost a revelation to Philadelphians. Goals were made by Westchester, 8; Rockaway, 8. Goals allowed by handicap, Westchester, 5; Rockaway, 0. Goals lost by penalties, Westchester on safety, ¼; Rockaway on safety, ¼; final score, Westchester, 12¾; Rockaway, 7¾.

Wrestling in Maryland.

George Burlingame, of the Monumental City, and Jack McGee, of Canada, met in a match, catch as catch can, at Baltimore, Md., Monday evening, June 19, Burlingame winning two straight falls. The first was catch as catch can, Burlingame winning in 20m. 15s. "Burley" downed McGee with a leg hold after twelve minutes, and after eight minutes of hard work managed to turn the Canadian with a half-Nelson and pinned him with a chancery. The second fall was Græco-Roman. McGee was very weak, and the Baltimorean had no trouble in putting his opponent's shoulders to the floor.

CARL B. SPITZER, of Toledo, O., treasurer of the recently formed Intercollegiate Cross Country Association, has resigned owing to his graduation from Yale this year. He will be succeeded by J. Pinkney Adams, of the class of 1900.

Cricket.

THE ELEVENTH GAME of the Australian team's tour in England was played June 12, 13, 14, at Bradford, the visitors for the second time being opposed by the Yorkshire County eleven, with the result again undecided, the respective totals being: Yorkshire, 235 and 278; Australia, 415. The contest was declared drawn at an early hour on the afternoon of the third day, in order to allow the Australians to reach London for the second test match with an eleven representing England, which was played at Lord's, June 15, 16, 17. Cablegrams announce that the Australian eleven scored a noteworthy victory by ten wickets, the respective totals being: England, 206 and 240; Australia, 421 and 28, without the loss of a wicket. W. G. Grace, who captained the England eleven in the first test match with Australia, did not play in the game. The attendance was very large each of the three days.

THE FIRST GAME of the junior championship series was played between the Germantown and Belmont elevens, June 13, at Philadelphia, Pa., the former team winning by 137 to 79, the totals of the first inning. R. Freeland, with 37, and S. Mack, with 50, were the highest scorers for their respective elevens. The junior elevens of the Merion and Belmont Clubs played June 16, when the former team won by totals of 178 to 30 in an one inning game. H. Vetterlein and C. Milden bowled very effectively for their respective elevens, the former taking seven wickets for thirteen runs, and the latter securing eight wickets at the cost of thirty-six runs. H. Vetterlein made 34 for the Merion team.

AT A MEETING of the executive committee of the Associated Cricket Clubs of Philadelphia, Pa., held June 16, the championship games which were prevented on account of rain on the preceding Saturday were scheduled to be played July 29. The annual international match between elevens representing the United States and Canada was scheduled to be played Aug. 7, 8, at Toronto, Ont. It was announced that the committee had not yet received any official communication from Major Wardill, manager of the Australian team, in regard to the Australians visiting Philadelphia on their way home.

AN ELEVEN of the Germantown Club defeated the Belmont eleven by totals of 140 to 136, after an exciting contest, June 17, at Philadelphia, Pa. A. W. Jones, with 47, and E. M. Cregar, with 37, were the highest scorers for their respective teams. J. B. King accomplished the remarkable bowling feat of taking all ten wickets of the Germantown team at the cost of thirty-nine runs, hitting the stumps seven times. When the score stood a tie, with nine men out, a ball bowled by King got by the wicket-keeper and yielded four byes, giving the victory to the Germantown team. The next ball bowled by King finished the contest.

THREE CHAMPIONSHIP GAMES in the New York Cricket Association's series were played June 17, the most important being between the Manhattan and Brooklyn teams, at Prospect Park, Brooklyn, N. Y., the former eleven then winning by totals of 115 to 75. F. A. Cox bowled six wickets of the Brooklyn team for thirty-three runs. The Paterson Club's team A defeated the Kearny eleven at Kearny, N. J., by totals of 124 to 32. J. H. Hooper bowled six wickets of the Kearny team for eighteen runs. The Kings County St. George team defeated the Paterson Club's team B by totals of 69 to 45, at Paterson, N. J.

H. P. BAILY, bowling far the graduate eleven against the present eleven of Haverford College, June 14, at Haverford, Pa., secured six wickets at the cost of twenty-four runs, and helped his team to score an unexpected victory by totals of 152 to 143. The Haverford College eleven played ten games during the past season, of which four were won, two lost and four drawn. F. C. Sharpless led in batting and W. S. Hinchman excelled in bowling during the past season. Walter S. Hinchman has been elected captain of the college eleven for next year.

A REMARKABLE CONTEST took place June 17, at Haverford, Pa., between the second elevens of the Merion and Radnor Clubs, the former team winning by the one sided totals of 405 for eight wickets to 9. The visitors, who presented only ten men, batted first, and were quickly dismissed by A. Hines and W. H. Sayen for the meagre total of 9. J. H. Morice, who made 65, and W. De Mott, who got 57, not out, were the highest scorers for the Merion team.

P. N. LE ROY scored 90, H. T. Hembold made 70, and T. H. Dixon and H. L. Clark each got 54 of a total of 344 compiled by the Philadelphia eleven against the Germantown team in an unfinished championship contest, June 17, at Philadelphia, Pa. Le Roy and Hembold put on 88 in partnership before the ninth wicket fell. The Germantown team had made a total of 25 for the loss of two wickets at the call of time.

THE Knickerbocker Athletic Club team B had an unfinished championship contest with the Manhattan eleven June 17, at Prospect Park, Brooklyn, N. Y., the former eleven declaring their inning closed after scoring 152 for five wickets. The Manhattan team at the call of time had nine wickets down for 130, of which A. Smediey scored 47, not out.

HAROLD RICHARDSON, now one of the Surrey County eleven, is a young English amateur, who played with the Pacific Club, of San Francisco, Cal., in 1895 and 1896. On July 19, 1896, he scored 208, not out, for the Pacific eleven against the California eleven, this being the largest individual inning on record in California.

ELEVENS OF YOUNG LADIES, representing respectively the Germantown and Philadelphia Clubs, played June 12, at Philadelphia, Pa., the former team winning by a score of 61 to 24, the totals of the first inning. Miss H. Morgan, who captained the Germantown eleven, bowled six wickets at the cost of only seven runs.

D. H. ADAMS SCORED 88 and H. C. Thayer made 54, not out, of a total of 242 for seven wickets compiled by the Merion eleven against the Radnor eleven in an unfinished championship contest, June 17, at Wayne, Pa. The Radnor team at the call of time had lost four wickets for a total of 141, H. C. Hunter having scored 73.

BALLIN, bowling for the Chicago team against the Ridgeland eleven, June 10, at Chicago, Ill., took five wickets at the cost of seventeen runs. W. Whale secured six wickets of the Chicago team for thirty runs. The Chicago eleven won by totals of 100 to 80.

J. J. MORIARTY scored 61, not out, and F. Groll made 49 of a total of 140 for five wickets compiled by the Alameda eleven against the Pacific team, June 4, at Alameda, Cal. The Pacific team had a total of 101 for nine wickets when the stumps were drawn.

A. J. CASSATT, who was recently elected president of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, is the president of the Merion Club, and also holds that position at the head of the Associated Cricket Clubs of Philadelphia.

A. E. SMITH, going in first, scored 62, not out, of a total of 152 made by the New York eleven against the Manhattan team, June 16, at Prospect Park, Brooklyn, N. Y. The Manhattan team made 11 for one wicket before the stumps were drawn.

THE annual match between veteran elevens of New York City and Philadelphia is scheduled to be played Thursday, June 22, at Prospect Park, Brooklyn, N. Y.

THE CHALLENGE ROUND for the amateur tennis championship of England was contested by Eustace H. Miles and Sir Edward Grey, M. P., at the Queen's Club, London, June 3, when the five times champion, Grey, was defeated by a score of 6—4, 6—3, 6—2.

Rowing on the Charles.

The annual regatta of of the Metropolitan Amateur Rowing Association was held Saturday, June 17, over the customary course on the Charles River, at Boston, Mass. Each of the seven scheduled races were successfully contested, and all were marked by close finishes, bringing the standard of sport to an excellent point. The struggle between eight oared crews, representing the Weld Boat Club, of Harvard, and the Boston Interscholastic Rowing Association, was the event of the day. Summary:

Single sculls, novice.—Won by William Parrock, Riverside Boat Club; second, William Burrows, Wild Boat Club; third, P. J. Lyons, Millstream Boat Club. Time, 11m. 17⅗s.

Columbia's Trial Delayed.

Yachtsmen were bitterly disappointed when they learned, on Monday, June 19, that there was an enforced delay in the bringing out of the American Cup defender Columbia. The following dispatch from Bristol, R. I., explains the trouble:

It now looks as if the delay may interfere with the present intentions for the New York race and that it will have to be set for a later date than at first proposed. It is doubtful whether the proposed contest between the Columbia and the Defender will take place on the first day that the former comes out. Indeed, it is understood to be fully decided to let Columbia have her first trial by herself. The Defender's crew rested yesterday and the Navahoe kept her sails hoisted all day. Both yachts took a turn outside to-day, though the Navahoe has not yet a captain and is being sailed by Mr. Carroll. Mr. Duncan and Mr. Carroll visited each craft yesterday morning.

No work at all was done on the Columbia yesterday and it is difficult to see how she can be put in readiness to leave the harbor by Wednesday. This morning the topmast of the Columbia was sent aloft by the riggers and it was not long before the topmast rigging was connected below and set up. The topmast went up in less than half a hour. The simplicity with which the top hamper of the Columbia is arranged is remarkable. The fittings about the masthead as seen this morning at once attract attention from the fact that everything not substantially needed in the way of firmly adjusting the spars is eliminated. It is far different in this respect from the Defender. The spreaders are simply formed and are not nearly as heavy as those of the old cup champion. Only the ropes and stays that are actually necessary are in place. There is no doubt that a deal more weight is saved in the top hamper of the Columbia than in the Defender.

Small Boats Contend for Honors.

The smaller boats of the fleet of the Pavonia Yacht Club, of Jersey City, N. J., engaged in a regatta over the usual triangular course on New York Bay on Monday, June 19, which was watched by a number of club members and their guests from the club house balcony, Communipaw. Summary:

The Motors Break Down.

The motor paced race between Eddie McDuffee and "Major" Taylor that was advertised as the principal event on the programme of a race meet held at the Charles River Park track, Cambridge, Mass., on Saturday afternoon, June 17, proved a fizzle, as both machines broke down before they had gone two miles. That of McDuffee was a steam motor, while Taylor's was a tandem with a French motor attachment. Although the failure of this event proved a great disappointment to the seventeen thousand odd persons assembled, it did not detract from the interest attaching to the other contests, which afforded much enjoyment. Taylor won the first professional event, the one-third mile, open, in a splendid sprint, beating out Tom Cooper at the tape by a couple of wheel lengths. The five miles handicap, professional, was easy for the high mark, the McLane Brothers, of Chelsea, taking the first two places and Nat Butler third. Nat and Tom Butler won the Australian tandem pursuit race, catching the second team, Watson Coleman and Frank Butler, in the fourth mile. A ten miles paced race between members of local clubs attracted considerable attention and was well fought. Berlo, Eagle 'Cycle Club, beat out Farnum, Metropolitan Wheelmen, in 20m. 16⅗s. Summary:

One-third mile, professional.—Won by Major Taylor; Tom Butler, Boston, second; Watson Coleman, Cambridge, third. Time, 43⅗s.

Five miles, professional.—Won by A. A. McLane, Chelsea, 450yds.; Hugh McLane, Chelsea, 425yds., second; Nat Butler, Cambridge, scratch, third. Time, 11m. 20⅘s.

One mile.—Won by J. F. Ingraham, Peabody; W. H. Minle, Chicago, second; E. J. Rogers, Malden, third. Time, 2m. 12⅗s.

One mile.—Won by J. Moran, Chelsea, scratch; J. F. Ingraham, scratch, second; H. Edwards, Dorchester, 20yds., third. Time, 2m. 23⅗s.

Another race meet held under the rules of the N. C. A. took place at the Waltham, Mass., track on Saturday afternoon, June 17, the crowd being large and the sport most excellent. Harry Elkes defeated Arthur Gardiner by half a lap in a twenty miles matched pursuit race. Gardiner's machine gave out, but he was carried through the race by human pacers and made a good fight. Elkes made the distance in 37m. 38⅘s. Another novelty was a three miles matched tricycle motor race between K. A. Skinner, of Boston, and C. H. Metz, of Waltham. Both machines ran evenly, but failed to make fast time, the time of the winner, Metz, being 7m. 29⅘s. The summaries:

One-third mile, novice.—Won by H. E. Perkins, Waltham; E. Brown, Waltham, second; J. G. Purcell, Waltham, third. Time, 44⅘s.

Two-thirds mile.—Won by E. C. Hauseman, New Haven; W. A. Rutz, New Haven, second; T. J. Caldwell, Hartford, third. Time, 1m. 28s.

Three miles, match tricycle motor race.—R. A. Skinner vs. C. H. Metz—Won by Metz. Time, 7m. 29⅘s.

One mile.—Won by N. A. Smith, Waltham, 150yds.; W. A. Rutz, New Haven, scratch, second; E. C. Hauseman, New Haven, scratch, third. Time, 2m. 9⅘s.

Sunday Racing in New Jersey.

About four thousand spectators testified to the popularity of 'cycling sport on the Sabbath by assembling at the track at Vailsburg, N. J., on June 18, when some exceptionally good sport was provided by a number of crack riders, as will be observed by the appended summary:

Quarter mile, novice.—Won by Michael Scanlan, Newark; John Burgdorf, Newark, second; Otto Quitman, Newark, third. Time, 35s.

Swift Stakes, half mile, professional.—Won by O. L. Stevens; F. A

The night race meetings at Woodside Park track, Philadelphia, Pa., opened for the season on Wednesday evening, June 14, not far from five thousand persons being present. The special attraction was a team pursuit race, Eddie McDuffee, Nat and Tom Butler, of Boston, Mass., being pitted against Charles Church, Eddie Aker and Charles Turville, of the Quaker City, the distance being unlimited and the race ending when one team passed the other, the start being made on opposite sides of the track. An exciting struggle terminated at nine and one-third miles, the bean eaters winning in 20m. 32⅗s. The other events resulted as appears below:

One mile, novice.—James Phillips first, Theo. Sephine second, J. H. Simmonds third. Time, 2m. 27⅗s.

A Consecutive Ten Centuries Ride

Was completed by Gus Egolf, of the Century Road Club of America, over the macadam roads of Long Island, on Thursday, June 15, his time being 108h. 20m. His performance creates a new record for consecutive centuries, the best previously having been six. A time limit was set on every century, and his time at the close of each was as follows: 100 miles, 7h. 15m.; 200, 16h. 20m; 300, 26h. 20m.; 400, 38h. 10m.; 500, 49h. 55m.; 600, 66h. 55m; 700, 78h. 40m.; 800, 84h. 40m.; 900, 97h.; 1,000 miles, 108h. 20m. The best record for riding 1,000 miles over roads is 105h. 19m., accomplished by T. F. Edge, riding over a straightaway course from Land's End, Eng., to Forfar, Scotland, while Egolf was obliged to make many turns in each one hundred miles. It is stated that during the ride he relied almost wholly upon strawberry ice cream for sustenance, partaking of no meats, soups or vegetables, and only occasionally varying his regimen with a glass of milk and a few graham crackers. He passed six and a quarter hours in sleep.

The Wheel in Buffalo.

A race meeting was held at Athletic Field, Buffalo, N. Y., on Wednesday evening, June 15, which attracted a big crowd and was participated in by several crack riders, as witness the appended summary:

Two miles, professional.—Tom Cooper, scratch, won; Eddie Bald, scratch, second; H. B. Freeman, 25yds., third; Orlando Stevens, 25yds., fourth. Time, 4m. 31⅗s.

"LOUIS GIMM," says a dispatch from Pittsburg, Pa., dated June 12, "the 'cycler who, it is claimed, was 'doped' in the long distance race in San Francisco last Winter, arrived at his home in Pittsburg today. Gimm is a wreck of his former self. He has been in a hospital four months, as the result of his experience in the race, and it is not likely that he will regain his health entirely for years."

The Turf.

Won by Harness & Brosnan's Imp, Bannockburn Second, Warrenton Third.

The running of the Suburban Handicap was the feature of the opening day of the Coney Island Jockey Club's annual Spring meeting at Sheepshead Bay, L. I., N. Y., Saturday afternoon, June 17, when the largest crowd in the history of the race was in attendance. Harness & Brosnan's Imp won the classic event in impressive style, adding $7,000 to the bank account of her owners, breaking the record for the event, coming within four-fifths of a second of Salvator's world's mark for the distance, and gaining the distinction of being the first mare to win the Suburban. P. Dunne's Bannockburn was second, two lengths in the rear of the leader, and an easy length in front of W. L. Oliver's Warrenton, the third horse under the wire. Banastar, winner of the Brooklyn Handicap, was made the favorite, but burned thousands of the public's dollars by bolting just after the breakaway, turning completely around and stubbornly fighting his jockey, Maher, who finally got his head turned in the direction taken by the fleeing field. Of course he was never even in the dust clouds thereafter. When the horses paraded to the post and the first lineup was made, George Keene opened the ball by making life burdensome for everything within reach of his heels, and was the cause of the greater part of the delay at the post, which was nearly fifty minutes. Finally, after ten breakaways, they all broke together, with the exception of Banastar, the favorite, who wheeled, and, refusing to break, was left standing at the post, burning up thousands of dollars of the public's money. Keene was off in the lead, followed by Tragedian; Briar Sweet third. At the quarter George Keene led by a neck, Candle Black second, a neck in front of Briar Sweet. At the half Keene led, and the others were in the same order. At the three-quarters Keene still led, a nose in front of Imp; Briar Sweet third and Filigrane fourth. Imp was in the lead at the mile, Bannockburn second and Briar Sweet third. In the stretch Imp led by one length, Bannockburn second and Keene third. Imp won by two lengths, Bannockburn second by three lengths and Warrenton third. Summary:

First race, the Maiden Race No. 1, for two year olds, last five and a half furlongs of the Futurity course—Stuart, 118, Spencer, 3 to 2, won; Fleuron, 115, Maher, 30 to 1, second; Radford, 118, Sims, third. Time, 1:02⅘.....Second race—For three year olds and over, five and a half furlongs—Swiftmas, 108, Maher, 2½ to 1, won; Cicopus, 103, H. Martin, 10 to 1, second; Lambent, 103, Odom, 3 to 1, third. Time, 1:07⅘.....Third race—The double event, first part, purse $5,000, for two year olds, last 5½ furlongs of the Futurity course—Prince of Melbourne, 112; O'Leary, 2½ to 1, won; Mesmerist, 117, O'Connor, 2 to 1, second; Mark Cheek, 122, Mecue, 10 to 1, third. Time, 1:08⅗.....Fourth race—The Suburban, $1,000, a handicap for three year olds and upward, $200 each for starters, $100 forfeit, the winner to receive $7,000, the second $2,000, and the third $1,000, one mile and a quarter—Imp, 114, N. Turner, won; Bannockburn, 112, W. Martin, second; Warrenton, 114, Sims, third. Ben Holladay, Banastar, Cardie Black, Briar Sweet, George Keene, Previous, Tragedian, Filigrane, Latson and The Star of Bethleham also ran. Betting—Six to 1 against Imp, 6 to 1 Bannockburn, 15 to 1 Warrenton, 10 to 1 Ben Holladay, 8 to 5 Banastar and Candle Black coupled as W. H. Clarke's entry, 8 to 1 Briar Sweet, 15 to 1 George Keane, 40 to 1 Previous, 40 to 1 Tragedian, 20 to 1 Filigrane, 15 to 1 Lotson, 100 to 1 The Star of Bethlehem. Time, 2:05⅘.....Fifth race—Selling steeplecase for four year olds and over, short course—Marchan, 145, Carson, 6 to 1, won; Royal Scarlet, 145, Cochran, 3 to 1, second; Black Jimmy, 142, Johnson, 30 to 1, third. Time, 4:13⅗.....Sixth race—For three year olds, one mile and a sixteenth on the turf—Hard Knot, 100, Wilson, 3½ to 1, won; The Gardner, 111, Spencer, 6 to 1, second; Greyfield, 103, Clawson, 15 to 1, third. Time, 1:48⅗.

June 19.—Conditions being highly favorable on Monday, there was a large turnout of the lovers of the sport, although the contrast to Saturday's immense outpouring caused the gathering to look rather insignificant. It was a favorites' day, first choices carrying off the bulk of the honors, so that the public were well satisfied with the result of their visit. Summary: First race—Three year olds and upward, six furlongs—Sydney Paget's Admiration, 110, Clawson, 1 to 4, first; Prestidigitatrice, 115, Littlefield, 20 to 1, second; Abuse, 123, Taral, 10 to 1, third. Time, 1:13⅘.....Second race—Three year olds and upward, one mile and a furlong—F. V. Alexandre's Holland, 98, McCue, 11 to 5, first; Estaca, 113, H. Martin, second; Bon Ino, 110, R. Williams, 15 to 1, third. Time, 1:54⅕..... Third race—Daisy Stakes, two year olds, five furlongs, on turf—John Daly's Neoa, 110, Bullman, 11 to 10, first; Misericordia, 110, Littlefield, 11 to 10, second; The Robby, 110, O'Leary, 8 to 1, third. Time, 1:02⅕.....Fourth race—Three year olds and upward, one mile—Headley & Norton's May Hempstead, 107, N. Turner, 8 to 5, first; Merry Prince, 111, Doggett, 11 to 10, second; Byron McClelland, 92, Mitchell, 25 to 1, third. Time, 1:39¼.....Fifth race—Two year olds, five furlongs—S. S. Brown's Mauvilla, 101, R. Lewis, 4 to 1, first; Prestige, 97, Brennan, 60 to 1, second; Pinte, 99, McCue, 2 to 1, third. Time, 1:02¾.....Sixth race—Grass Selling Stake, three year olds and upward, one mile and a sixteenth, on turf—J. E. McDonald's Central Trust, 116, Wilson, 5 to 2, first; Intrusive, 116, Taral, 6 to 5, second; Concord, 118, N. Turner, 12 to 1, third. Time, 1:47.

Racing in England.

The American jockeys, Sloan and Reiff, fared pretty well in the way of "being in the money" at Ascot Heath, Eng., June 13-15. Sloan won the visitor's plate on Lord Wm. Beresford's Jiffey II, was third in the Royal Hunt Cup, mounted on Beresford's Knight of the Thistle, third in the Fern Hill Stakes on Sir R. W. Griffith's Vae Victis, third in the Triennial Stakes on Pierre Lorillard's Jouvenance, and was second in the Ascot Derby Stakes, mounted on Beresford's Jolly Tar; June 14, Sir R. W. Griffith's Vain Duchess and Beresford's Democrat. The last mentioned ridden by Sloan, ran a dead heat for the Coventry Stakes, and Sloan won second money in the Ascot Stakes, mounted on Lord Farquhar's Vouveau Riche, June 13. Sloan won the Biennial Stakes, mounted on Lord Beresford's Calman, and was second in the Rous Memorial Stakes, on Pierre Lorillard's American horse Dominie II, June 15. On the same date Reiff won the new Biennial Stakes, mounted on Sir R. W. Griffith's Bettyfield. The Gold Cup was raced for 15, and won by C. D. Rose's Cyllene, Lord Edward II second, Gardefeu third.

Maher is Given a Rest.

W. H. Clark, owner of Banaster, winner of the Brooklyn Handicap, and the favorite for the Suburban, as a result of and punishment of Jockey Maher for the latter's actions on the horse at the post in the Sheepshead Bay event, has stood Maher down during the remainder of this and all of next year, not permitting him to ride for the Clark stable or for any other during that period. Mr. Clark has Maher under contract for 1899 and 1900, at a salary of $10,000 per year, and prefers to pay him the same for doing nothing than to have him riding. While making no direct charge that Banaster was pulled in the Suburban, he declares that it is his determination to protect other owners.

Prize Shooting Carnival.

The annual prize shooting festival of the New York Sharpshooting Association was held at Scheutzen Park, Union Hill, N. J., last week, winding up on Sunday evening, June 18. The surprise of the event was the defeat of the celebrated marksman, Gus Zimmerman, for years the representative American rifle shot, both in this country and abroad, by F. C. Ross, of Williamsburg, also for years known as a "crack," the latter winning by only half a degree. The prize winners follow:

Ring target.—George Schlicht, 74-73; Fred C. Ross, 72-71; M. Dorrier, 72-70; H. Hodges, 70-70; Gus Zimmerman, 69-68; E. Meurer, 70; J. Goetz, 69; L. P. Hansen, 69; L. Fiach, 69; A. Schwanerman, 66; B. Zettler, 65; W. G. Hudson, 65; J. Siebs, 64; F. Facompre, 64; F. C. Chase, 62; C. Basse, 60; C. Beyer, 60; W. Dohrmann, 59; J. Rebhan, 58; H. Lohder, 58.

JEFFRIES OVERTRAINED.

The Expert Opinion of Yale University's Gymnasium Director Concerning the Californian's Condition.

A dispatch from New Haven, Ct., to The Brooklyn Eagle says that on June 17 Dr. Jay W. Seaver, director of the Yale gymnasium, and the leading American authority on anthropometry, made a study of James Jeffries, the champion boxer, and he reached a rather startling conclusion relative to the Californian. After his examination he said:

"Perhaps the most remarkable thing which strikes the careful student of Jeffries' condition is his slow mental reaction. It is his great nervous exhaustion which is the reason for this. He is nervously tired out. He is at present physically trained up to activity, but mentally he is dead. This is partly due to the strain he underwent in his training and to the hard fight, and partly to his present trip through Connecticut. This barn storming journey the week after his very hard exertion certainly won't do him any good. It is one of the very worst things he could have done. He needed a rest. He needs one now still worse.

"Were Jeffries to begin another hard fight tomorrow he would not last many rounds. Neither his physical endurance nor his mental condition would allow him to make a long fight. His mental condition would be most apparent in his activity were he to fight at the present time. He could not get away from blows in time, nor could he deliver blows before a quick opponent could dodge. In scientific time his mental reaction is too slow. It will be many weeks before Jeffries' mental condition will allow him to fight a quick battle.

He is, judged by standards of anthropometry, a peculiar type of a prize fighter. He is of the broad, flat type of a man. This statement may seem commonplace, but it is of the deepest significance. Most bodies are what would be called the round type of man. The peculiar make up of Jeffries leaves him naturally badly open to effective stomach and heart blows.

"It is interesting to see that his style of fighting protects himself in the most natural way possible from body blows. He fights under, ducking and fighting generally well down. If any opponent of Jeffries is ever able to reach him with persistent heavy body blows he will find that the Californian's most vulnerable point. As to Jeffries' physical condition, judged from the purely physical and excluding the mental standpoint, it is easy to see that he is overtrained. On first appearance Jeffries appears to be more badly overtrained than he really is. When stripped the signs of overtraining which are shown in the face are not so plain. He is well trained down, and, I should judge, weighs about 210 pounds at the present time."

Sharkey's Reply to Jeffries.

The rather sharply worded letter of Jim Jeffries in response to the challenge from his old antagonist, Tom Sharkey, with whom he has since been again matched, elicited the following sarcastic reply from the pugnacious sailor boy, which will bear perusal:

"DEAR SIR.—The big fight having come and gone, the next possibility heaves in sight, and J. J. Jeffries offers me the coming championship meeting, which is extremely kind of him. He has it all laid down very simply, side bet, eighteen foot ring, largest purse, etc. It reads well, but has not the true ring to it. His propositions are all cordially accepted, but, seeing we fight comparatively in a civilized age, the Marquis of Queensberry rules will, it seems to me, have to go. This bars his eighteen foot ring. If he would or could furnish a suitable place we might have it out as per London prize ring rules, bare knuckles and all, in any size ring he would name. But we do not want to descend into history as reverting to our ancient type of savagery, so we will have, I guess, to retain our 24ft. ring. Of course, it may not have occurred to Mr. Jeffries that he might find it handy to avail himself of the advantages offered by the regulation ring himself. It may be quite possible, however. As to the place of meeting, let it be anywhere, San Francisco, New York or any old place, and if he wins, he takes side bet, gate money, honor and everything in sight. The time fixed will suit me, as he says.

A Hot Fight by the Sea.

"Yank" Kenny, Bob Fitzsimmons' sparring partner, and Ed. Dunkhorst, the Syracuse big 'un, treated about two thousand ring patrons to one of the liveliest hard hitting and continuous punching glove fights that has been witnessed in this vicinity for many a long day. The affair took place at the arena of the Coney Island Sporting Club on Monday evening, June 19, they being scheduled to fight twenty-five rounds. This they did for fair, but it would not have lasted so long had Kenny the power to knock his adversary out, as he did all the leading, and at the finish rightly received the award on the score of points. Both men were badly used up, and their gameness was recognized by a volley of cheers at the close of the engagement. Kenny was attended by Martin Julian, Jack Everhardt and Jack Hawkins, while Dunkhorst's esquires were Tommy West, Danny McBride, Tommy Dixon and several others. Bob Fitzsimmons occupied a front seat during the evening and was the recipient of an ovation upon his entrance. John P. Eckhardt was the referee of the fight.

A Hard Fight Well Won.

Tim Kearns increased the list of his victories within the ropes by taking Eddie Connelly into camp on Friday evening, June 16, in a glove contest, scheduled for twenty-five rounds, before the Broadway Athletic Club, this city. During the early rounds Connelly had rather the best of the fighting, at least so far as cleverness went, and up to the fifteenth round matters were pretty even, the fighting having been fast and the punishment severe on both sides, the face, and especially the eyes, of each having been well dosed with hot pepper; after that Connelly's strength began to fail him, and Kearns took the lead, and, going on, in the twenty-second round he had his opponent at his mercy and punished him severely. Connelly was knocked down four times in succession, gamely struggling to his feet each time, but Referee White, seeing that he was gone, to save him from further punishment stopped the fight and declared Kearns the winner.

MARTIN FLAHERTY AND CHARLEY MINER were the star performers at the Pelican Athletic Club arena, Brooklyn, N. Y., on Saturday evening, June 17, having been matched to mill twenty rounds. After fighting five rounds of a rattling character, however, Referee Schwegler awarded the verdict in favor of Flaherty on an alleged foul, Miner having been previously cautioned.

BILLY MOORE, of St. Louis, and Ed. Reddick, of Greater New York, fought in private, using small sized gloves, for a side bet of $50 and the gate money, in this city, Saturday night, June 17, the agreement being to go to a finish, but the mill terminated in the fifth round, when Reddick received his quietus. The principals are both of the colored persuasion.

JACK BENNETT AND MATTY MATTHEWS have been matched to go twenty rounds before the Metropolitan Athletic Club, Wheeling, W. Va., June 27. Harry Fisher and Dick O'Brien will appear before the same club 29, for a like number of rounds.

The managers and backers of Champion Jeffries and Tom Sharkey, his quondam opponent, held a meeting in this city on Saturday, June 17, for the purpose of arranging a match as a result of the challenge issued by the Sailor Boy immediately after the defeat of Bob Fitzsimmons by the California Hercules. Billy Brady represented Jeffries, while Tom O'Rourke did the talking for Sharkey, and a number of high class P. R. sports were present at the meeting. Both parties manifested a desire to come to an amicable agreement quickly, but of course the expenditure of a great deal of wind in useless argument was necessary, as at all such gatherings; however, terms were finally arranged regarding everything save the size of the ring, the wearing of bandages and the choice of referee, upon which matters O'Rourke desired to consult Sharkey by wire. This necessitated another meeting on 19, which was held in Brady's office, in the Manhattan Theatre, when matters were satisfactorily adjusted with the waste of little breath, Brady waiving his demand for an eighteen foot ring and the barring of bandages, and O'Rourke agreeing to Brady's proposal of George Siler for referee. Then the articles of agreement were drawn up and signed, and a match for the heavyweight championship that will enlist great interest in sporting circles on both sides of the Atlantic was duly ratified. Here is the protocol:

Articles of agreement, entered into this nineteenth day of June, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-nine, between James J. Jeffries, Los Angeles, Cal., party of the first part, and Thomas Sharkey, of Ireland, party of the second part.

Witnesseth: That in consideration of the terms hereinafter set forth, the parties agree to engage in a contest for the championship of the world, and they have mutually agreed to the following conditions:

First—That the contest shall be twenty-five (25) rounds for a decision and shall take place on the 23d of October, 1899.

Second—The principals agree to accept the best inducements offered before midnight Sept. 1, 1899. And if held in New York State the contest is to be strictly under the interpretation of the law.

Third—That the contest shall be governed by the Marquis of Queensberry rules, and that the men shall be permitted to fight with one hand free, each protecting himself in the breakaway. But they are to part at the command of the referee; soft bandages to be allowed, but they must be satisfactory to the referee and the opposing principal.

Fifth—The gloves shall not weigh less than five ounces, and each principal shall be permitted to furnish his own gloves, which are to be submitted to the referee for his approval at 3 o'clock on the day of the contest and remain in his custody until the men enter the ring.

Sixth—The official timekeeper of the club must be satisfactory to both principals, and each contestant will be allowed one timekeeper.

Seventh—George Siler has been agreed upon as referee.

Ninth—If either man should suffer a defeat between now and the time of acceptance of the purse, the match is declared off. And after the club articles are signed, neither man shall engage in any contest except with his sparring partner or forfeit the amount he has deposited.

Tenth—It is further agreed that on the signing of these articles each man shall post twenty-five hundred ($2,500) dollars with Al. Smith, who shall be final stakeholder, said forfeit to stand as a guarantee of good faith and to be paid to the contestant who has lived up to this agreement. It is further agreed, on the acceptance of the best club offer, that the club securing the contest shall post five thousand ($5,000) dollars, to be divided between the two men in case it fails to fulfill its contract. Each party to this contract agrees to post twenty-five hundred ($2,500) dollars more, or five thousand ($5,000) dollars in all, said five thousand ($5,000) dollars to be forfeited in case of the failure to live up to these and the club's articles. Said forfeit of five thousand ($5,000) dollars to be divided between the club and the principal who has lived up to this agreement.

Eleventh—Club bids for this contest to be made to Matt Clune, at the Vanderbilt Hotel, Forty-second Street and Lexington Avenue. Said bids must be accompanied by the cash deposited or certified check of twenty-five hundred dollars ($2,500). The club to be required to post $2,500 more when the contestants sign their club articles.

Thirteenth—It is further agreed that the referee shall receive the power to decide any and all points which may arise and are not covered by these articles of agreement.

Fifteenth—It is agreed that, if the contest takes place at the Lenox A. C. or the Coney Island Sporting Club, the present size of the ring shall remain and shall not be altered from this time on under penalty of forfeiture of cash deposited by Thomas O'Rourke and William A. Brady. In case of the contest being held outside of either of these two clubs, the ring to be 20ft. square in the clear.

A NEW PLAY.

"Arizona,"

A drama, in four acts, by Augustus Thomas, was produced for the first time on any stage June 12, at the Grand Opera House, Chicago, Ill. The locale of the play is indicated in the name, and the opening scene is laid on the ranch of Henry Canby, a bluff, big hearted man, in the Aravaipa Valley, thirty miles from the military post of Fort Grant. Canby's daughter, Estrella, has married Col. Bonham, of the Eleventh United States Cavalry. As the regiment is now stationed at Fort Grant, it is but natural that officers of the command frequent the ranch considerably. One of the results is that Lieut. Denton and the ranchman's other daughter, Bonita, fall in love. Capt. Hodgman, another officer of the Eleventh, has obtained a sort of hypnotic power over Mrs. Bonham, and in the second act he uses it to a marked degree. The scene of this is laid in the drawing room of Col. Bonham's quarters at Fort Grant. Capt. Hodgman has persuaded Mrs. Bonham to elope with him. She even goes so far as to turn over her jewels to him, when Lieut. Denton, learning of the plot, intervenes. At the point of a revolver he forces Hodgman to give up the jewels and abandon the scheme. Just as the latter is leaving he meets Col. Bonham, who has returned unexpectedly. Hodgman seizes the opportunity to direct suspicion toward Denton and Mrs. Bonham. The colonel finds the two in the drawing room, behind locked doors, for Denton is pleading with the woman to give up her mad amour. The colonel's suspicions are confirmed by this discovery. He has a londness for Lieut. Denton on account of the young man's father, but demands that he resign from the army. Rather than compromise Mrs. Bonham still further by telling the truth, Denton does this, but turns cowboy and goes to work on the Canby ranch, so as to be near his sweetheart. This is where he is discovered in act III and IV, the scene of both of which are on the ranch. He wins the favor of the wealthy ranchman as well as the daughter, and has just been taken into partnership on the ranch, as well as being promised the hand of the daughter, when his old regiment comes along on its way to Cuba. He himself has received a commission as captain of volunteers and is preparing to start for the war also, with the confidence and good wishes of the prospective bride and father in law, when Hodgman appears and tells the latter two that Denton was forced to resign from the army because he compromised a woman. Denton and Hodgman meet alone, and the former hits Hodgman in the face with his hat. Revolvers are drawn instantly, but before either can fire a shot comes from a door, and Hodgman falls. Denton's revolver goes off amid the excitement. The first shot has come from Tony Mostano, a vaquero, who has discovered that Hodgman ruined Lena Kellar, the girl he loves. Hodgman dies. Lieut., now Capt. Denton, is tried at a drumhead courtmartial, but is acquitted when it is found that the fatal bullet would not fit his revolver. Suspicion is directed toward Lena, when Tony confesses his deed, leaps on a pony and escapes. Then Mrs. Bonham, in the presence of her husband, father, mother, sister and Capt. Denton, tells the real reason why Denton was forced to resign from the army. Her husband refuses forgiveness for some time, but as he passes out of the open door on his way to the war he is seen to pick up a rose that she has dropped and pin it on his breast. The cast: Henry Canby, Theodore Roberts; Col. Bonham, Edwin Holt; Sam Wong, Stephen French; Mrs. Canby, Mattie Earle; Estrella Bonham; Mabel Burt; Lena Kellar, Adora Andrews; Lieut. Denton, Robert Edeson; Bonita Canby, Olive May; Miss McCullagh, Edith Athelsone; Dr. Fenton, Samuel Edwards; Capt. Hodgman, Arthur Byron; Tony Mostano, Vincent Serrano; Lieut. Hallack, Franklin Garland; Sergeant Kellar, Walter Hale; Lieut. Young, Lionel Barrymore; Major Cochran, Menifee Johnstone.

THE CLOSE AT GRAVESEND.

The Brooklyn Derby and the Gazelle, Myrtle and the Tremont Stakes Features of the Last Days of the Meeting.

The Brooklyn Jockey Club brought its annual Spring meeting at Gravesend, L. I., N. Y., to a close with the card provided for June 15. The meeting, which began May 27, resulted in a manner highly satisfactory to promoters and patrons, the average of excellent sport having been extremely gratifying to all concerned.

June 13.—The Gazelle Stakes, won by The Rose, an added starter, was the feature of the racing Tuesday afternoon, when a good crowd was in attendance. Summary: First race—Two year old fillies, five furlongs—A. H. & D. H. Morris' Primrose Day, 105, Odom, 2 to 1, won; Killashandra, 105, McCue, 15 to 1, second; Prejudice, 105, H. Tipton, 94, Mitchell, 4 to 1, third. Time, 1:49½.

June 15.—Thursday was closing day, and as the card presented was rendered especially attractive by the running of the Brooklyn Derby and the Tremont Stakes, both having promising entries, the crowd in attendance was large. The first was won by Ahom, heavily backed at 6 to 1 the favorite, Half Time, running unplaced—another coup for shrewd "Pittsburg Phil," whose winnings were large. The favorite, Maribert, won the other stake event; weather very warm; track fast. Summary First race—Highweight handicap, all ages six furlongs—F. Brown's Ben Hadad, 122, Sims, 7 to 1, first; Lambent, 133, R. Williams, 8 to 1, second; Imperator, 111, Mitchell, 50 to 1, third. Time, 1:14¾. .....Second race, three year olds, one mile and a sixteenth—W. P. Norton's Survivor, 107, N. INTERNATIONAL ATHLETICS.

The trifling differences that arose between the high contracting parties to the proposed international athletic competition, Oxford and Cambridge Universities, challengers, against Harvard and Yale Universities, acceptors, have been adjusted, and it is now settled that the event will take place in London, Eng., on Saturday, July 22. A liberal spirit has characterised the work of the joint committees during the negotiations, and a satisfactory agreement has been reached. For the information of all interested we present below the full text of the challenge issued by the Englishmen:

OXFORD UNIVERSITY ATHLETIC CLUB.

DEAR SIR: The committees of Oxford University Athletic Club and the Cambridge University Athletic Club have requested us to forward you the following challenge for your consideration, and to invite selected representatives of your University Club to unite with selected representatives of Yale or Harvard University Clubs in forming a joint team to compete in track athletics against a joint team of representatives similarly selected from the athletic clubs of Oxford and Cambridge Universities. We venture to think such an athletic meeting will prove very desirable for many reasons. We should be very glad to welcome you to our land.

Such international athletic sports between the the two leading universities of Great Britain and the United States could not fail to rouse the highest interest of all lovers of amateur sport and could not fail to improve the status of amateur athletics in both countries, or to revive the kindly feelings engendered by the feelings of former years of Yale to Oxford and Cambridge to Yale.

We would suggest the following conditions for your approval:

1. That the meeting take place at the Queen's Club, London, on some date at the end of July, 1899, which may be most convenient to you and to the Queen's Club with regard to competitions.

2. That the programme shall be the regular Oxford-Cambridge programme of nine events, subject to the following modifications: (A) That a half mile run be substituted for putting the weight. (B) That in the 120 yards hurdle race the flights of hurdles should not be fixed with regard to competitors.

3. That all the four universities concerned may choose representatives only from actual students now in residence and on the college books of membership.

4. That such representatives, to be eligible to compete, must conform in all respects to the rules and regulations which govern athletic sports, respectively, of Oxford and Cambridge and Harvard and Yale.

5. That such representatives shall have never received pecuniary assistance toward their support and maintenance as athletes during any portion of their university career or any period prior thereto.

6. And, generally, that such representatives must be in all respects amateur athletes absolutely and essentially in accordance with the definitions of an amateur athlete as laid down by the Amateur Athletic Association of Great Britain and the similar governing association of athletics in America.

That the appointed stewards of the meeting authorized to act for the four universities concerned be requested to lodge with the honorary secretary of the Amateur Athletic Association in London, on some date prior to the above meeting, lists of the selected teams, together with certificates, that each member of said teams is a bona fide student and a bona fide amateur athlete.

Having thus formulated our views, we submit them to your favorable consideration, and are prepared to leave any minor details to be adjusted between us at some later day.

We must ask you to kindly cable a reply at your earliest convenience, so that we may be able to immediately secure the Queen's Club ground and make at once arrangements of a personal character which any delay might render impossible. We remain yours very truly, GILBERT C. VASSAL,
President Oxford University Athletic Club.
ALLAN HUNTER,
President Cambridge University Athletic Club.
May 19.

THERE were nineteen golfers a side in a match between the North Jersey Country Club and the Staten Island Cricket Club, played at Paterson, N. J., on Saturday afternoon, June 17, the local players defeating the Islanders by the one sided score of 40 to 10.

A GOLF MATCH was played at Plainfield, N. J., on Saturday afternoon, June 17, between teams representing the Hillsdale Club and the Harbor Hill Club, nine players a side, the Hillsdales winning by a score of 33 to 9.

Fourth of July Sports.

From present indications the celebration of Independence Day by the Knickerbocker Athletic Club, at Knickerbocker Field, Bayonne, N. J., will be a red letter affair. At 10 A. M., the first game of baseball will be played between the Knickerbocker A. C. and the Crescent Athletic Club team, of Bay Ridge, N. Y. The second game will be played at 5 P. M., immediately after the conclusion of the final track and field events. At 1 P. M. the all 'round championship will commence. Ten events will be contested, as follow: 100 yards run, putting 16lb shot, running high jump, 880 yards walk, throwing 16lb hammer, pole vault, 120 yards hurdle race, throwing 56lb weight, running broad jump and one mile run. The most important entry for the championship is that of A. C. Kraenzlein, University of Pennsylvania, one of the most wonderful all 'round athletes that ever wore the spiked shoe, and it is confidently expected that he will not only win the first honors but will score the largest number of points ever scored by one athlete in the championship. While the championship is in progress there will also be athletic events on track and field, 'cycling races and swimming events. Four athletic events will be contested, as follows: 100 yards run, handicap; 440 yards run, novice, scratch; 880 yards run, handicap, and one mile run, handicap. There will also be two 'cycling events, a one mile, novice, and a two miles, handicap. Two swimming events are also on the programme, 100 yards, novice, and 150 yards, handicap. In the all 'round championship the regular entrance fee of two dollars will be charged, and must accompany entry; scoring on the A. A. U. percentage basis. The other events are open to all registered athletes, and an entrance fee of fifty cents for each entry will be charged. The 'cycling events will be held under the rules of the L. A. W. Entries close with J. E. SULLIVAN, 16 Park Place, Manhattan, June 24. Knickerbocker Field can be reached via the Central Railroad of New Jersey, from the foot of Liberty street, New York, all way trains stopping at the club station, and by trolley from the Jersey City ferries, going to the gate direct, transferring at Fifth Street, Jersey City. It is the intention of the committee to eclipse, if possible, the success had by the club on Decoration Day, and everything is being done to make the day one that will be long remembered by those who attend.

Keilly's Team May Not Come.

We take the following from Sport, of Dublin, Ireland, dated June 10: "I hear, on the very best authority, although not officially, that Tom Keilly's team of athletes will not go to America, after all, and I am disposed to believe it, although my last advices, personally and not by word of mouth, with both Keilly and Newburn, were to the effect that they should go, and Newburn actually told me the date of his departure, and furthermore, what he would do, irrespective of athletics, after he had arrived in America. Since then, however, I have been given to understand that they have been warned by the existing and proper athletic authorities in Ireland that if they go, as at present constituted, they run the risk of being professionalized."

NAT PERRY, the veteran professional runner, a man of the type of Charley Westhall, who commenced his career as a pedestrian in the "fifties," died in London, Eng., May 29, after a prolonged illness. His proper name was Charles Perry James, and during his career he is reputed to have taken part in thirty-six matches, winning thirty-three. For many years past he was groundman and official timekeeper at the Stamford Bridge grounds of the London Athletic Club, many of the members of which he trained. The funeral took place June 5, and was very largely attended, the interment being in Fulham Cemetery, London. He was sixty-one years of age.

A LACROSSE MATCH, the last of the season in this vicinity, was contested by the team of the Crescent Athletic Club, of Brooklyn, and the Canadians forming the team of Osgoode Hall, Toronto, Ont., on Saturday afternoon, June 17, on the ground at Bay Ridge, L. I. About fifteen hundred spectators gathered to witness the contest, which was quite interesting, eventually resulting in a victory for the Crescents by a score of eleven goals to three.

THE FINAL ROUND for the championship of the Women's Golf Association, of Philadelphia, Pa., was contested on June 16 on the fine course of the Huntington Valley Country Club, the final contest being between Elsie Foster Cassatt, Merion Cricket Club, and Mrs. Walter M. Gorham, Philadelphia Cricket Club. Miss Cassatt won by a score of 86 to 90. Bye holes were not played out.

A MATCH AT GOLF between teams of five men each, belonging respectively to the Elizabeth Town and Country Club and the Forest Hill Golf Club, was contested at Elizabeth, N. J., on Saturday afternoon, June 17, the latter suffering defeat by 11 to 0.

A GOLF MATCH was played at Albany, N. Y., June 17, teams of six, the Albany Country Club defeating the visiting Powelton Club members by a score of 17 to 1.

THE OAKLAND CUP was won by W. J. Travis at the open tournament of the Oakland Golf Club, June 17, he defeating R. C. Watson Jr. in the final contest. The score at the finish was 87 to 97.

HALF A DOZEN PLAYERS belonging to the Montclair Athletic Club visited Orange, N. J., on Saturday, June 17, and defeated the Essex County team in a match at golf, the score standing 18 to 4.

THE Apawamis Golf Club sent a team to Bedford Station on the afternoon of Saturday, June 17, which easily defeated a team from the Bedford Club, six men each, by a score of 23 to 9.

The Great Fullerton Dead.

Fullerton, considered by many coursing men the best greyhound that ever went to slips, and certainly the greatest during the past score of years, died recently in England, and we take from The Field the following account of his wonderful career:

Fullerton died at Short Flatt Tower, Northumberland, at which place he was whelped in April, 1887. He was by Greenlick, out of Bit of Fashion. On his first appearance in the Derby at Haydock Park, after displaying marked cleverness in half a dozen courses, he lost to Mr. Gladstone's Greengage. It is an oft told tale how Fullerton divided the Waterloo Cup of his puppy season with his kennel companion, Troughend, and how he subsequently won outright three consecutive Waterloo Cups. The following year he was again slipped for the highest coursing honor of the world, and thousands of his infatuated admirers backed him at the absurd price of 4 to 1. The adage, "Every dog has his day," proved true, and Fullerton's colors were lowered in the second by the Irish representative, Full Captain.

After his defeat he was put to the stud at the exceptional price of $250. Fullerton proved impotent, and as a sequel to his wandering from home Col. North presented him to his breeder, Dent. During his career Fullerton won thirty one courses and lost only two, his defeats being on the occasions of his first and last appearances in public. Fullerton was a perfect model of a greyhound, possessed the invaluable attribute of speed, and was unusually quick with his hares. His running weight was sixty-five pounds.

MAURICE DALY, the popular billiardist and room keeper, is now on a trip across the briny, having sailed on Monday, June 19, for the purpose of studying styles of play outside of the familiar billiard circles of Europe, and possibly tackling the champions of Norway, Sweden, Holland and Russia, countries he has never yet visited. He will be away several months.

THE TENNIS TOURNAMENT for the championship of the women's association of Philadelphia, Pa., was finished on June 17. Result: Singles—Maud Banks, Philadelphia Cricket Club, beat Rachel Harlan, Belmont Cricket Club, 5—7, 6—2, 6—2, 7—5. Doubles—Rachel Harlan and Elizabeth Rastall, Belmont Cricket Club, beat Maud Banks and Helen Chapman, Philadelphia Cricket Club, 6—0, 6—2.

THE FINAL CONTEST for the tennis championship of Yale University was contested on June 17, with this result, it being the challenge round: J. A. Allen, challenger, beat H. H. Hackett, holder, 6—1, 6—3, 4—6, 8—6.

Wheeling.

The Accident to Martin.

Billy Martin's account of his recent bad accident (?) at a race in South Australia, which we take from The Australian Cyclist, is as follows: "I was riding behind Parsons, with Crowell and Corbett just in front. As we took the turn into the back straight I passed Parsons, whom I called to open out. He let me go by all right. As I did so I noticed that Crowell was making down the banking on the outside of the track, about five or six feet from the rails, and that Corbett was riding on the inside of him, a space of about ten feet being between them No one else was close to us, as Carpenter and the leading men were strung out, five or six lengths or more away. Crowell appeared to be trying to pass Corbett, and, as there was then plenty of room, I made a jump to go by on the outside of him. At the instant that I jumped I saw Corbett pull his whe

NEW YORK STREET NAMES.

There have been several eras to the nomenclature of New York streets. They may be distinguished as the Dutch, the English, the revolutionary and the progressive periods. When the Duke of York's practical ownership of New York succeeded the Dutch ownership of Nieuw Amsterdam there were only twenty names to streets or thoroughfares on Manhattan Island; and a short time ago there were 955, exclusive of 220 streets known by numerals, 10 avenues named after individuals, and 17 avenues designated by numerals or letters.

Wall Street heads the list as the oldest surviving name. The Dutch nomenclature is found exclusively below Wall, although there is a Dutch Street by name running between William and Gold at Fulton Street, which, however, owes its name to English choice. Streets below Chambers Street strictly represent the colonial English era, and all northward of it the progressive era of nomenclature. In the course of time a few more than fifty original names of streets have been changed. The changes began at the end of the revolution, when patriotic aldermen erased names savoring of royalty and replaced them with names agreeable to republican ears.

The English changed the then suburban street called Tienhoven (adopted from Rotterdam) to Crown, and in 1784 the patriots exultingly changed it to Liberty. Duke Street became William; George became Spruce; King George, North William; King, Pine; Little Queen, Cedar; Princess, Beaver, and Queen, Pearl. But the patriotic aldermen allowed Ann Street (after Queen Anne) to remain. Trinity Church vestry had taken a hand at suggesting names, and naturally had adopted those of Trinity's clergy; and hence came Rector, Vesey and Chambers.

In after years, as streets intersected Trinity's well known King's farm, that stretched toward Greenwich village, the vestry selected names belonging to church officers; and hence Charlton, Dominick, Hubert, Amos, Charles, Leroy, Clarkson and Horatio Streets. Columbia Street was christened College Place. Charlton had been Burr street, so called because Vice President Aaron Burr lived on it, at Richmond Hill; but when by a well arranged duel he murdered Alexander Hamilton the name became too odious. Trees growing in the rural lanes and paths gave them names—such as Cherry, Mulberry, Orchard, Pine, Cedar, Spruce, Elm, Oak and Grove.

The patriotic officials changed the names of even inoffensively sounding streets, merely because borrowed from King George's London; and the names Strand and Cheapside disappeared—the Strand being a lane connecting State and Pearl Streets. There were also a Fir Street and a Locust, but Locust was changed to Sullivan in honor of a revolutionary general, and Fir Street was made Grand Street between Gouverneur and Scammel. The name Fir was recently restored in the suburban street connecting Prospect and Tiliotson Avenues.

Revolutionary heroes were commemorated in street names, as Washington, Franklin, Clinton, Monroe, Madison and Jefferson. Some early streets possessed malodorous or flippant names; thus Nassau Street was in its inception Pie Woman's Lane. Exchange Place was once Oyster Patty Alley, for even 200 years ago it was noted for a good eating house. Marketfield Street was once Petticoat Lane, called after a famous one in London. Broad Street was first Sheep Pasture Street, and once between Wall and Exchange Place was Smell Street Lane.

Some streets took names from the direction in which they ran, as Greenwich, connecting the Battery with Greenwich Village, and Chelsea—both of which localities took names borrowed from London in early York times. Warren, Pitt and Chatham Streets were allowed to remain unchanged in name because Sir Peter Warren had remained popular with New Yorkers, and Lord Chatham (the elder Pitt) had been friendly to the colonists. Broome Street took its name from a merchant prince of the city, who was long Lieutenant-Governor of the State.

Prince Street was named after an individual in republican times and not after a royalty. The same is true of the King Street of the Eighth Ward, the name merely commemorating the Statesman, Rufus King. Hammersley Place, Beekman, Leroy, Waite, Lispenard, Pike, Henry, Doyers, Houston, Bleecker, Walker, Jones, Platt, Crosby, Desbrosses, Dey, Gouverneur, Pell, Barrow, Morion, Clarkson, Eldridge, Rutgers, Roosevelt, Forsyth, Chrystie, Gansevoort, Laight, Ludlow, Mangin, Goerck, Mott, Allen, Moore, Vandewater, Reade, Renwick, Rivington, Watts, Scammel and Stanton, commemorate some notable Knickerbockers. In Mercer, Greene, Wooster and Montgomery revolutionary commanders are remembered.

The gentler sex was not forgotten in street nomenclature, for is there not Maiden Lane—early called Maid's Path? Old Rose Hill had its Love Lane. What is now Minetta Street was once Bride Street, and the names Elizabeth, Rose, Caroline, Jeanette, Rachel, Cornelia, Hester and Jane attest that the officials in street nomenclature did not forget sweethearts, wives or sisters. A bishop was commemorated in Delancey Street, the bar in Attorney Street, and governors in Clinton and Tompkins Streets. Lewis Street keeps green the memory of Francis Lewis, New York's signer of the Declaration of Independence.

The presidents, with the exception of Adams, for New York City was ever anti-Federalist, are all remembered in street nomenclature down to the time of Van Buren. Harrison Street was named for a Trinity vestryman long before either of the Harrisons occupied the White House. Jay Street at one time seemed also likely to commemorate another president.

There is now a Lincoln Avenue, running from Third Avenue to the Harlem River, and near to it a Grant Avenue, and lately there was named an avenue after the only New Yorker who became president—Chester A. Arthur. Doubtless in time Greater New York may posses a Cleveland Alley and a McKinley Avenue. Along with Bryant Square and Irving Place authors are commemorated in streets, for far uptown in the Bronx Borough are Whittier, Longfellow, Halleck and Poe Avenues.

In their time Broad Street and Broadway have masqueraded under various aliases. So have a score of other streets. For instance Morton was once Arden Street, Astor Place was once Art Street, Clinton was once Arundel Street, lower Centre has been various-ly called Augusta, Cross and Collect; Duane was once Barclay west of Broadway and Barley Street east of it. Barclay Street was early Berkeley Street (a London copy), and on very old maps its name was spelled according to the English pronunciation of that word—Barkley. Morris Street was once Beaver Lane, and, according to Indian tradition, the industrious beaver thereabouts builded dams and was ignominiously trapped and skinned.

Ridge Street on the east side was once Bridge Street, but inasmuch as there was another Bridge Street in the Whitehall direction, the aldermen struck off the capital B. Elm Street was once Benson's Lane and Bott Street. Spring Street was once Brannon Street, but a delightful spring at the Sullivan Street corner (veterans still remember the cool water pump once there) gave it the new name. Hancock Street in the Ninth Ward was once Brook Street, after the Minetta stream purling through it; but the bold signature on the Declaration of Independence captured it, and, unlike Tennyson's, its brook did not run on forever.

Vandam was once Budd Street, Broome once Bullock; Duane was once Colden Street. Commons Street changed to Park Row when the Colonial Commons became City Hall Park. Grove Street had three former aliases—Cozine, Burrows and Columbia; but the beautiful trees on each side interlacing their branches suggested the new name; old Crabapple Street became Pike; Crown Point road changed to Grand because of its comparative width; West of Broadway Bleecker was once called David Street; South William had the early colloquial unofficial names of both Dirty Lane and Ditch Street; Fulton Street was Division Street West of St. Paul's Chapel, after being Partition Street, and Eastward was Fair Street.

Once William Street, between Old Slip and Liberty, commemorated the ubiquitous John Smith. West of Broadway Canal Street, while the canal stretching through the Lispenard meadows, was known as Duggan's Causeway, and only crossed Centre Street by extention forty years ago; East Broadway became so out of Harmon Street; University Place was once styled Jackson Avenue.

Early in the century a commission mapped out the area of the island between Fourteenth Street and Harlem River according to the present plan. With the exception of the bow shaped Pearl Street the city has now lost the picturesquely curved thoroughfares that are met with in London and Boston. There were several originally curved rural roads which had to yield to the maps of the commissioners, and among them Abingdon Road, that ran from Eighth Avenue, between Twenty-first and Twenty-second Streets, into Broadway, and then curving northeasterly toward Third Avenue met it at Twenty-third Street, with woodland and farm land on either side.

Albany Avenue, beginning at Twenty-sixth Street, between Fifth and Madison Avenues, curved northwesterly to the corner of what is now Sixth Avenue and Forty-second Street, and so northward to Ninety-third Street. Then the Bloomingdale road assumed a few curves from the top of Broadway at Union Square, as it ran to Fifty-ninth Street, and thence upward, preparing a path for the Tweed Boulevard. Two or three picturesque and curving lanes existed through the early part of the century on the east side, above Nineteenth Street. What is now Avenue A was then known as Pleasant Avenue.

It is estimated that twenty millions of dollars has been expended on the opening of streets within this century. A mania for cutting new streets according to the map plan of the Commissioners originated during the thirties, consequent upon a wild speculation in city lots. It was then a club joke that witty Simeon Draper—the Chauncey Depew of the period—who displayed a gastronomic corporation in his figure, met the Corporation Counsel one evening at a large stag party, and warned him away, saying, "Don't come near me or you'll be moving a corporation street through me." At that period this official received heavy fees for street opening, and three incumbents, always eager to open new streets, laid foundations for handsome fortunes.

About the same period another mania set in among property holders for calling parts of streets "place," and hence on a large scale Waverly, Clinton and Washington Places, and on a smaller scale Leroy Place, in Bleecker, between Mercer and Greene; Carroll Place, between Laurens and Thompson; on the next block De Pau Place, Boorman Place, on West Thirty-third Street, between Eighth and Ninth Avenues; Stuyvesant Place and Breevoort Place, on West Tenth, between Broadway and University Place.

The east side householders caught the infection and established Albion Place, on East Eighth Street; Camden Place, on East Eleventh Street, between Avenues B and C; Tompkins Place, near Twelfth Street and Avenue A; Decatur Place, in East Seventh Street, between First Avenue and Avenue A, and Wesley Place, on Mulberry, near Bleecker. Then Lorillard Place, on Washington Street, between Charles and Perry; Millward Place, on West Thirty-first, between Eighth and Ninth Avenues, and Mansfield Place, on West Fifty-first Street, between Eighth and Ninth Avenues, and Springler Place, on Fifteenth Street, near Broadway, came in time to west siders. Three localities claimed Cottage Place as their own, and there were several other forgotten places, such as Hamilton Place, in West Fifty-first Street, near Fifth Avenue.

New York's nomenclature of streets has avoided the London confusion of having one thoroughfare take on in succession several names, although Broad Street and Broadway have each masqueraded in their lengths under several aliases in the past. Broadway has been subjected to more upheavals, and what may be called contractor earthquakes, than any other city thoroughfare. It endured, for instance, in 1848 a widening from Twenty-first to Twenty-fifth street; in 1860, from Fifty-seventh to Sixtieth; in 1872, from Thirty-fourth to Fifty-ninth, and in 1870, from Seventeenth to Nineteenth. It was a victim to the mammoth Russ block pavement during the fifties.

Lafayette Place had birth in 1827, Irving Place in 1833, and about the same time Lexington Avenue, to be extended later to Harlem River. Madison Avenue, above Forty-second Street, only dates from 1860. In 1852 a boodling Common Council that had undertaken to bleed old Commodore Vanderbilt upon a Broadway extension of his Harlem road at Union Square—but was beaten because the wily old Commodore cornered its stock, of which the Aldermen had gone short—next undertook to blackmail Trinity Church corporation by extending Pine Street through the Trinity graveyard to the North River.

But instead of paying the Aldermen money to stop the proposed job, Gen. Dix, then one of the vestry, adroitly parried the spoliation by passing a resolution to build a monument to Revolutionary heroes precisely in the line of the proposed street extension, and at once laid the foundation of the proposed monument. Under those circumstances the Aldermen dared not persist. Hence is to be seen the noble brownstone monument at the northerly corner of the churchyard and close against Trinity building.

Wonderful changes have taken place in the character and surroundings of many streets. Along State Street, where are now immigrant boarding houses, a Tory aristocracy once gave balls to colonial fashionables. The beer houses of lower Greenwich Street have been carved out of once fashionable mansions. Where passengers go now on the South side of Bowling Green to buy tickets for Europe were the dwellings of wealthy citizens.

Wall Street was once the residence of prominent Knickerbockers, and was as fashionable in 1797 as is West Seventy-second Street in 1897. Roosevelt and Cherry Streets were a hundred years ago inhabited by well to do merchants. The Grapevine public house, yet at the corner of Eleventh Street and Sixth Avenue, and the Willow Cottage, on Fifth Avenue, next to the Forty-third Street synagogue, were once suburban roadhouses to which owners of horses, who lived in Park Place or White Street, rode or drove out for luncheons or rest.

Where jostling crowds of shoppers now throng Fourteenth Street, Knickerbockers came to view the Spingler manor grounds, rich with flowers and verdure, where now only a small garden and a majestic elm tree indicate the rural memories of the spot. Columbia collegians have played ball in vacant lots along Twenty-third street. Canal Street was once a resort for shoppers and bargain hunters, as lower Sixth Avenue is now.

Later Mayors have been remembered in Varian Place, at Woodlawn Road, in Opdyke Street, that connects Oneida and Quail Avenues; in Hewitt Place, at the junction of Robbins and Westchester Avenues, and Hoffman Street, which connects Kingsbridge Road with Pelham Avenue. Harry Howard Square, at Canal, Walker and Baxter Streets, brings to mind the name of an Alderman and receiver of taxes, once chief engineer of the old Volunteer Fire Department, who became paralyzed from overexertion at a big fire.

Jennie Lind's vocal fame recurs to pedestrians in Lind Avenue that runs between Devoe and Wolf Streets. Marcy Place, at Jerome and Mott Avenues, reminds of New York's great Governor, and afterward a Federal Secretary of State. Martindale Avenue suggests the name of a valiant Union general, who served as New York's Attorney General. Mohegan Avenue puts one in mind of Cooper's novel; Marmion and Melrose Streets, of Walter Scott's poetry; Marshfield Street, at Van Cortlandt Avenue, suggests Daniel Webster's farming and fishing life; Lydig Avenue takes its name from the former country farm of a great Knickerbocker merchant. It is crossed by Oriole Avenue—name fragrant to Baltimoreans who are familiar with the plumage and song of their favorite bird.

Adjacent Preble, Truxton and Porter Streets carry with their names a heroic naval flavor, and ornithology is remembered in the name of Audubon Avenue—for the Audubon brothers were long popular New Yorkers, and the name also belongs to a park adjacent to Trinity cemetery, carved from the old Audubon estate. Barney Street, near Spuyten Duyvil, commemorates a great lawyer, who became Lincoln's first collector of this port, and Bristow Street suggests one of Grant's Secretaries of the Treasury, who died as a New Yorker. Caxton Street serves to remind of the discovery of printing.

Craven Street commemorates the brave captain at the taking of Mobile by Farragut. The name Emmet Avenue delights the eyes of Irishmen who remember Robert and Thomas Addis Emmet. Gerard Avenue serves to recall the wit of James W., senior, who brightened court and drawing rooms for half a century. And doubtless as the borough of Bronx climbs northward new streets will further illustrate colloquial and heroic names for future generations.—Exchange.

BY WAY OF ENGLAND.

The crew of the United States man-o'-war Yankee was made up largely from New York's Naval Reserve. One of these was one day doing his trick at the wheel, when Commander Brownson came up alongside him, and, after watching him a few minutes, said:

"No, sir; I haven't been practicing much," said Billy.

"Yes, sir;" said Billy, "I have.'

"Where?" said Brownson.

"All along the Atlantic coast," says Billy.

"What did you steer?" says Brownson.

"I—I see," says Brownson.

SPORTS ALL.

The liberality of United States Senators is not proportionate to their wealth as a rule, and no one is in a better position to learn this than the waiters in the restaurant. One of these latter was asked recently which he preferred to wait on—Senators or sports.

"Well, I reckon Mr. Hanna, Mr. Lodge, Mr. Warren and Mr. Smith come near bein' the bestes. Of co'se, dere are udders, but dese are my men. Gimme dese four and I wants no mo'."—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

THE 1899 CLIPPER ANNUAL.

Below we present the opinions of a few of the sporting and dramatic editors regarding the value of the 1899 issue of THE CLIPPER ANNUAL, a book that years ago became a standard authority on matters appertaining to indoor sports of all branches, as also of stage happenings, and which, as will be observed from the tenor of complimentary notices here published, not only retains its position at the head, but grows in favor with the lapse of years.

A Comprehensive Reference Book.

From The Book World.

The proprietors of THE NEW YORK CLIPPER, the old established representative paper of the amusement professions, are to be warmly congratulated on the excellence of their ANNUAL. The issue for 1899 is in no way inferior to—in fact, it is even better, if that be possible than—the previous ones. It includes all particulars on every branch of sport, such as theatrical chronologies, aquatic and athletic performances, and contains a list of deaths in the professions, racing and trotting records, matters appertaining to baseball, cricket, 'cycling, etc. THE ANNUAL should be in the hands of every one interested in any department of sport or amusement. Once more it is our pleasing task to draw attention to the quality of the illustrations, which in themselves form no mean feature of a carefully compiled, admirably arranged and distinctly comprehensive sportsman's book of reference.

Well Compiled Cricket Record.

The American Cricketer.

We are in receipt of THE CLIPPER ANNUAL for 1899, a most interesting little volume, covering all the sports in this country and also abroad. It gives considerable space this year to cricket and the doings of cricketers, and its records of the grand old game are excellently compiled. It contains a fund of information which should prove of keen interest to all sportsmen.

DOWN CAME HER

salary, simply because managers said her act had become a chestnut. What hurt her most of all was that her friend, Tottie Dashwood, was being sought out by the foremost managers and allowed to make her own terms. But then Tottie was a regular purchaser of Madison's Budget—in fact she had bought every number as issued. Here is what she wrote her friend: "Miss Wilbea Chestnut—Dear Old Girl: The other day I met Kittie Slathers on Broadway, and she told me that you were all broke up because managers wouldn't give you any work. Well, it's your own fault, and that's no war extra. Get next to yourself and send for Budget No. 4 and your luck will change quick enough. Jim Madison has written ten new parodies for this number, and besides it contains the finest collection of monologues, stump speeches, sidewalk conversation and miscellaneous jokes and stories that I ever saw. If you can't get a good act out of all that, well then, you'd better accept a job down at Dennett's dusting religious mottoes. So be wise, and send one dollar to JAMES MADISON, 134 East 79th St., New York, and your troubles will be over. Your old dressing room partner, TOTTIE DASHWOOD."

"P. S.—If you see Tommie Mulrooney tell him he never would have got that diamond ring away from me if he hadn't worked the drops on me first. Tell him to send me the ticket and all will be forgiven. TOTTIE."

SPECIAL.

In reply to numerous inquiries, I beg to announce that I have in active preparation a brilliant comedy afterpiece, in one act and one scene, entitled

'IN THE OFFICE UPSTAIRS'

(Copyright applied for), with six characters—Soubrette, Leading Lady, Dutch or Irish Comedian, Black Face Comedian, Hebrew, Juvenile Swell. Full of wholesome, screaming fun and ludicrous situations. No brickbats, no stuffed clubs, no seltzer bottles or antediluvian props. "In the Office Upstairs" will run about forty minutes. Ready for delivery on or about July 5. Price, ten dollars per copy, and, as only a limited number will be sold, early application is requested. This is a grand opportunity to secure a real, high grade comedy at a very moderate price. My well earned reputation as a vaudeville writer will be sufficient guarantee to my friends and patrons that 'In the Office Upstairs" will be precisely as represented. JAMES MADISON, 134 East 79th St., New York.

CURES QUICKER

Tarrant's Extract of Cubebs and Copaiba is a safe, certain and quick cure, and is an old time remedy, combining in a highly concentrated form the medicinal virtues of cubeba and copaiba, its portable shape, freedom from taste and speedy action (curing in less time than any other preparation) make it THE MOST VALUABLE KNOWN REMEDY. To prevent fraud, see that every package has a red strip across the face of label, with the signature of Tarrant & Co., N. Y., upon it. PRICE, $1.00. Sold by all druggists.
